STOCK MART VIOLATION CHARGED

Brookhart Citation Based on Whitney Testimony

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The New York Stock Exchange was charged with violation of the anti-trust laws by Senator Brookhart (Rep.), of Iowa, today.

With Richard Whitney, president of the exchange on the stand in the Senate stock market investigation, Brookhart asserted that the exchange's practice of accepting buying orders from houses seeking to "maintain prices" in securities they were at the time marketing was a disregard of law. He asked Whitney:

"Don't you think this practice is a violation of anti-trust laws?"

Whitney replied:

DEMAND MADE

The issue was raised by the Iowan after he cited testimony of Whitney before the committee a year ago. Brookhart at first declared that in this testimony Whitney had admitted that the exchange itself "maintained prices" while syndicates marketed certain securities. Whitney denied this, saying:

"Orders are accepted by the exchange. The syndicates may be trying to maintain the market while merchandising securities, but these are simply buying orders on the exchange. The exchange is not maintaining any price."

EXPLAIN MYSTERY LOAN

WASHINGTON March 1.—The mysterious $10,020 cash withdrawal from the National City Company's expense fund for handling $66,000,000 of New York Port Authority bonds of June 2, 1931, was explained today to the Senate Stock Market Committee as a personal loan made to John Ramsay, manager of the Port Authorities.

H. C. Sylvester, Jr., vice president of the company in charge of municipal financing, said he directed D. C. Baldwin, company treasurer, to hand him the cash, that he turned it over to Edward F. Barrett, a vice president of the company and that he "presumed" a note was given.

Senate to Probe 'Short' Wheat Sales

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(INS.)—A resolution calling upon the secretary of agriculture for detailed facts concerning short selling in wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade was approved today by the Senate.

The secretary of agriculture was directed to furnish the Senate a "full disclosure of the names and addresses of all persons and firms" holding a speculative short position in excess of 1,000,000 bushels at any time during the past three years.

Windy March Makes Lamb-Like Debut

March, the month of wind, made a lamb-like entrance into Pittsburgh today. Weather was fair and mild. From a low of 32 this morning the mercury began climbing. Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said fair weather with mild temperatures was in store for this district for several days.

DryRepeal Program Fought

Both wets and drys here today sharply criticized the McClure bill, now before the Assembly, providing for a state convention to consider repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The bill originally provided for 33 delegates-at-large. The Senate Law and Order Committee has amended it to provide for the election of 17 delegates at large and one delegate from each of the 34 Congressional districts.

The drys declare that delegates-at-large will be elected by the vote of the big cities and, consequently, the prohibitionists will not receive a square deal. They insist that the convention system as outlined in the McClure bill is in the hands of the wets and that if followed, it will probably result in the return of the old-fashioned saloon.

HOUSE OPPOSITION

Members of the House are reported from Harrisburg as not satisfied with the present form of the McClure bill, which provides that for the delegates-at-large there shall be 17 wets, 17 drys and 17 non-committal members nominated.

McClure explained today that the provision for a non-committal candidate was made on the advice of W. W. Montgomery, attorney for the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. Montgomery said the Supreme Court had ruled that the Constitution could not be amended through direct referendum, but must be undertaken by a "deliberative body." Inclusion of a non-committal candidate would meet this objection, he contended.

Because both district delegates and delegates-at-large must have 2,000 signatures on their petitions, doubt is raised on whether many non-committal candidates would appear on the ballot.

1 BANK LIMITS WITHDRAWALS

One bank in Pittsburgh—the Pennsylvania Trust Company, of Fifth avenue—today invoked a restriction on withdrawals by depositors. At the same time, A. E. Braun, president of the Pittsburgh Clearing House Association, said:

"I know of no other Pittsburgh banks planning to take similar action."

The trust company's restriction followed the regular clearing house meeting today. All deposits were tied up while representatives of the bank conferred with the State Banking Department in an effort to determine the percentage of allowable withdrawals.

The action means that all money deposited in the bank today and in the future will be subject to the usual rules and free from restrictions. Money deposited before a date to be decided upon by the Secretary of Banking and the bank officials will be paid by the bank at a restricted rate in certain scheduled percentages. These percentages were to be announced later today.

JAPS SMASH CHINESE LINES

Army Nearing Jehol, Captures Important Stronghold

International News Service.

The powerful Chinese second line of defense before Jehol City was broken today when Japanese troops captured Chihfeng, strategic city at the northern terminus of the line, after a bitter engagement.

Japanese military sources claimed that the Chinese resistance in Jehol province is collapsing, that Tang Yu-Lin, Jehol Governor, has admitted his inability to defend his capital, and that 200,000 Chinese in Jehol have already deserted to Manchukuo, Japan's "puppet state."

Tension in North China increased following the arrival of additional Japanese warships at Chinwangtao, bringing the total number to 16.

TOKIO, March 1.—Defying bullets, snow and sub-zero gales, Japanese troops today captured Chihfeng, northern terminus of the Chinese battleline defending Jehol City.

Occupation of the important stronghold followed a bitter battle, and placed the invaders in a strategic position for subjection of the entire province of Jehol.

Indicating capture of their ultimate goal, Jehol City, capital of the province, may be only a matter of days, Japanese troops also occupied Tachangtze, another Chinese outpost west of the main defense line, and the city of Lingyuan.

Capture of Chihfeng was accomplished by Maj. Gen. Mogi's 4th Cavalry Brigade, and placed Japanese-Manchukuon troops in possession of more than half of Jehol province.

Fall of this city was regarded as one of the most important triumphs for the Japanese forces in the Jehol campaign to date, since it broke the Chinese defense line that has offered stubborn resistance to the Japanese advance for nearly a week.

From dawn to dusk 30,000 Japanese troops and as many Chinese defenders battled for mastery of Mingshiutang pass. When nightfall ended the battle, it was estimated that 700 dead were left strewn on the field of combat.

Headquarters of the Japanese and Manchukuo armies announced tonight that 200,000 Chinese troops in Jehol province had sworn allegiance to the newly-formed Manchukuo government.

NANKING, China, March 1.—(AP.)—It was officially announced today that China was making representations in London in connection with the British arms embargo against China and Japan.

Mayor Kline Hearing His Sentence

MAYOR CHARLES H. KLINE IN BUTLER'S COURT TODAY . . . HE HAD NO COMMENT TO MAKE

Mayor Kline pictured in the courtroom at Butler for the session in which he heard himself sentenced to six months in jail, fined $5,000. An appeal to the Superior Court alone saves the Mayor today from removal for his office. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

Mayor Waits Hour in Court While Bond Is Arranged

BUTLER, Pa., March 1.—Mayor Charles H. Kline, of Pittsburgh, was [illegible] moved from office, se[illegible] tenced to six months i[illegible] the Allegheny County Jai[illegible] fined $5,000—and save[illegible] from all of these pendin[illegible] an appeal to the Superio[illegible] Court.

The Mayor gritted [illegible] teeth to restrain his com[illegible] posure as he heard sen[illegible] tence pronounced [illegible] Judge Thomas D. F[illegible] letter.

However, the Mayor ret[illegible] his office and will not go[illegible] jail immediately. His coun[illegible] obtained a supersedeas which stays the sentence pending appeal to the Superior Court.

The Mayor sat in his seat a[illegible] counsel table for perhaps a hal[illegible] minute after he had heard th[illegible] decision. Then he rose an[illegible] walked about the courtroom.

FRIENDS STAND BY

Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh came to him with sympathy. His brother-in-law, Dr. S. H. Johnson, and Frank R. Boyd, captain of Pittsburgh homicide detectives, followed. When asked if he had anything to say, Mayor Kline returned a curt, emphatic:

"No."

The severity of the sentence was a surprise, probably even to District Attorney Andrew T. Par[illegible] and his colleagues, who since June of 1931 have been prosecuting the Mayor on charges of misdemeanor in office. One of the defense lawyears was heard to exclaim.

"Whew! Didn't he burn him?"

Judge Finletter wasted little time in passing sentence.

After he had listened to the Mayor's chief counsel, Robert von-Moschzisker, for a half hour, and Earl F. Reed, special prosecutor, for perhaps five minutes, Finletter read the sentence.

Notice of the appeals to the Superior Court probably will be filed later today in Pittsburgh. The appeals will be argued o[illegible] sixth Monday from today. Aft[illegible] hearing these arguments the S[illegible] perior Court probably will requi[illegible] at least two weeks to hand down a decision.

MORE DELAY SEEN

Thus the Mayor is assured [illegible] retaining his office for at lea[illegible] two more months. If the Superi[illegible] Court turns him down, then [illegible] may ask the Supreme Court, which his head counsel was chi[illegible] justice, to review the case. RECOVERY SEEN FOR CERMAK

MIAMI, Fla., March 1.—(AP.)—Barring unforeseen developments, Mayor Anton Cermak, of Chicago, will recover from Giuseppe Zangara's bullet wound and the complications that followed it, his attending physicians announced today. Dr. Frederick Tice said:

"Mayor Cermak definitely is on the upgrade now. His lungs and heart sound good.

"Barring unforeseen circumstances, we now can say he will recover."

Dr. Karl A. Meyer and other physicians concurred in the statement.

Full chest examinations today showed a lessening of the pneumonic consolidation in the lower lobe of Cermak's right lung. The pneumonia first was reported Sunday. It doubled in size by Monday night, but remained stationary Tuesday and then diminished, the doctors said.

The colitis that caused some concern last week about Mayor Cermak's chances has lessened considerably, and he now is [illegible] to take by mouth sufficient foods to sustain him. The kidney action also has improved.

Pay Cut Fight Splits County Commissioners

W. D. Mansfield split with his fellow commissioners this afternoon at a meeting of the salary board when he refused to agree certain officials should not suffer reductions.

Siding with Mansfield was Country Controller Robert G. Woodside. McGovern and Woodside clashed when the latter declared thet solicitor said the commissioners had no right to call a salary board meeting unless asked by a department head.

Commissioners C. M. Barr and C. C. McGovern refused to cut salaries of the county solicitor and his assistants; McGovern's secretary and chauffeur, Urban Dice, head of the Department of Weights and Measures, and the heads of the other departments.

They took away Mansfield's chauffeur and made him a taxi driver, cutting his salary from $1,980 to $1,500, and cut Barr's and Mansfield's secretaries $150 a year. McGovern's secretary and chauffeur remain at their present salaries.

The salary of the Memorial hall superintendent, a G. A. R. veteran, was cut from $3,300 to $2,700. Mortimer B. Lesher, special counsel, at $7,000, was made an assistant county solicitor at $6,500.

Mansfield objected when McGovern and Barr wanted to give the $500 to John Lauer, present assistant who rates $4,500. Due to the deadlock, Woodside siding with Mansfield, the county solicitor's department remains the same.

Arch Powell, solicitor to Woodside, held the commissioners could not hold a meeting without a department head calling it. J. P. Fife county solicitor, and Lesher held the commissioners could,

COYNE BROTHER POSTS BOND

"Tom" Coyne, brother of State Senator James J. Coyne, today had posted $3,000 bond to guarantee his appearance in court to answer a charge of being a common gambler and liquor law violator. He was one of three "Toms" indicted by the grand jury yesterday on the allegation that they were the real owners of the swanky Monaca Club, recently raided by state police.

Coyne appeared at the District Attorney's office today, entering through a rear door, it was said. His bondsman is R. P. Alexander, contractor, of 3430 Ward street, whose surety was his dwelling, assessed at $17,680. Alexander said he had never been a bondsman before.

Bay Rum Raiders Invade 5 & 10's and Cigar Store

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

BUTLER, March 1.—Accused of selling bay rum for beverage purposes, according to District Attorney Edgar Negley, managers of 5-and-10-cent stores, a W. T. District Attorney Negley said [illegible] constables and [illegible] Hardee Hepler [illegible] places and seized 36 cases of bay rum. The 5-and-10 cent stores are operated by the G. G. McCrory, F. W. Woolworth and S. S. Kresge companies.

According to Negley, the managers failed to heed warnings he had given months ago. He said more than 1,400 empty bottles bearing bay rum labels were found at various times about the court house where vagrants loiter.

Sunday Baseball Bill Advanced in Senate

HARRISBURG, March 1.—(INS.)—Blue law and prohibition legislation today forged ahead another step toward its acid test in Pennsylvania's Senate.

Both branches cleared their calendars within an hour and members were delayed in quitting Harrisburg before noon only by a public hearing granted to unemployed marchers.

The Schwartz House bill legalizing outdoor sports on Sunday and the McClure dry repeal convention measure were passed by the Senate on first reading as routine business. There was no debate and no roll call. Both will be on the second reading calendar Monday night. If approved then they will face the final passage vote in the upper branch Tuesday morning.

The Steedle blue law modifier, an extension of the baseball bill, was not called up in the House and remains on the second calendar reading.

Final approval of the Schwartz bill in the Senate Tuesday would bring it back into the House on the same day for concurrence in amendments. If the House concurs the measure will go to the Governor. FRAWLEY, Gen.

OC VELT READY FOR WHITE HOUSE AFTER NAMING AIDE

we, McIntyre, Early To Have Charge; No 'Literary' Helper

HYDE PARK, N. Y., 1.—(AP.)—President- oosevelt completed the a of his official family and with a serious mind ight heart turned toward White House.

He picked "Louis, Mac and Steve" for his secretariat—Louis M. Howe, senior secretary, and Marvin H. McIntyre, of Kentucky, and Stephen T. Early, of Virginia, as his other chief aides in the White House.

The Cabinet was completed officially last night with the announcements of Miss Frances Perkins, New York state commissioner of labor, as the secretary of labor and Daniel C. Roper, of South Carolina, as secretary of commerce.

FRIENDS AS AIDES

So far as immediate appointments are concerned, Mrs. Roosevelt has finished his task and has surrounded himself with trusted friends.

He will carry on the present hite House staff that has conInued through past Democratic nd Republican administrations-udolph Forster as executive clerk; Pat McKenna, as executive office doorkeeper; and Erwin H Hoover, as head usher. These are men who know American officialdom and how to keep the wheels spinning smoothly at the White House.

With this groundwork, Mr. Roosevelt is in a position to take active control of the Government next Saturday noon. It is probable that William H. Woodin, new Secretary of the Treasury, around whom is revolving the national iness and banking situation, ll see Mr. Roosevelt in New York night or tomorrow.

The President-elect is represented as keenly alive to the banking roblem and watching it closely.

EAVES TODAY

Mr. Roosevelt was to leave here te today by automobile for New ork to spend the night. He kes with him to Washington his nily and personal secretary, ss Marguerite Lehand. They ave a carload of personal correspondence and official business to haul along.

Also, there will be found at the ite House next Saturday the hful Erwin McDuffie, Negro t to Mr. Roosevelt, and the ro cook and maid of the osevelt household. They ined upon going and Mr. and rs. Roosevelt would not say no.

In continuing the three-fold secretariat established by President Hoover, Mr. Roosevelt explained he was abolishing the post of literary secretary.

By this move, he emphasized, he was doing at the White House what he expected other departments to do in the way of economy.

Louis M. Howe, citizen of Massachusetts and for years an intimate of Roosevelt, is going to "run the shop" and take care of the correspondence. Howe said McIntyre would make appointments and look after visitors. Early is to be the public relations man and in charge of travels.

'PALS' OF ROOSEVELT

All three secretaries are old "pals" of Roosevelt. Early and McIntyre were associated with him as newspapermen when he was Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Next week Mr. Roosevelt turns to the tremendous task of naming the scores of assistant secretaries and the heads of the diplomatic corps.

The prize diplomatic plums are fast disappearing. Robert W. Bingham, Louisville publisher, is slated for London; Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, for Italy; possibly Jesse I. Straus, of New York, for Paris, and probably Clark M. Howell, of Atlanta, or Robert Dunham, of Chicago, for Berlin.

It seems now that the career diplomats, Joseph C. Grew, at Tokio, and Nelson T. Johnson, in hina, may be continued, together with William S. Culbertson Chile.

PLAN FOR DRY REPEAL FIGHT

"The proposed plan of the state leaders giving the people a chance to vote for only 17 instead of 33 delegates-at-large, would be most unfair to the citizens as a whole. If the number of delegates-at-large cannot be greatly increased before the measure becomes a law, it will indicate that coercion by the drys is still exercised over state leaders who, lacking courage, refuse to abide by the will of the people, and will not allow a majority of the people to be represented in the convention. This would mean that dry gerrymandering would disgrace the state of Pennsylvania."

DRY OBJECTIONS

"Why not use the plan followed by the state in electing members to the Legislature in choosing delegates to this convention? In electing 17 delegates-at-large, it is the evident purpose to have Philadelphia and Pittsburgh control the situation. That is not fair and equitable.

"And then that non-committal delegate; why not have them all one way or the other? That third fellow is a 'nigger in the woodpile.' And don't forget that if the repeal amendment is adopted, we'll have the old time saloon."

The Rev. Dr. D. E. Cruea, district superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League:

"The convention system is in the hands of the wets, and the drys cannot expect a square deal. The idea of degelates-at-large simply means that the big cities have always been for a wide open town and the big cities elect the delegates-at-large. Give the drys a square deal and they would have a chance to win this fight."

Today

tle as our present separation from the planet Mars.

Everything that we need we have, including abundant gasoline for our automobiles, at about twelve cents a gallon, and the twelve cents to buy it. One of our 48 states has more automobiles than the whole of England.

SAMUEL UNTERMYER, well known New York lawyer, who is here, learning about relativity from Prof. Einstein, says the government must take over the railroads.

If that should happen, how would the government manage those roads, when taken over? Would they be put in charge of professional politicians, or of experienced railroad men, well paid?

WITH GOOD railroad management, the nation's right to ignore the Sherman act, and get rid of meddling boards of control, would mean gigantic savings, and earnings sufficient to pay a fair price to the owners. Any wise holder of railroad bonds would gladly exchange them for two per cent government bonds.

The railroads, however, need more than government ownership, and the economies that it would make possible. They need reorganization, reconstruction, abandonment of obsolete methods.

THE SLOW passenger car, weighing one hundred and fifty thousand pounds, carrying twenty passengers, weighing four thousand pounds, at most, must be replaced by the ten thousand pound duralumin car, carrying thirty passengers, and traveling one hundred and forty miles an hour.

Engineers can produce that car. Modern railroads are almost as obsolete as was the stage coach, one hundred years ago.

GREEN HITS F. R. LABOR CHOICE

WASHINGTON, March 1. —(AP.)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said in a statement today the officers and members of the federation were "keenly disappointed" over President-elect Roosevelt's selection of Miss Frances Perkins as secretary of labor. Green said:

"Labor has consistently contended that the Department of Labor should be what its name implies and that the Secretary of Labor should be representative of labor, one who understands labor, labor's problems, labor's psychology."

The statement by Green came after officials of the National League of Women Voters, the Woman's Party and other prominent women had joined in praising the selection of Miss Perkins for the labor post.

Nellie Tayloe Ross, vice chairman of the Democratic party, in a telegram to Mr. Roosevelt, said:

"This is a red letter day for women. I am sure I voice the sentiment of millions when I say we deeply appreciate your progressive action in appointing a woman to your cabinet."

MOTHER ENDS SILENCE OVER DEATH CASE

Declares Son Never Killed Ruth Wilson, Girl He Loved

Universal Service.

MT. HOLLY, N. J., March 1.—A Quaker mother today broke her silence of four years and told reporters why she and her husband have demanded a reopening of the investigation into the double killing of their son, Horace Roberts, Jr., found shot to death with his fiancee, Ruth Wilson, in 1929—the case which officials insist was "whitewashed" as a suicide and murder.

Mrs. Horace Roberts, a gentle, kindly, gray haired little woman, said:

"I do not want vengeance. I do not want anyone punished. I only want to clear the name of my dead son. No one believes that Horace committed the act he was blamed for.

"Even if he had entertained thoughts of self-destruction, he never would have harmed Ruth. He had other girls, but Ruth was the only girl he ever loved, and Ruth Wilson returned that love. She was like a daughter to us. She visited us often. We were ready to welcome her into our family."

A little black book, in which has been written an informal but purportedly startling history of the Wilson-Roberts slayings, was to be lifted from its hideaway in a bank vault for study by Burlington County authorities today.

The book is the personal property of former Coroner Benjamin F. Farner, who wrote 130 pages in it about the slayings.

In the meantime investigation of the double shooting which has been linked to the recent unsolved murder of Bradway Brown, young Palmyra publisher and friend of the dead boy and girl, continued.

Friends have expressed the belief that young Brown was murdered because "he knew too much" about the Wilson-Roberts case.

BILL ASKS CITY BOND HOLIDAY

WASHINGTON March 1.—(AP.)—Chairman Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, of the Senate Judiciary Committee, today introduced in the Senate a bill providing for bond moratoriums by municipalities and called the committee to meet tomorrow to consider it.

The action evidenced agitation for such an emergency move by Congress, Mayor Frank Murphy, of Detroit, having testified in the forenoon to a House committee that such legislation was "absolutely necessary."

"We can't meet the fixed charges and keep the schools running nine months more and keep up the police, fire and other public services."

He said that municipalities everywhere "are within a year of the end of their rope," and stressed that the banking situation in Michigan and elsewhere, hampering tax payments.

FORD AIDE ASKS FOR GUARD

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich., March 1.—(AP.)—Ernest G. Liebold, general secretary to Henry Ford, located here after a 30-hour search throughout lower Michigan, said today that he left on an "unannounced vacation" because he needed rest. He said:

"I needed rest and I went to get it. And I feel fine for the first time in months."

To Trooper Sylvester Niebzelski, of the Traverse City post of the State Police, Liebold said he had been under constant high pressure for two weeks. He added that he "could not stand the strain."

Liebold had borne a major part of the burden of aiding in the efforts Henry Ford was making to relieve the Detroit banking situation. His disappearance from Detroit alarmed friends and family.

Trooper Niebzelski was sent to the Park Place Hotel, where Liebold registered under an assumed name, at Liebold's own request. He had asked that a man be sent "to protect me so I can rest quietly."

Liebold had not been seen or heard since 11 a. m. Monday, until last night when he telephoned his employer from here.

MELLON SEES GOOD IN CRISIS

LONDON, March 1.—(AP.)—The banking crisis in the United States is only temporary, and is not an unmixed evil, United States Ambassador Mellon said today in an address to American newspaper correspondents. He told the guests at a luncheon:

"I am fully confident that this is a temporary crisis and that American banking will benefit by the reforms which undoubtedly will come as a result of the difficulties through which we are passing.

"I have lived through similar crises in the 70's and the 90's. I heard predictions of disaster then just as we hear them now, and I saw those predictions followed by complete recovery.

"Certainly it would be very rash indeed to doubt the future of a country which possesses the territory, the climate, the raw materials and the industrious population which make up the United States."

Henry Ford Gives V On Running Ban

DETROIT, March 1.—What are the duties of a bank, as seen by Henry Ford?

How should they be fulfilled and how administered?

Ford gave the answer himself today. He said:

"The first duty of a bank is to be a safe depository for money, and this first duty should never be subordinated to risky profit-making on the depositors' money.

"Too many depositors have put their money in banks for safekeeping, and then have not been able to get it out. The bank had speculated with it and lost.

"It is just as if I had put my car in a garage and, when I came to get it, I found that somebody else had borrowed it and run it into a tree.

"That's just what many banks have let happ ple's money. They some one else take it into a tree.

2 BOYS TRAPPED IN MAIL HOLDUP

WHEELING, W. Va., March 1.—(AP.)—One hundred policemen and deputies ambushed two boys and prevented the robbery of a mail car in the Baltimore and Ohio passenger station last night.

Officers said the pair, Don Wilson, 23, of suburban Elm Grove, and Charles Braddish, 23, of Wheeling, confessed.

No estimate has been made of the value of the contents of two mail bags which the boys threw into a taxi before their capture.

Joseph Doyle, 30, driver of the cab, was held for questioning. Police said the boys had held him up and ordered him to drive to the rear of the station, where mail from the train was being unloaded into a truck.

Ten shots were fired at the pair as they raced toward the taxi. Seeing men closing in on them from every direction, they surrendered.

Dail Abolishes Oath To British Crown

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 1. — (AP.) — The Dail Eireann today passed a vote of 75 to 49 a government bill abolishing the oath of allegiance to the British crown. The measure now goes to the Senate.

From the beginning of his political career President Eamon de Valera has campaigned for the abolition of the oath.

Bill to Cut Loan Interest in Senate

HARRISBURG, March 1.—(INS.)—Senator W. D. Pethick, Dayne, introduced a bill today reducing rate of interest which may be charged on loans of $300 or less to not more than one-half of one per cent. The present rate is 3½ per cent. The bill also requires the licensing of lenders.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(INS.)—Among relief and self-liquidating loans made today by the R. F. C. was one to Pennsylvania of $3,224,429, for use in 67 counties during March. The state had previously received $26,705,446.

NICOLA DEFENDS SELF IN TRIAL

F. F. Nicola, real estate operator, on trial before Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, testifying yesterday in his own behalf, denied willful intent to evade payment of $26,394 income taxes for 1928, as charged by the government. The trial was expected to close today.

Nicola under direct and cross examination for nearly two hours, told of operations of companies of which he is the head, including the Point Improvement Company and the Miller Printing Machinery Company, which have figured prominently in the trial.

He was unable to recall any memorandum made by him directing Lasalle Girts, former secretary of the Point Improvement Company, to ascertain overhead burdens of his companies that would be an offset to possible profits. The government had produced what purported to be a copy of the memorandum attached to a voucher for $101,250 Nicola was said to have received from the Miller Printing Machinery Company as commission on sale of patents for $675,000.

The defendant is represented by Attorney J. A. Richardson and Maynard Teall and the government by First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh and Attorney John A. McCann, Pittsburgh representative of general counsel, Bureau of Internal Revenue.

BOND INTEREST DEFAULTED

Pittsburgh Hotels Corporation, owner of the William Penn and Fort Pitt Hotels, was unable to pay interest coupons due today on its $10,207,500 issue of 5½ per cent first mortgage bonds, according to the Union Trust Company, trustee for the issue.

The company, which has been in receivership since September 23, 1930, previously defaulted payments on its junior bond issues but up to the present time has been regularly paying interest on its first mortgage.

At the offices of the National City Company, leading banking house in the syndicate which underwrote the bond issue in 1928, it was declared that a committee probably would be formed to protect the interests of the security holders and to take steps to reorganize the $21,000,000 hotel organization.

H. V. Blaxter, co-receiver with E. C. Eppley, declared today that he is not yet able to say what the next step will be in settling the corporation's affairs.

'Wild West' Bandits Raid Bank, 2 Shot

EMPORIA, Kan., March 1.—(INS.)—A bank robbery, staged in real wild west fashion with the bandits "whooping and shooting," resulted in the wounding and capture of one of four masked desperadoes who looted the Citizens National Bank of an undetermined amount of cash today.

The other bandits escaped in an automobile amid shots fired by police who were summoned to the scene by the bank's burglar alarm, set off by an employe after the thugs had shot down and critically wounded H. A. Lord, the assistant cashier.

Pickpocket Trapped In Downtown Movie

A hole in Samuel Dietrich's hip pocket saved him $35. When a pickpocket reached for Dietrich's wallet, the "dip" stuck his thumb in the hole. That tipped off Dietrich, and, as he testified in police court, he grabbed the hand of David Dougherty, 37. Dougherty, known to police as "Wheeling Red," was sentenced to 90 days in the workhouse without a fine by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg. The attempted robbery occurred in a Fifth avenue movie.

160 Indians Saved As School Burns

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., March 1. — (AP.) — One hundred and sixty Indian girls, among them Gail Thorpe, 16-year-old daughter of Jim Thorpe, noted athlete, were led to safety early today when one of the dormitories at Chilocco Indian School was partly destroyed by fire.

IDENTIFY TWO KIDNAPERS

DENVER, Col., March 1.—(AP.)—Two of the abductors of Charles Boettcher II are known, Police Chief Albert T. Clark announced as the sixteenth day of the captivity of the young broker passed. Clark declined to name them.

Beyond this, the chief said, there are no new developments in the case, although his office is still checking numerous clues. One check is being made of hired workers for a reform movement in which Mrs. Anna Lou Boettcher, wife of the broker, was interested in the November election. Mrs. Boettcher told police she believed one of the men who kidnaped her husband resembled a man she had seen at campaign headquarters.

With police withdrawn from guard duty within the homes of the missing man and his father, Claude K. Boettcher, the family hopes today to be able to deal more freely with extortionists who demanded $60,000 when they took the young clubman away about midnight February 12.

BERN SUICIDE, JURORS HOLD

After a week of investigation into the death of the film producer and husband of Jean Harlow, screen star, a formal statement was issued by grand jury members and representatives of the District Attorney's office in which they said:

"We are definitely of the opinion at this time that Paul Bern died a suicide. After a thorough and exhaustive examination, we are of the opinion that the facts, as disclosed, do not warrant the expenditure of public moneys for further proceedings in this case."

Bern was found shot to death in his Benedict Canyon home last September 5. A Coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide.

The renewed investigation of the death was made by grand jury members acting on their own initiative after they had received reports the death might not have been a suicide.

Dreiser Indictment Dropped in Kentucky

PINEVILLE, Ky., March 1.—(AP.) — Criminal syndicalism indictments against Theodore Dreiser, New York novelist, and members of his party who came here in November, 1931, to investigate conditions in the coal fields, and indictments against a group of alleged organizers and workers for the national miners' union were dismissed today in Bell circuit court.

Another indictment, involving Dreiser and Marie Pergain, also was dismissed.

Bill Would Limit Levy for Schools

HARRISBURG, March 1.—(AP.)—School districts would be limited to a levy of four mills of the assessed valuation under a bill introduced today by Reprdesentative H. A. Surface, Snyder.

Another scurface bill provides that township supervisors can impose no more than four mills for road purposes except by approval of court, which can order an additional levy of four mills for the payment of funded indebtedness.

BEAUTY FOUND MURDERED, SCION HELD

International News Service.

Bentley, 35 years old and married, admitted to police that he had been out with Miss Yonger last night, but said he could not remember anything that had happened.

FATHER COUNCILMAN

William Bentley, father of the youth, is a wealthy retired farmer, active in church work and considered a civic leader in Pontiac. The elder Bentley is completing his thirtieth year as a member of the City Council. He served as Mayor for three terms.

Mrs. Bentley, the beautiful young wife of the man held for questioning, is well known in Pontiac for her church and club work. She served on committees of the Methodist Church and the Pontiac Woman's Club.

WIFE COLLAPSES

When her husband was arrested this morning, the pretty young wife fainted and later told friends that the charges against her husband could not be true. She said she would stand back of her husband until the end. She said, between sobs:

"It can't be true, it can't.. it can't.

"Earl would never do an thing like that and I am n going to believe that he has eve been untrue to me.

"Regardless of what happen I will stick by him and hel him all I possibly can."

WOUNDED MAN ROUTS BANDIT

Wounded in a gun battle wi two bandits at Forbes and Mar streets last night, John P. Kel 65-year-old treasurer of the Brid and Structural Iron Local No. was in Mercy Hospital today whil police continued their city-wid search for the pair.

Kelly was walking to his home, 209 Van Braam street, when an automobile stopped at the curb in Forbes street at Marion street. A man leaped from the car and, pointing a revolver, ordered Kelly to throw up his hands. Instead of complying, Kelly reached into his pocket for a revolver. The thug struck the union official on the head with a blackjack which he held in the other hand.

Dazed by the blow, Kelly, however, whipped out his revolver. The thug fired twice. One bullet struck the victim in the calf of the left leg and the other grazed the left side of his neck. Kelly fired back as the man ran to the automobile at the wheel of which an accomplice awaited him.

Four boys whose names were not learned by police assisted Kelly to the hospital.

Kelly's resistance saved the union more than $700, police said. He was taking the funds to his home following a meeting at the union headquarters, 1345 Fifth avenue.

Physicians at the hospital said his condition was fair.

Arrest Balked Lindy Solution, Sleuth Says

CLEARFIELD, Pa., March 1.—(AP.)—J. J. Devine, a private detective on trial for abducting Garrett Schenck, Hopewell (N. J.) Fish monger, testified today that the Lindbergh kidnaping case would have been solved "within two weeks" had he not been prosecuted for holding Schenck prisoner.

The Lindbergh baby was kidnaped a year ago today.

Devine said under cross-examination that Schenck would have been involved in the kidnaping of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh's baby.

Schenck has claimed that he was abducted at Hopewell June 10, 1932, by Devine and eight others and taken to an isolated mountain cabin, where he was questioned about the Lindbergh case. He testified he knew nothing about it.

Devine said Schenck's removal from his "protection" on September 3, 1932, frustrated solution the baby's kidnaping and murd

[illegible]nation of political influ[illegible] from school systems with a [illegible] of boycott against those in [illegible] it exists will be studied next [illegible] Supt. John O. Chewning, of [illegible]nsville, Ind., said today.

Decision to make a survey by the department of superintendence, National Education Association, came as a result of a demand by William McAndrew, former Chicago superintendent, that action be taken to eliminate political domination from the schools. Mr. McAndrew said:

"My idea is that department members should boycott school systems where there is too much political influence, particularly where there have been dismissals for political cause. By that I mean educators should refuse to take jobs in such communities."

McAndrew was discharged as Chicago superintendent after a political controversy with former Mayor William Hale Thompson. He now edits an eudcational publication.

THREATEN ZOO PETS IN PLOT

[illegible]TLANTA, Ga., March 1.—[illegible])—A threat against the ani[illegible]s in Asa G. Candler, Jr.'s, pri[illegible] zoo if he refused to grant a [illegible]00 anonymous loan resulted in [illegible]ention of a young man booked [illegible]uspicion as John Lee Butler today.

[illegible]tal inspectors and city de[illegible]ves said they arrested Butler last night when he picked up [illegible]ackage left under the seat in [illegible]eater on directions in a letter [illegible]dler received.

[illegible]he letter said the $1,000 was [illegible]red for a girl friend who was [illegible] ill and that it would be re[illegible]d in three months with $500 [illegible]rest. There was no signature, the officers said Butler ad[illegible]ted he was the writer. The [illegible]te read:

"If you don't do this, I will [illegible]ill all the animals in your zoo [illegible]o show you I am not bluffing."

STRAY BULLET HITS MAN

A Helping Hand resident is in West Penn Hospital, victim of a stray bullet that struck him near the right eye as he was walking along the Pittsburgh side of the Allegheny River near the Sixteenth Street Bridge at noon today, and police are holding a North Side man in connection with the shooting.

Andrew Rozic, 40, was knocked to the ground by the bullet which, police say, apparently came from across the river. Shortly after, Arthur Rosentimer, 34, of Chestnut street and River avenue, was arrested as a suspicious person when police reported finding a 22-caliber rifle in his home, alleged to have been recently discharged.

This was the second victim of stray bullets in two days. Francis Boyle, 22, was shot in the left leg at Second avenue and Renova street late yesterday.

[illegible]oung Thaw to Pilot New Plane Eastward

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—(Universal.)—With Pilot Russell Thaw, son of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, at the controls, a shiny new airplane will speed away from the Lockheed Field within the next few days, bound for Long Island.

The plane was built for Mrs. E. A. Guggenheim, of Roslyn, L. I., who sent Thaw, her pilot, to Los Angeles to supervise the final details and take delivery of the completed ship.

Ulster Policeman Slain in Rail Clash

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, March 1.—(AP.)—Policeman John Ryan was shot and killed last night in a gun fight with six unidentified men who had opened fire on the police guard at the Great Northern railway freight station in the Falls district.

Police have been guarding the station since the Northern Ireland rail strike began about a month ago.

[illegible]ynamite Truck Seized at Havana

[illegible]AVANA, March 1.—(AP.)—A [illegible]ck loaded with dynamite was [illegible]ked for more than two hours [illegible]erday in front of police head[illegible]ters. The authorities ex[illegible]sed the opinion that it was [illegible] there by terrorists, who have [illegible] active in Havana since last [illegible] with the intention of [illegible] the headquarters [illegible]

CHAPLIN TRUST IN DISPUTE

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—(AP.)—Lita Grey Chaplin, former wife of Charles S. Chaplin, had announced today that she has been unable to agree with the film comedian on terms of a $100,000 trust fund for the care and education of their two children.

The children are Charles Spencer Chaplin, Jr., and Sydney Earl Chaplin. A recent court struggle ended in failure of the mother to win permission for the boys to act in the movies.

The petition set forth that Chaplin has complied with an agreement to provide a trust fund by depositing $100,000. Details of the property settlement made at the time of the Chaplin divorce were involved with the trust agreement, and some of the provisions are in dispute.

Hearing on the petition was set for March 10.

FOOD POISONING PERILS 2 LIVES

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 1.—Two of seven patients in a hospital here suffering from food poison remained in serious condition today, with improvement in the condition of five others.

Mrs. Irma Ovarcez, 41, of Central City, and her son-in-law, Stephen Bohusik, 29, may die, doctors said. The other patients are Edward Ovarcez, 41; Gaza, William and Joseph, his children, and Anna Bohusik, infant daughter of Stephen Bohusik.

Mr. and Mrs. Ovarcez made a head cheese at their home Monday and all seven became violently ill after eating some of it yesterday.

Auto Injuries Kill North Side Woman

Mrs. Theresa Pittman, 46, of 12 Radium street, North Side, died today in St. John's Hospital, of injuries received February 21 when struck by an automobile in Perrysville avenue, near East street. Miss Catherine Disaman, 428 Edgemont street, alleged driver of the car, will be called before a Coroner's jury.

Fur Dealer, Pilot Die in Plane Crash

DO HEADACHES DRIVE YOU CRAZY?

It's the worst kind of folly to dope and drug yourself every time you have one of those blinding, throbbing headaches. For drugs only relieve the pain for the moment, and in a little while the headache returns worse than ever and you have to drug yourself all over again. You've got to get at the cause.

Poisons created in your own body cause these severe headaches, and you must remove the poisons to get relief of a lasting nature.

By starting the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment, today, you may free yourself from this constant torment.

This new form of Nujol is specially designed to rid you of poisons which very often cause this condition.

Cream of Nujol contains no drugs, and does not in any way interfere with work or play. It is delicious to take. Moreover, you can use this modern treatment at a cost of but a few cents a day.

Take Cream of Nujol night and morning. Begin this very night and give it a real trial. Buy it at any drug counter.

Mother, 5 Children Die as Home Burns

BRICKS HURLED IN 'STRIP' WAR

Bricks crashed through windows in the Strip early today to serve notice that the ancient political feud there still lives. Every window in the office of Alderman Luke Sullivan, 3404 Penn avenue, and several in the Sixth Ward Republican Club, 3918 Penn avenue, were smashed.

The attack on the Republican Club quarters occurred not long after Congressman P. J. Sullivan and his brother, Alderman Luke, had left a euchre game there.

The attack—the second in successive nights—was blamed by attaches of Sullivan's office upon political enemies from an adjoining ward. Police said Sullivan recently has instigated a number of "numbers" raids in that neighborhood.

Witnesses said the missile had been thrown from one of two passing automobiles. Six men were in one machine and four in the other.

Houses Burn, Lives Menaced in Mine War

Politicians Held In Hit-Run Death

CHICAGO, March 1.—(INS.)—Seven polling place workers were held today for the death of Theodore George, 40, after they allegedly ran through a red traffic light and struck the pedestrian while delivering their ballots to the County Building for counting.

Police captured the seven political workers after a three-mile chase in which six shots were fired. The fleeing automobile figured in two smashups, first when their car turned over at a corner and again when pursuing police headed it into a collision with another car.

Roosevelt Home For Rent—Month Enough, He Says

HYDE PARK, N. Y., March 1.—(INS.)—President-elect Roosevelt hopes to rent his home at 49 East Sixty-fifth street, New York City, he declared today. He was asked:

"Are you offering a four, or an eight-year lease?"

He replied:

A group of paintings in oil and water color and also drawings in black and white and in pastel by Vincent Nesbert are on exhibition at Elliott's. Nesbert, one time winner of the Pulitzer prize, has never indulged in experimental painting. He has remained close to the letter of the teaching of the National Academy of Design. Since he is chiefly engaged in portraiture, his traditional preference has been well received.

In "The Children of W. C. Fownes, Jr.," one sees two alert youngsters who have paused amidst their own momentous adventures to heed a newer one. In the "Portrait of Mrs. Gibson," Nesbert has used his technical skill in modeling and in lighting to good effect. He refrains from emphasizing the obvious accessories of a grand dame to attract the eye.

Vincent Nesbert has a candour that does not give way to flattery, usually the first requisite of the portrait painter. In two of his informal portraits in water color, the study of a man smoking and one of a young girl in a landscape, imaginative suggestion supplements his technical skill.

PAVING PLANS UP TO COUNCIL

Part of the city's 1933 repaving schedule will come before Council for final action Monday with an affirmative recommendation. The sum of $82,000 is to be appropriated. Streets to be repaved, as shown on the schedule, are portions of Forty-first, Forty-fifth, South Ninth, South Tenth, Saline, Mulberry way and First avenue.

Council yesterday asked the Department of Public Works to submit a schedule of proposed sewer improvements.

CIPHER THAT'S 'DIFFERENT'

By KENNETH A. NAGEL
Cipher Editor.

Here's an original cipher by Robert C. Byers, of Canonsburg. This is his first original cipher. It's at least different. Let's see what you can do with it.

Tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph will help you. Be sure to see it.

Cipher No. 64 was hard enough, wasn't it? Here's how it was done. The word "Nantung" was used as a blind. You will notice that after certain letters there are numbers. These numbers, according to their position are to be added or subtracted from the numerical position in the alphabet of the letter they follow. All numbers above the letters are to be subtracted; those below the line are to be added. The number found as a result of this figuring stood for the position in the alphabet of the deciphered letter.

Husband Called Her Dumb, Wins Divorce

RENO, Nev., March 1.—(INS.)—Testifying that her social registerite husband, Edward H. Mitchem, of New York, called her "stupid" and "dumb" and continuously embarrassed and nagged her, Mrs. Helen Coppel Mitchem was granted a divorce today at a brief hearing before District Judge Thomas F. Moran.

The Mitchems were married in New York City April 17, 1928, and have one son, Edward, aged 2. Agreement was reached out of court over his custody and division of community property.

Granted Parole For Deportation

Among prisoners granted paroles yesterday by Gov. Pinchot was Louis Marino, 31, who is serving in Western Penitentiary a five to 10-year sentence imposed in Lawrence County for breaking into a building. He will be turned over to immigration authorities here for deportation because of his criminal record.

Marino illegally entered the country as a sailor in 1922, federal authorities say. While a prisoner at Rockview Penitentiary he escaped but was recaptured.

2 WOMEN FACE DEATH CHARGES

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 1.—(INS.)—A grand jury, headed by a woman, today resumed study of other criminal cases after handing down murder indictments against two members of its own sex in the deaths of two men.

The accused women are Mrs. Minnie Mae Wroe, 58, of Dunbar, charged with shooting to death John Andrew Brooks, her son-in-law, and Luella Pace, of Maxwell, charged with killing her husband, James.

Mrs. Wroe was held for the grand jury by the coroner despite the efforts of her daughter to take the blame for the killing. Mrs. Brooks testified her husband screamed "You've got me" after she fired two shots. She threw the gun on the floor and her mother grabbed it and fired again, according to Mrs. Brooks.

Pace was killed when he came home intoxicated and began an argument.

Boiler Blast Perils Sick Woman, Girl

A mother, ill in bed, and her daughter escaped injury when a hot water boiler exploded at 7545 Susquehanna street, shortly before noon today, shattering all the windows on the first floor and causing $500 damage, according to Battalion Chief John Zollering. Mrs. Joseph Durso and her daughter, Jenny, 18, were in a bedroom on the second floor of the house.

State Treasury Balance Up $337,001

HARRISBURG, March 1.—(AP.)—The State Treasury balance at the close of business yesterday was $50,656,222, or $337,001 more than on January 31.

Of this amount, $47,780,097 was in the general fund, a decrease of $90,000 from January 31. The general fund balance is the lowest in recent years, due to the $12,000,000 Talbot act relief payments.

MY BEST WAR STORY

By G. S. CARTER,
21 Thorndale Street, Ingram
(28th Division)

We were in the Argonne Forest drive on about the fourth day when we were ordered forward from Montblainville toward Apremont.

When the shelling became too heavy to continue, we got under cover in the nearest dugout. There were five of us. As we got inside the tunnel, we heard voices, and thought other doughboys also were seeking shelter. It was very dark, but on hearing the talking again, it didn't take us long to know that the tunnel was occupied by "Fritzies."

We didn't know how many of them there were. We knew they had heard us entering, because when we first rushed in they were talking loudly, and now were whispering. We were quite sure we were in back of our own lines, but the way the front lines zigzagged and changed, we were puzzled.

Finally we took a chance and yelled:

"Hands up."

"Kamerad!"

The rest was easy. We lined them up and searched the dugout, and found several kittens, rabbits and chickens. We took everything back with us and turned the prisoners over to military police. There were seven prisoners when we started, but as we were bringing them back, one was killed.

One prisoner said the Argonne was the toughest battle of the war. He said he had a sister living in Los Angeles who had a son fighting against him.

We had a good meal with the food we had brought back.

MULDOWNEY TO QUIT COUNCIL

Michael J. Muldowney, city Councilman and Congressman-elect, says he will resign from Council as soon as he has been seated as Congressman.

Muldowney said yesterday:

"When I have taken my seat in Congress I will resign from Council."

Muldowney's election to Congress from the Thirty-second District on the Republican ticket is being contested by Mrs. Anne Felix, Democrat. Political observers had predicted he would retain his councilmanic position until after election next fall.

STATE LIQUOR CONTROL PLAN DRAFTED

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, March 1.—The Sowers liquor commission of 11 members of the House, drafting legislation as a substitute for the Snyder dry enforcement act, has reached a tentative decision on liquor license and control, together with suggested fees for distillers and brewers, distributors and retailers.

In rough form a proposed bill would give control of liquor license in each county to a commission of three, two to be appointed by Judges of Common Pleas Court and the third by the County Commissioners. Terms of Liquor Commissioners would be for three years.

LICENSE FEES

Distillers and brewers would pay a state license fee of $1,500, and wineries $500. Distributors would pay $1,000 each in Philadelphia and Allegheny County, $800 in counties of the third class, $600 in counties of the fourth class and $300 in all counties of lesser population.

Restaurants would be authorized to sell beer and wine with meals, but could not dispense whisky and other spiritous beverages. Hotels, however, would be permitted to sell any variety of alcoholic liquors. Restaurants in department stores would have the same right to dispense as would any other restaurants.

In Pittsburgh and Philadelphia the rate for hotels would be $500 yearly, in counties of the third class, $300, in counties of the fourth class, $200, and in all other counties, $100.

RESTAURANTS TAXED

Restaurants in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia would pay a license fee of $200, counties of the third class would pay $100 and all others $50. Recognized and chartered clubs would pay a yearly fee of $50.

Fees from hotels, restaurants and clubs would be retained by the municipality in which they originated.

In addition to these taxes a "productive tax" is proposed, the fee being $1 per barrel of beer, $1 per gallon of whisky, 10 cents per gallon of ordinary wine and 45 cents per gallon on "fortified" wine of a higher alcoholic content. These fees are not yet embodied in a bill, but the consensus among members is that they are fair and ultimately will be incorporated in the measure.

TAX COLLECTOR BILL ADVANCED

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, March 1.—The Buckman bill abolishing elective tax collectors in boroughs and second-class townships was reported from the Senate Committee on New Counties and County Seats late yesterday by a close vote, but faces a hard road to find passage. Approximately half the Allegheny County townships are second class.

At the same time the committee reported the Buckman bill, it refused to approve that of Senator William D. Mansfield, of Allegheny County, abolishing the Pittsburgh city assessors and placing all assessment under control of the county assessors.

The third bill dealing with assessments and taxes is to be introduced by Senator James J. Coyne. It would rip out of the city and county appointive tax boards and substitute one elective board of seven for all of Allegheny County, each member to be paid $5,000.

Indiana Repealer Goes to Governor

INDIANAPOLIS, March 1.—(AP.)—Gov. Paul V. McNutt last night received from the General Assembly bills which will repeal the state's "bone dry" law and regulate beer sales in event federal laws are modified.

The Governor deferred action awaiting an opinion from the state attorney-general as to validity of the measures.

State Sales Tax Receipts Due By April 1

HARRISBURG, Feb. 28.—(AP.)—The Department of Revenue announced today $35,727 has been received to date as payment of the emergency relief sales tax since the law became effective September 1, 1932.

The tax became inoperative today and collection of the tax begins tomorrow in full force. The tax must be paid on or before April 1.

Unless forwarded by registered mail, cash payments are sent at the taxpayer's risk, the department advised. Checks or money orders should be made payable to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Park had long been considered a "Coyne man."

Senator Coyne, in the opinion of some downtown commentators, was shorn of much of his prestige in certain quarters when the grand jury indicted the trio, which Park says were the real owners of the swanky Monaca Club, the three "Toms"—Thomas Coyne, Thomas (Goose) Goslin, South Side man-about-town, and Thomas Dolan, East End political and night club "big shot."

PARADE OF WITNESSES

Indictment of "Tom" Coyne and the other Toms came at the end of a hectic day for the grand jury. The 10 women and nine men, with E. G. VanMaele as their foreman, had heard a parade of "customers" of the smart Oakland speakeasy and gambling house testify about the brand of liquor and kind of games alleged to have been the club's main attractions.

Then came the "singing waiters" and game table operators, whom the same grand jury had indicted two weeks earlier. They had pleaded guilty in the meantime and been sentenced, without revealing the names of the real owners. Park gave them a chance to change their stories before the grand juries, and win paroles, but they all are reported to have "stuck" to their original stories.

P. J. (Pat) Haley, who had "taken the rap" by declaring in court that he was the sole proprietor of the club, thereby getting a five to nine-month jail sentence, made the most fruitless gesture of them all. When he brazenly tried to tell the grand jury the same story, the members became "incensed," Park declared. He took Haley back before Judge Samuel H. Gardner and moved that the judge revoke his first sentence and give Haley the limit. Gardner did, and Haley is now serving a year in jail and $500 fine.

GESTURE FUTILE

A few hours later Haley saw his "grandstand play" fail when the jury indicted as "the real proprietors" the men Haley tried to shield.

Word is said to have been given to Park during the day that the families of the "martyrs" now in jail, are each to receive $20 a week while "the hired help" eats Warden McNeil's food, but evidence of this was not offered to the grand jury as Park said he already had all the evidence needed to bring the indictments without dragging it out another day—and he did not want anything to interfere with his trip to Butler today.

The grand jury returned a presentment to the court at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and less than half an hour later, on orders of Judge Gardner, it returned the indictments.

INDICTMENTS RETURNED

Two indictments were returned against each of the three Toms. One charges them each with keeping a gambling house and with being common gamblers. The other charges each with violation of the Snyder act and contains three counts aagainst each: first, manufacturing intoxicating liquors; second, selling intoxicating liquors, and third, possessing intoxicating liquors.

The maximum penalties that could be invoked if they are found guilty, would be three years imprisonment and heavy fines on the liquor charges and one year in jail and $500 fine on the gambling charges.

Park said the men would be given a few days in which to voluntarily surrender and furnish bonds of $3,000 each. If they do not surrender he will send county detectives out to arrest them. They are not expected to try to run away.

Kline Gets Six Months, Appeal Balks Ouster

moved from office before June expires.

Before sentencing the Mayor the court did not refuse him a new trial, although the effect is the same. Rather, Judge Finletter refused to reinstate the motion for a new trial—the same motion he refused last year when he set aside the verdict against the Mayor which the Superior Court later reinstated.

Von Moschzisker pleaded the motion for reinstatement with what appeared to be a re-hash of the arguments made previously by Attorney Charles B. Prichard, who is still a member of the Mayor's counsel.

Special Prosecutor Reed tried to have the Mayor removed from office, effective immediately, by opposing the supersedeas, but Judge Finletter ruled against him. Reed's argument was that the removal was constitutional, was not governed by the supersedeas. In his argument Von Moschzisker asked that the verdict again be set aside, but this request was almost ignored.

JURORS UPHELD

Judge Finletter's usual [illegible] mood was absent w[illegible] he [illegible] the bench. He pointed out that he could hardly regard the verdict as contradictory after the Superior Court had ruled otherwise. There remained, the court said, only the conclusion that the jury had found the Mayor guilty on questions of fact, which is in the jury's province.

Attorney Prichard and Park agreed that bail for the Mayor be fixed at $5,000, the amount of the fine.

While the Mayor heard the news w[illegible] promises to upset his political [illegible]eer, his co-defendant, Bertram L. Succop, former city supplies agent, was serving a one year sentence in the County jail. Both were convicted on charges based on distribution of city contracts worth hundreds of thousands of dollars. But the Mayor was found guilty on only one count—that of advancing $5,000 in payment of trucks purchased from one Henry Braun without advertisement for bids.

From the bench today Judge Finletter emphasized that the Mayor had affixed "O. K. C. H. K." to a letter concerning the purchase of the trucks.

The Mayor sat in the court room for at least an hour waiting for arrangements for his bond. The fact that the bond was not ready seemed to indicate th[illegible] the verdict surprised the defen[illegible]

JOBLESS ARMY MARCHES ON ASSEMBLY

HARRISBURG, March 1.—(AP.)—Packed into the hall of House of Representatives, a self-styled "unemployment army" today asked the Legislature for millions for relief

Accorded a public hearing by members of the Senate and House, spokesmen of the "army" that moved in from the north and west counties, clamored, shouted, sang and screamed as they filed into the hall.

They quieted as the hearing began.

Edith Briscoe, of Pittsburgh, one of the leaders of the western contingent, was the first speaker. Miss Briscoe said she spoke in behalf of the unemployed who are "actually starving to death in spite of the relief plans in the state." She shouted:

"We not only come to present our demands, but to demand immediate action.

"We have received plenty of promises from different heads of the state, county and local boards. We are tired of promises. We want unemployment insurance so we can live like human beings."

She protested against the commissary system of the Jones-Laughlin Steel Company in Pittsburgh and criticized the food.

The contingent burst into cheers as Robert Ray, of Easton, followed Miss Briscoe with a plea for unemployment insurance and "adequate food supplies." Ray pleaded for repeal of the eviction laws. He said:

"We are going to stop all evictions and sheriff's sales in Pennsylvania."

Ray thrust at the recent five-cent dinner given by Governor and Mrs. Pinchot for Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. He smiled:

"It's all right if you have enough when you go to such a dinner."

Art Walley, of Westmoreland County, protested against the community market system. He said in Fayette County, $1.97 a week is given to a family of five.

STARVING IN PITTSBURGH

The Rev. Mr. Solomon, Negro clergyman from Homestead, describing conditions in Allegheny County, said "many are starving to death."

They are:

1—Immediate withdrawal of the commissary plan.

2—Immediate appropriation of $100,000,000 for relief to the unemployed. The funds to be raised through the following means:

A—Cut the state budget to that of 1925-27 and use the surplus fund for relief.

B—Turn over all military expenditures (C. M. T. C., National Guard, state police) for unemployment relief.

C—Cut the salaries of all officials receiving $10,000 a year and over by 50 per cent and those receiving over $3,000 by 25 per cent.

D—Steeply graduated tax on incomes over $5,000 a year, and corporations and banks.

3—Relief shall be distributed at the rate of $7 a week for every unemployed plus $1 additional for each dependent. All relief to be given out in cash.

4—No discrimination in relief distribution against Negro workers, and single men and women.

5—The state to guarantee one quart of milk to each child. The milk to be bought from the farmers at 4 cents a quart.

6—A moratorium to be declared on all rents, interest and taxes of homes of unemployed and partly employed workers. No foreclosures or sheriff sales on homes of unemployed or farmers.

7—The repeal of the state eviction law.

8—No gas, electricity and water to be shut off in the homes of unemployed or partly employed.

LEGISLATORS BOOED

Wood discussed the demands briefly. There was a chorus of boos as Wood turned to the legislators:

"The truth is you don't intend to act on our demands today, but to pacify the workers by giving them a hearing. Remember we are going to organize by tens of thousands."

Presenting the demands to Speaker Talbot, Wood said "We demand action and are going to get it."

Lieut. Gov. Edward Shannon then announced the meeting was over. Wood cried:

"Then you don't intend to give us an answer?"

The marchers shouted:

"We demand an answer."

This was followed by cries of "When do we eat?"

The marchers made no move to leave the chamber. There were shouts for "an immediate answer."

Silently, the crowd watched as the Legislature turned to other business.

Their leaders conferred. The order was given and then in a chorus of boos and jeers and shouts that "We'll be back," the army wound slowly down the stairs and out of the capitol.

Hundreds loitered on the stone steps long after the House adjourned.

Anti-Hoarding Resolution in House

HARRISBURG, March 1.—(INS.)—A resolution calling on the people of Pennsylvania to place their savings in banks instead of hoarding them was introduced in the House today by Representative Robert Cordier, Lackawanna.

The resolution pointed out that the joint banking resolution passed by the Legislature and signed by Governor Gifford Pinchot Monday night had restored confidence in the banks and the people of the commonwealth should be encouraged to take advantage of banking facilities. The resolution was laid over for printing.

KING TO DEMAND NEW HEARING BY PROBERS

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, March 1.—Declaring that the Senate Utility Investigating Committee had not terminated its investigation, Senator John J. McClure, chairman, today said the committee would try to arrange next Tuesday to give a second hearing to Dr. Clyde L. King, chairman of the Public Service Commission.

If the committee does not invite King back he will demand a meeting to present data on rates, and to clarify his testimony of last week which provided some members of the committee with an alibi for discontinuing the hearing if they wished. King at that time said no more investigating was necessary for a basis of legislation tightening the Public Service Company law, but he made no direct comment on charges by Gov. Pinchot of extortionate rates which forced the inquiry.

Dauphin County Court on Monday will hear the petition of the committee to substitute the names of new members to a plea that temporary injunctions secured by former Commissioner James S. Benn, Commissioner S. Ray Shelby, and subsidiaries of the Associated Gas and Electric Company, be set aside. The injunctions prevent the committee examining private records.

Movies on Sunday For Morgantown

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 1.—(AP)—Because of "the times," citizens of Morgantown henceforth will be permitted to see motion pictures on Sundays. City Council voted nine to one, to legalize the shows.

The Council said it thought the people should have all possible recreation.

Cold ABORTION

(with lemon juice)

Have you ever tried aborting a cold? When you abort your cold, it's gone; the system is rid of it! The lemon juice treatment will do it. Squeeze two full-size lemons in a large glass of very hot water and drink without sugar. First, take three tablets of Pape's cold compound an hour apart. This clears the head, dries the nasal passages, reduces any fever. The lemon juice then drives all cold symptoms right out of the system. Bedtime is best. This treatment will abort the worst cold overnight. One cold compound tablet will check a cold at any time, for several hours; then when night comes you can get rid of it by abortion. Any druggist has Pape's cold compound. It's perfectly safe. Try it, and you'll never go back to halfway remedies.

The Comforts of the American Home

IT IS a well-known fact that, home for home, the American hold has more comforts and conveniences than that [illegible] other nation.

In foreign lands the modernized dwelling is found only in the better sections of the larger cities.

In America, even in remote rural districts, you find the radio, the vacuum cleaner, washing machines, up-to-date heating systems, telephones and numberless labor-saving appliances.

There is a well-kept look about residence, store or outbuildings, with an atmosphere of prosperity and content.

Did you ever stop to realize why this is so; how this condition was brought about?

It is largely due to advertising. And a big share of the credit belongs to newspaper advertising.

Stop and think how many of the foods you eat, the things you wear and other articles entering into your every-day life, you first heard of through newspaper advertisements.

You will then realize what a part they do play, or should play, in your daily life.

Read the advertisements in the newspapers regularly and thoroughly, if you are not already doing so. They mean more to you than you [illegible]n tell.

'BLIND PARADE' ABOLISHED

The good old custom of receiving constables' returns in Quarter Sessions Court—a procedure familiarly known as "the blind men's parade"—today had passed into limbo.

Gov. Pinchot yesterday signed a bill passed by the Legislature permitting the courts to abolish the constables' returns. Authorities here have expressed themselves in favor of the abolition, both because it would save the county money and because the custom serves no worth while purpose.

From time to time, constables have undergone scathing rebukes upon tendering their reports, because they professed to see no evil where it was alleged vice existed.

Another measure designed to save money for Alleg[illegible]ny County and other counti[illegible] where penitentiaries are [illegible]ted also was signed by the G[illegible]ernor. The costs of trials of c[illegible]victs charged with crimes committed while in penitentiaries hereafter will be borne by the counties from which the prisoners were sentenced, rather than by the counties where the prisons are located.

GAS BOMBS END MAN HUNT

CENTERVILLE, Md., March 1.—(INS.)—An old time man-hunt ended near here today as Harry Branch, a heavily armed Negro, ca[illegible]ulated to the terror of tear [illegible]bombs and surrendered to a [illegible]e of several hundred Eastern [illegible]e men, including a company [illegible]National Guards.

[illegible]ollowing his capture, Branch [illegible] lodged in the jail here, and [illegible]heriff's deputies augmented [illegible]the National Guardsmen to [illegible]ent lynching. Branch has [illegible] hunted since Sunday when [illegible]d into the woods after shooting [illegible] Negro woman. During the [illegible]-hunt, he shot and wounded [illegible]k Brower, formerly a ball[illegible]er of the Baltimore Orioles of [illegible] International League. Brow[illegible]'s wounds are not serious.

DEBTOR RELIEF BILL PASSED

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP.)—The drastic emergency bankruptcy revision bill today received final congressional action and was sent to the White House for President Hoover's signature. The House adopted the Senate amendments to the bill, 207 to 26.

Supported by the leadership of both the Democratic and Republican parties, the House approved the Senate amendments designed to aid railroads, individuals and farmers, but excluding corporations.

The purpose of the railroad section is to let railroads reorganize under Interstate Commerce Commission and Federal Court approval to avoid going into expensive receivership proceedings. The reorganization is to be effected through creditors and stockholders.

The provisions effecting individuals and farmers permit them to make voluntary readjustments of their debts without recourse to formal bankruptcy.

Should a Mother Shield Her Son Whenever Possible?

Her boy's in trouble—shameful trouble—with the jail door opening ahead.

Shall she help him out—or let him take his medicine?

If the terrible decision were put up to you, what would you say?

Dear Miss Robinson:

Will you please try to help me? I am almost frantic, and I don't know what to do.

It is my young son, Tom. I have tried so hard to raise him to be the fine man his father was, but somewhere something has gone wrong. I have been a widow ever since he was 7, and have had to support him by my own efforts. I have a small business of my own, and I have managed to save a little money.

PASSED BAD CHECK

I worked terribly hard to put him through school and give him the things that he should have. I always saw that he was dressed as well as I could possibly afford, and sent him to good schools, including college—a small one, but a good one.

Last year he was graduated and was lucky enough to get a job, at small pay, of course. For a while everything went fine, then he met one of those girls who like to go to expensive places, and because he didn't have money enough to satisfy her he wrote some bad checks.

They were not large, and when they caught up with him, I paid the people who had cashed them, and got it hushed up. He promised me faithfully that he would never do such a thing again, but to my horror and anguish, I have discovered that he has done it again.

You see, in spite of everything that I could say or do, he still kept on going with the same girl, and her tastes haven't gotten any more modest. This time his employers learned of it, and he has lost his job.

WANTS HER HELP AGAIN

I could still get him off by paying this check too, but it would take every cent of my savings, and some friends of mine who know about it say that I should let him "take his medicine," and that I would be a fool to interfere and get him off again.

What do you think? He is only 21 and I feel so terrible to think of his young life being blighted by maybe having to go to jail. He has told me that if I get him off just this once more, he will never do it again. Oh! I just don't know what to do! Please, please help me! Tell me what you think. I can't bear the thought of trouble for him. I have always tried to guard him so. It is simply killing me.

MARY ALBRIGHT.

You poor soul! Every mother who reads this letter will feel her brain whirling and her heart bleeding with yours. Yet what can anyone say?

Easy enough to tell you what's the right course—theoretically.

"Let him go; don't guard him any more." That's what one ought to say—perhaps. "Too much guarding, too much sacrifice on your part to give him everything, has put him where he is.

DIFFICUL ADVICE

"In all his twenty-one years he has never had to shoulder any consequences or any responsibility. He has always been able to go to you, and crawl out from under consequences. You kept all the harsh words away from him, and you've let him grow into a soft-muscled egotist, who thinks he can put things over on you—and the world.

"And now—you let him take the results of what he has done. For so long as he is convinced that he can 'get away' with things, he'll never change. A good hard jolt is what he needs. It'll be the making of him."

Easy enough to say all that. And if prisons were what they ought to be, perhaps I'd be giving you just that advice. But they aren't. Prisons are horrible hells! Every decent citizen is ashamed of them. A prison sentence doesn't mold or heal disorderly life. It weakens that life—tutors it in every form of viciousness. If there is any chance of saving that boy, I can't believe it lies in a prison. And yet—

If he isn't forced to take his medicine—what then?

What is this pitiful mother's dreadful duty?

If he were your boy, what would you advise?

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

A Nice Defensive Play

Stockholm, the capital of Sweden, is a great center of Bridge activity. The long winter nights provide apparently ample time not only for the play of some very excellent Bridge, but for the development of some very excellent play.

An example of an interesting defensive play by Mr. N. Wilander, who is described as one of Stockholm's most brilliant players, occurred on a hand played there recently in a Rubber game. The play made, which is the basis of this article, was the only means by which the adverse contract could be defeated. It was a fine play because Mr. Wilander realized the situation and, by accurate deduction, made the play that made the game impossible because it eliminated the possibility of a wrong play by his partner.

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

North:
♠ 10 7 5 4 3
♡ K 8 2
◊ A Q 7

West:

Mr. Wilander

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♣
Pass	1 NT (1)	Pass	3 NT (2)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Merely to keep the bidding open. As a matter of fact, East is stretching his hand a little bit, and two clubs probably would have been a better choice.

2—West also overbids slightly, but, in view of the response, he feels that the gamble for game is worth while.

Mr. Wilander opened the heart 5, which his partner won with the King, and at once returned the suit, the Ace in Dummy winning the trick. Declarer now laid down the Ace of clubs and then led a small spade from Dummy, which he won with the Queen, Mr. Wilander retaining the Ace. When, however, the second spade was led, South began to draw some inferences. Apparently the club suit was established and no finesse in the suit was needed, but if this were so and the Declarer was permitted to win a second round of spades, he would then have his 9 tricks—five clubs, two hearts and two spades. The Ace of spades was played, and South saw that there was but one hope of defeating the contract. After all, East had done practically no bidding, the notrump response to the Opening bid being merely the act of a player willing to have his partner bid further. So it might well be that he did not hold either the Ace or Queen of diamonds. The defeat of the contract then, from South's viewpoint, depended upon cashing 3 tricks in diamonds and also preventing his partner from returning a heart. After deliberation, South chose the King of diamonds as his next lead. This was a much better play than any other card he held. The lead of a small diamond would still have left North confronted with a guess as to whether he should return a heart up to a possible tenace in South's hand or return a diamond.

While the plan of play adopted risked the possibility of the Declarer making an overtrick, if he held either the Ace or Queen of diamonds, it was the one play that assured the defeat of the contract, as the cards lay, and also the one play to prevent a disastrous return by North. It is such plays as this that go far toward establishing the rank of any Bridge player.

Correct Manners

Wedding Announcement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In your column you advocated the writing of personal notes as invitations to an informal wedding, and this surely seems in keeping with the rest of the arrangements. I am going to have a small wedding, just the immediate families, and I would like to send out wedding announcements. It will be an informal wedding, and I am wondering if engraved wedding announcements should be sent, or just what is correct under these circumstances? Q.

A perfect plan for your wedding, as you outline it, would be for you to write informal notes of invitation to those who are to be invited to the ceremony, and then to send formal, engraved announcements to your circle of friends. These announcements, you know, are all ready so that they can be mailed directly after the ceremony has been performed.

After Secret Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been secretly married for the past three months and my husband and I have decided to have a church wedding next month, but we are omitting a reception for financial reasons.

What would you advise as the proper way to announce this to our friends? We are anxious to have them all attend the church wedding.

Would you have announcement cards made, and if so, how would you suggest they read? Is it proper to include the date of our secret marriage on the announcement cards? J.

Under the circumstances I think that it would be the best taste to have the simplest kind of wedding, just going to the church with your parents and his parents. And it would be the best taste to omit the formal announcement cards.

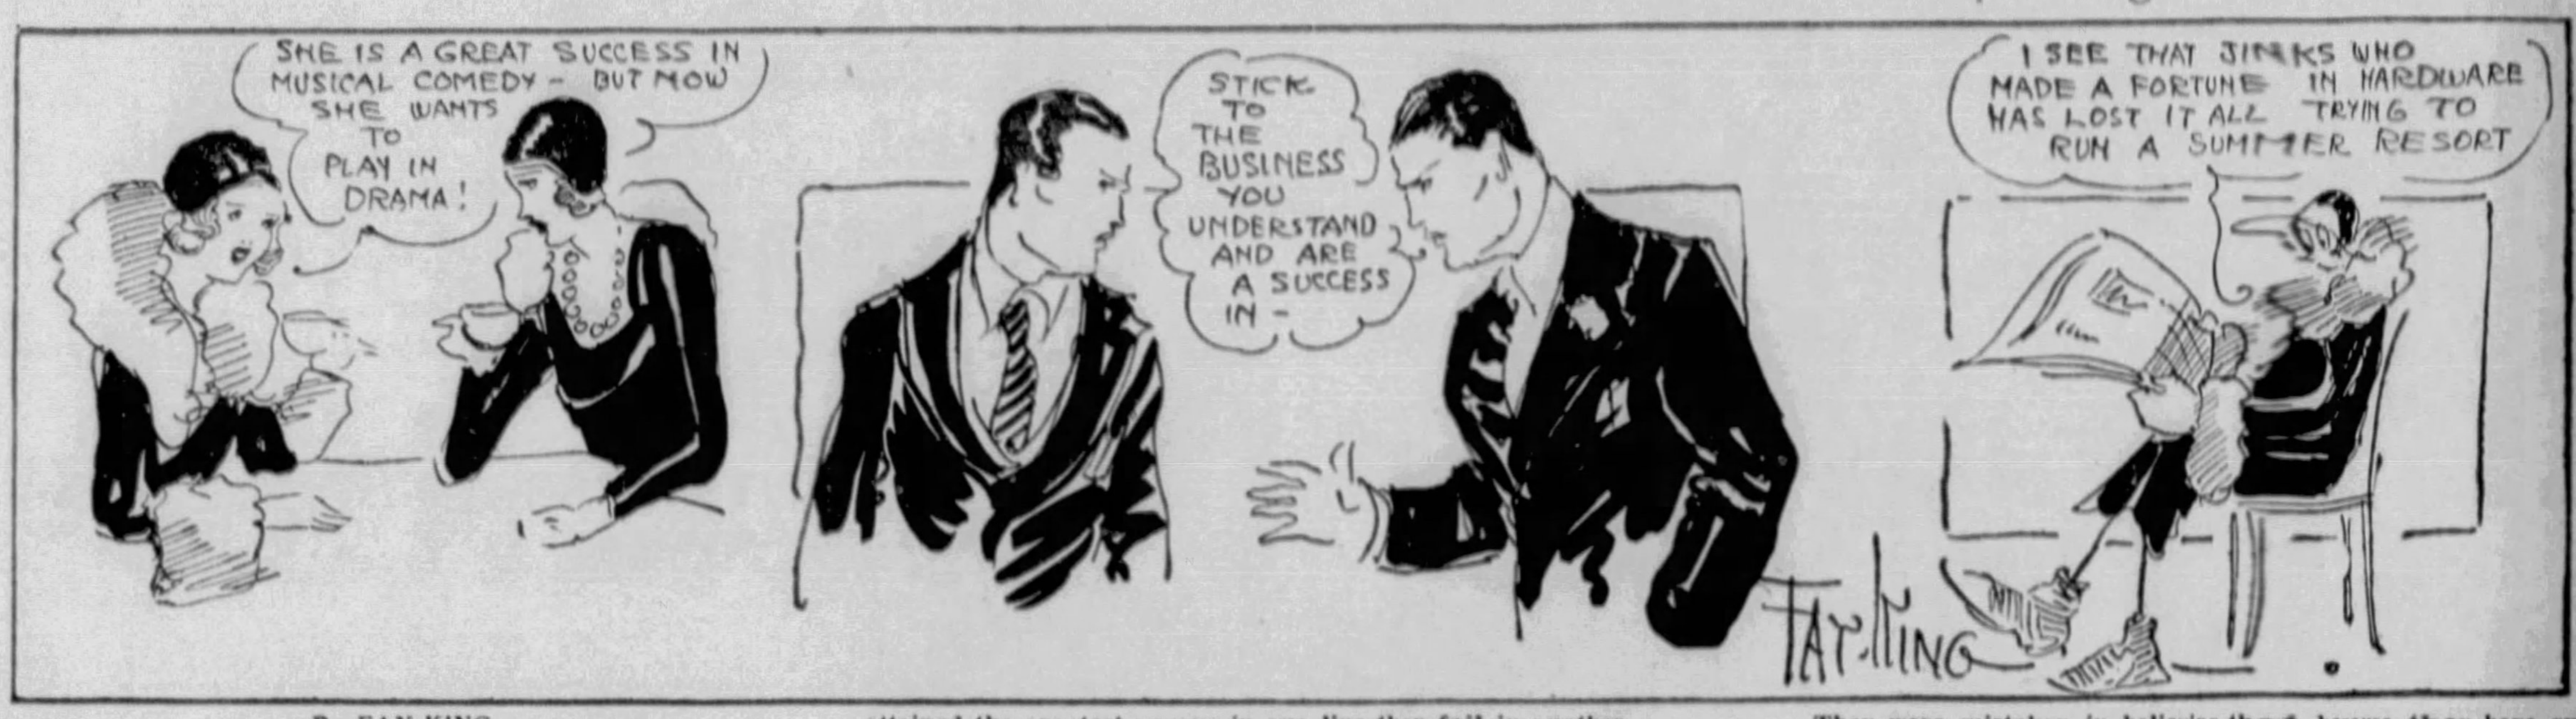
Greatest Failures Often Have Known Success, Observes Fay King



SHE IS A GREAT SUCCESS IN MUSICAL COMEDY - BUT NOW SHE WANTS TO PLAY IN DRAMA!
STICK TO THE BUSINESS YOU UNDERSTAND AND ARE A SUCCESS IN - I SEE THAT JINKS WHO MADE A FORTUNE IN HARDWARE HAS LOST IT ALL TRYING TO RUN A SUMMER RESORT
FAY KING

By FAY KING

When we think of a failure we usually think of one who has devoted all his energy in striving toward one goal and failed to reach it.

Yet the most astonishing failures have been those who have attained the greatest success in one line then fail in another.

Not satisfied with attaining one goal, these successes must start toward another, in which they are usually a dismal flop.

Some have squandered all the fortune their success brought them in trying to duplicate that success in another direction.

They were mistaken in believing that because they have succeeded in one way they will succeed in other ways.

In nine cases out of ten the new goal they choose is one for which they are not at all fitted and know little about.

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Lonely Mountain Cabin Presents Mystery

At my father's question all of us looked quickly at Harry Underwood, for he it was, we all had agreed, who must decide the question of attempting the rescue of the girls. Something in his face told me that he already had made his difficult decision, but he turned to Ronald with as much deference as if the boy had been his elder.

"What do you say, lad?" he asked. "Shall be make the attack?"

Ronald's face whitened.

"I will agree to whatever you think best, Mr. Underwood," he said. "I would not dare to take the responsibility of deciding it myself."

Harry turned next to Hugh.

"Those notices?" he inquired. "Were they posted anywhere near that house?"

"Yes," Hugh replied promptly, "and one of my men reported that from his hiding place in the underbrush he had seen one of the men, presumably one of the inmates of the house—reading both notices, going from one tree to another. The man had his face tied up as with the toothache, and his clothing was so baggy and ill-fitting it was impossible to make any appraisal of his appearance, except to say that he was of average height."

I do not know whether Hugh saw my look of astonished inquiry, but he looked at me when he went on speaking, without giving Harry a chance to comment upon his information.

MISLEADING NOTICES

"We have been posting notices yesterday and today throughout the woodland, telling people to be careful, and to watch the sky when out of doors, because there were to be some trial and stunt flights of airplanes over the region, some of them not far above the trees.

"Other notices, including those of which we have spoken, told of the surveying which to all appearances has been going on. Of course, there is always the possibility that the kidnapers may have seen through both attempts at camouflage, but on the other hand—"

"On the other hand," Harry Underwood interrupted, "I'll wager anything they did not. They were the most plausible and official looking things imaginable. It's a lucky thing you're on the inside of things, Hugh. You'd spend some time in jail, else."

"Not the major," Dicky said, and there was in his voice a betrayal of the venom against the army officer which he was trying to conceal. I knew he was furious because Hugh had taken time to explain about the posters to me, but when his voice changed suddenly to cordiality I realized, with a little thrill of pride, that he had conquered himself, and was once more girding himself for enthusiastic and whole-hearted co-operation with Hugh.

A PUZZLING QUESTION

"He'll never get caught," Dicky went on, and I saw Hugh's eyes lighten suddenly at the unmistakable change in tone, "and I agree with Harry about the effectiveness of those posters. They would fool Sherlock himself, I'm thinking."

"Marion's code," Harry said, "provided for their barricading the door of their room and lying flat on the floor out of range, when they heard the airplane at night, and stipulated that the airplane must fly over only 10 minutes before the rescue commenced. That, of course, is to minimize the possibility of the kidnapers discovering they had barred their door. But do you think it possible one or both women may sleep in the same room with them?"

His query was directed at Hugh, and Hugh promptly answered it.

"I think it not only possible but highly probable, and that, of course, limits our time to the interval between dark and bedtime. That will call for the closest co-ordination between our forces and your plane." He looked at Dicky, and I held my breath. Would my husband read a challenge of his ability into that quiet assertion?

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Before snipping away a hangnail, soak the hands in warm soap suds, apply olive oil, lift the cuticle away from the nail base with an orange wood stick that has a dulled, flat end.

Beware of cheap elegance. A plain frock of good material and almost no decoration is smarter than the fussy one that may cost twice as much. The dowdy woman is usually the one who is overdressed, too many fancy clips, too many bows, too many beads. A woman should be more interesting than her attire. The too-grand robe detracts attention from the wearer's personality and charm.

TELLS OF GIVING SON-IN-LAW 'LICKING'

Her husband pinioned her head under the steering wheel of their automobile and kept it there several minutes, Mrs. Jane Dobbins Mooney, 22, a blonde, of Glassport, testified in seeking a divorce from Joseph Alexis Mooney, Scott street, McKeesport.

Mrs. Mooney's father, William Dobbins, testified he had heard his son-in-law threaten to kill Mrs. Mooney. He said:

"One day I heard Joe say he would blow her head off. I concluded it was time to interfere."

Judge Egan inquired:

"What did you do?"

"Why, I gave him a good licking; what you do suppose I would do?"

"I don't know. I'm asking you."

It was testified the couple eloped to Wheeling in 1929, and kept their marriage secret five weeks.

DECREE REFUSED

Judge Thomas M. Marshall yesterday refused a divorce to Wilbert H. Peifer, Peralto, street, North Side, who charged that his marriage to Gladys Peifer, Gibsonia, was procured by fraud and coercion. The judge said:

"We are not at all convinced that any fraud was perpetrated upon the libelant or that he was in fear of his life at the time the marriage ceremony was performed. The coiduct of the libelant, in our opinion, is anything but praiseworthy and the trial judge with considerable pleasure refuses to sign a de- e."

eifer accused his wife of asso- ing with other men, before ir marriage.

HER SUITS

ivorce suits have been filed by tle C. Smith against John F. h, V. Anna Meneilly against . Meneilly, Margaret L. Ken- against Harry P. Kennedy, ired Tintor against Daniel tor, Edna J. Volk against Ber- d J. Volk and by Louis H. Anraw against Edith R. Anstraw.

Divorces were granted to Mabel True from William Franklin True and to Elizabeth A. Speer from Howard B. Speer.

SNYDER ESTATE DISTRIBUTED

Judge Thomas P. Trimble of Orphans' Court has handed down a first and final decree in the estate of Mary C. B. Snyder, widow of William P. Snyder, authorizing distribution of $2,777,626 to the heirs.

To Mrs. Mary Snyder Drew, wife of Justice James B. Drew, of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, is given 6,350 shares of the Shenango Furnace Company and other securities valued at $1,382,230. Her portion of the estate is left in trust to William P. Snyder, Jr., George L. Collard and the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company, as trustee.

William P. Snyder, Jr., received 6,351 shares of the Shenango Furnace Company and shares of other corporations valued at $1,382,230. The remainder is distributed in accordance with the will.

City Starts Survey Of Vacant Buildings

Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang today was preparing to make a survey of all vacant buildings owned by the city.

The survey was ordered late yesterday by Council after Councilman Charles H. Anderson said he believed some of the recently vacated fire and police stations could be used by the city to store supplies and equipment, saving rentals on storage places.

BACKACHES

Not always due to Female Complaints

.. Says doctor who advises on care of kidneys and bladder

Backaches, nervous spells, bearing-down pains, dizziness and headaches are not always due to sicknesses peculiar to women.

Slight or temporary disturbances of the kidneys and bladder are frequently the cause of these pains. However, the condition can often be remedied quickly by Santal Midy Capsules, obtainable at most any drug store.

Santal Midy Capsules contain a precious East Indian extract which soothes the kidneys and acts as an antiseptic on the bladder. Don't wait until kidneys and bladder get in a serious condition. A small amount spent now for Santal Midy Capsules may save you hundreds of dollars and untold suffering. Get Santal Midy from your druggist—today.

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

That all-absorbing question for thousands of women this week, what to wear to the Inaugural Ball Saturday night in Washington, has been settled by a trio of social registrite Pittsburgh Democrats.

The trio is made up of Mrs. Carroll Miller, Miss Pauletta Guffey and Miss Ida Guffey, all three sisters. Old jewelry, so much in vogue now, will lend a "different" air to the Guffey sisters' costumes.

All three dresses were bought right here in Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Carroll Miller's gown is a Lelong model in hyacinth blue crepe satin, having a ruby-colored velvet flower as the only ornament. Her slippers will match the flower, and she will wear some lovely old gold jewelry.

Morocco Crepe

Black morocco crepe in a Lavin model, having a matching cape, is the choice of Miss Ida Guffey. Her slippers will match her frock, and she will wear old English jewelry with topaz settings.

Mrs. William Larimer Jones, Jr., and her little daughter, Anne, are visiting Mrs. Jones' uncle and aunt, the Theodore Varneys, at the New Weston Hotel, New York.

The Civic Club of Allegheny County will sponsor the University of Pittsburgh Cap and Gown show again this year, with the date set for April 24.

Wedding Date Set

Nancy Edmonds, daughter of Mrs. Donald Edmonds, of Bryn Athyn, Pa., has named June 15 as the date for her marriage to Stanley Faulkner Ebert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Ebert, of Penn avenue.

The ceremony will take place in the catherdal at Bryn Athyn. Among those present from Pittsburgh will be Mr. Ebert's sister, Mrs. Richard L. Goerwitz, of Penn avenue.

The Alan S. Humphreys, of Kinsman road, have a son, Alan S. Humphreys, Jr. They have two little daughters.

Dr. A. A. Dranga To Entertain Newlyweds

Dr. Amelia A. Dranga, of allowhill street, is entertaining her nephew, Francis Faulkner Campbell, and his bride, the former Miss Sally Bennett, this week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell's marriage took place on Saturday in the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Emlin, of West Church lane, Germantown.

Mrs. Campbell is a graduate of Oberlin and is a Phi Beta Kappa and a member of Mortar Board. The bridegroom is a graduate of Haverford College and of Harvard School of Business Administration, and recently organized a school of business administration in the Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, N. J. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell are in Oklahoma at the present.

Gay Pre-Lenten Fete Attracts Mayfairians

The eve of the Lenten season was one grand fling for members of the drama department of the Twentieth Century Club last night when they held their annual Mardi Gras.

At the close of the evening prizes were awarded for costumes. The judges decided that the two most beautiful costumes were those of Mrs. H. Allen Machesney as mediaeval Marguerite of Lorraine, and Mrs. Stewart Johnson as Queen Victoria.

The two most amusing were Mrs. Burt and her partner, whom no one could recognize, as Governor and Mrs. Clinton; the two most grotesque, Mrs. A. Logan Wilson as Topsy and Mrs. W. A. Dunlap as Oceola; the two most original, Mrs. Boyd Miller as an immigrant and Mrs. George Macbeth as Elizabeth Arden.

Mrs. Velma Mackey as Mary Todd Lincoln won the prize for the best impersonation of the past; and Mrs. Edward Goehring, as Tom Mix, of the present.

The best couple was Mrs. Harold Miller as Rasputin and Mrs. A. L. Ralston as the Empress; the best group, Uncle Tom's Cabin, arranged by Mrs. James Russell.

The judges gave special mention to Miss Sarah Bissell as a Red Cross nurse; Mrs. Charles Rowan and Mrs. Shafer as a Norwegian man and wife; Mrs. Frank B. Gordon as King Herod; Mrs. H. McEldowney as Oscar of the Waldorf; Mrs. John Beatty as Guinivere; and Mrs. Edward B. McCoy as Lady Hamilton.

No men were allowed to take part in the festivities, starting with a dinner. Of course the best entertainment of the whole evening was seeing how everyone was costumed.

Women of note for many generations were represented. Rasputin and the Czarina were seen chatting before the dinner. Rasputin was Mrs. Harold A. Miller and the Czarina, Mrs. A. L. Ralston.

Mrs. C. B. Munroe and Betty Nicholson were the first and second wives of Wang Lung of the "Good Earth."

One of the most interesting costumes was that of Mrs. Matthew Taylor, in a costume of the 90s. Her huge hat was smothered in quanities of ostrich plumes.

Mrs. Jacob S. Payton was Harriet Beecher Stowe, Mrs. Brainard West, as Alice in Wonderland, Mrs. W. Eugene Gary was a most attractive Dolly Varden, Mrs. Harry S. Homer came as Ethel Barrymore in a regal ermine-bordered red velvet cape with a train.

Bettie Guiler was Sadie Thompson, Mrs. H. Fred Mercer was a Chinese mandarin. One of the most charming costumes was that of Mrs. Velma Mackey as Mary Todd Lincoln.

After the dinner there were dances by Mrs. Brainard West, impersonating women dancers, a costume recital by Mrs. Edward O. Tabor as Julia Sanderson; and song and dance numbers by Mrs. Kirkland Wiley Todd and Mrs. Alvin Riley, and tableaux.

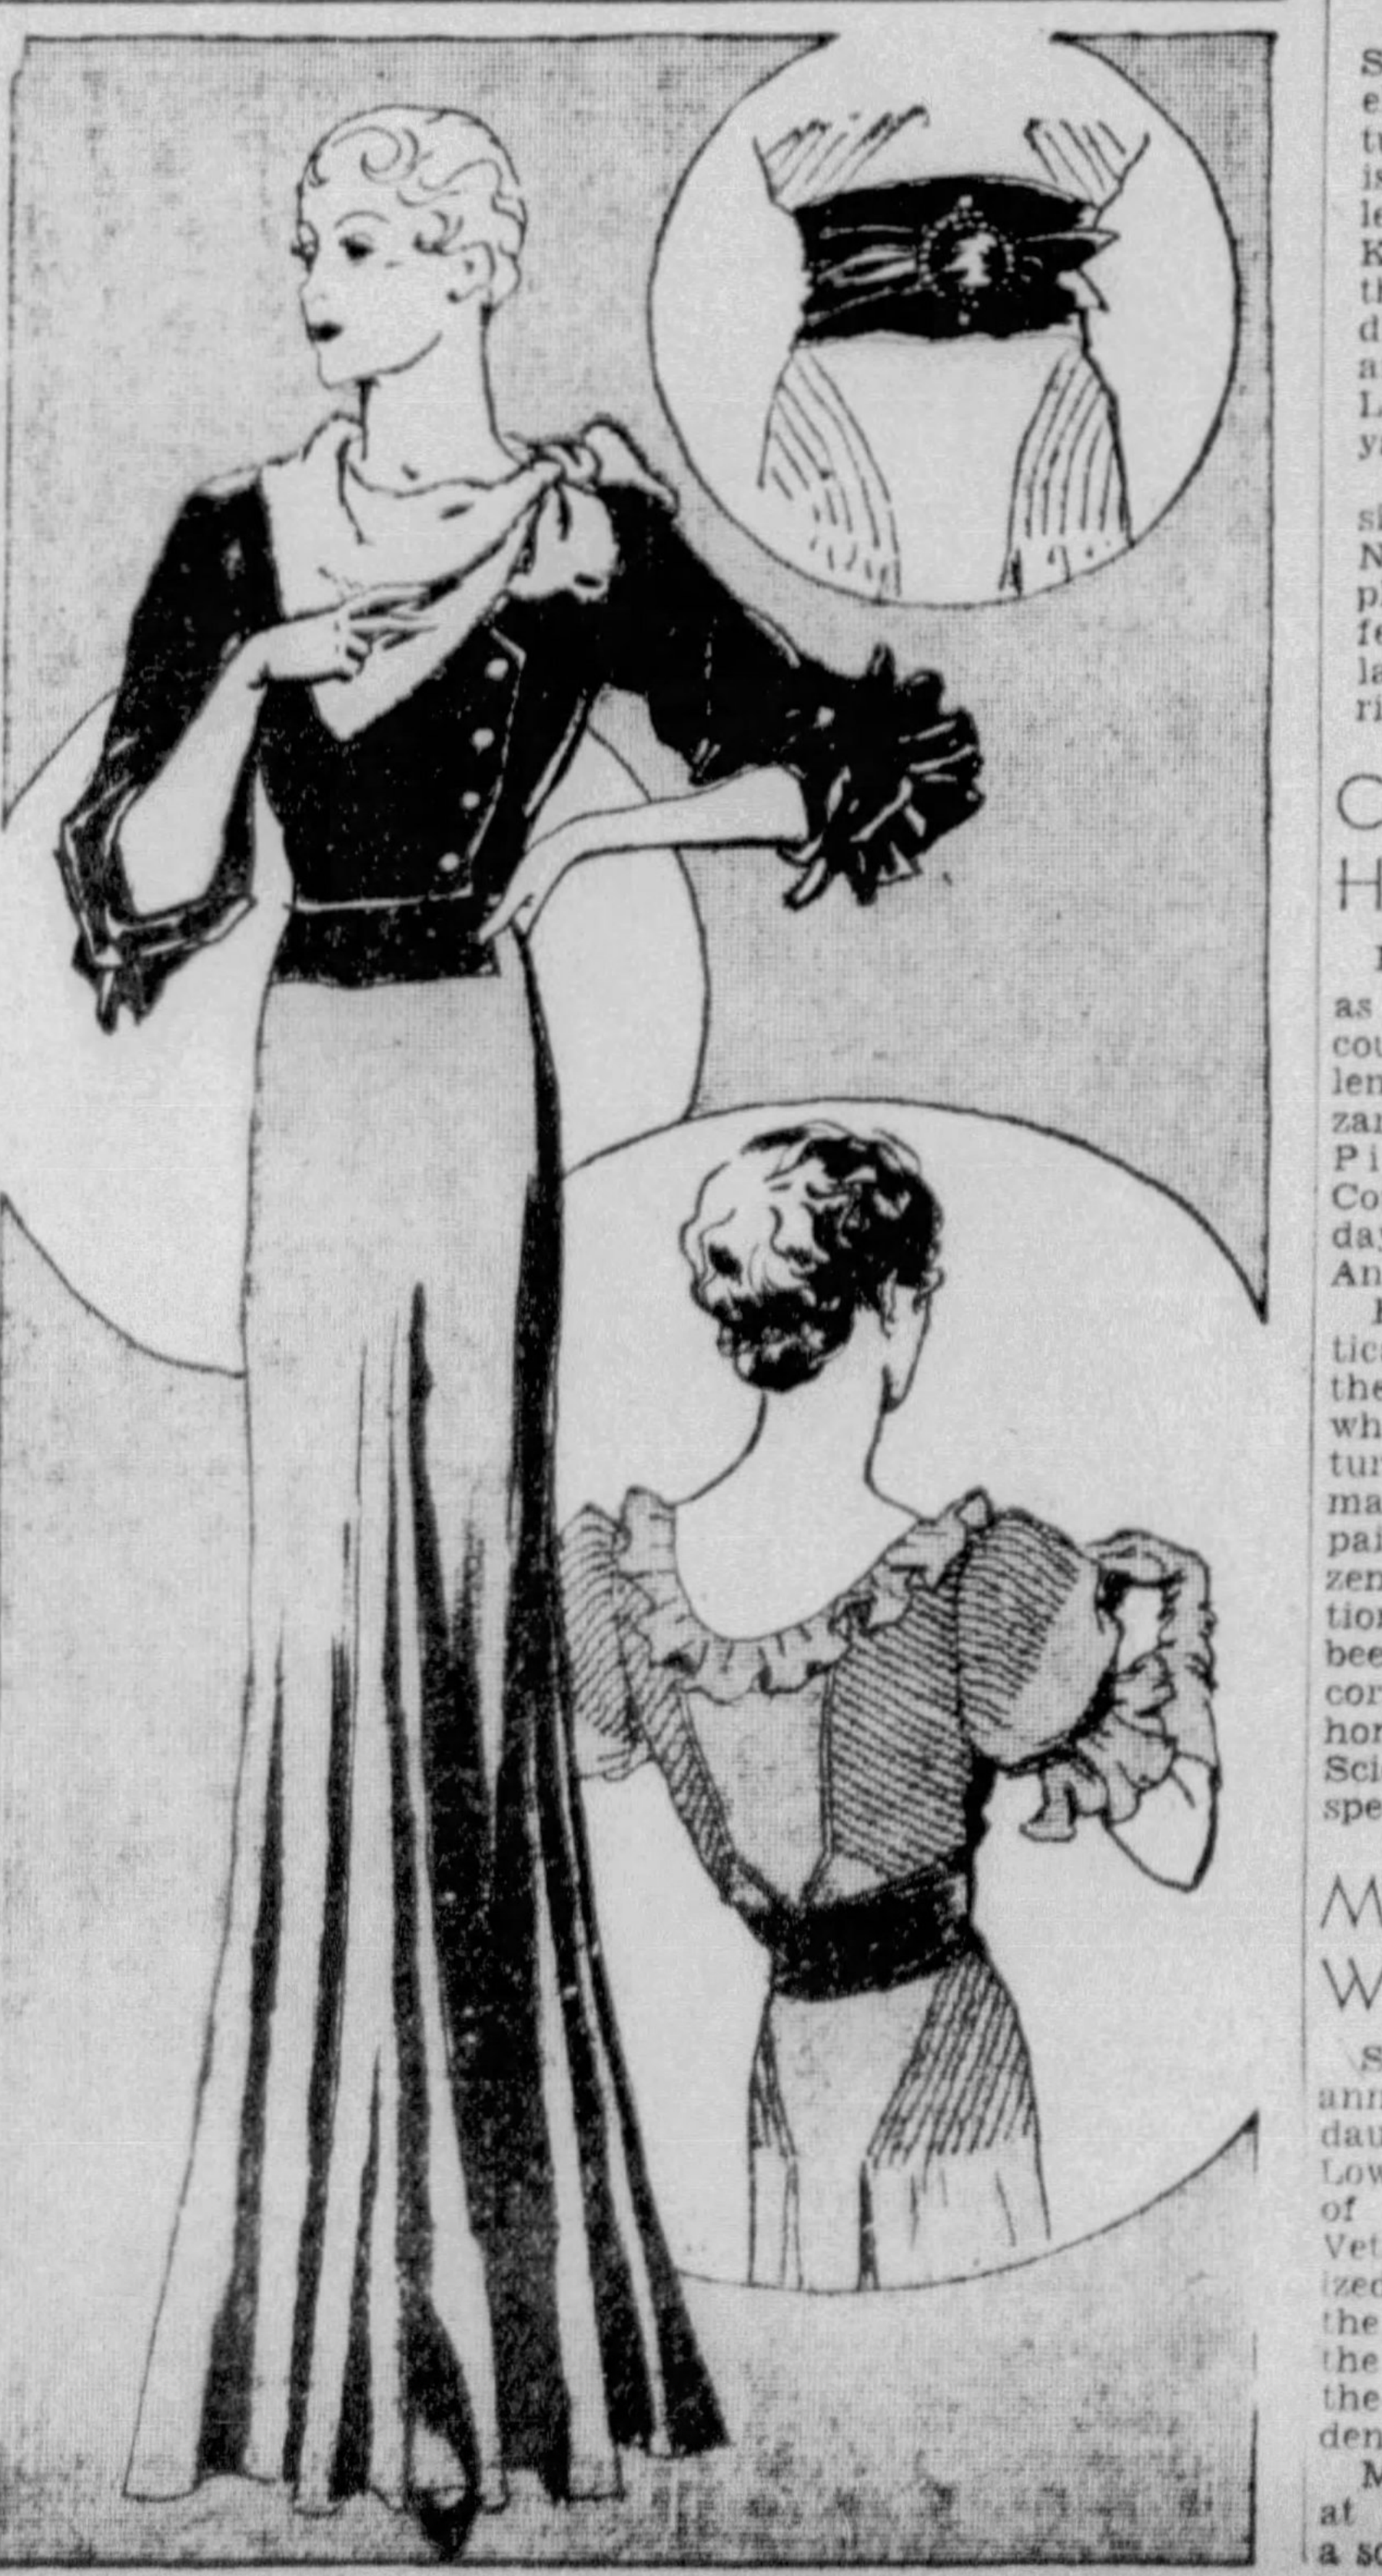
NECKLINES OF NEW MODELS TO FOLLOW GENERAL PLAN OF GOWN



PROBABLY THE most severe change in fashions within recent seasons is in necklines. Whereas, a few seasons ago, and before that, one could say definitely that the square or the round or some other neckline was the accepted one, nowadays it is impossible to make any generalization. For practically any neckline may be found on the models in the collection of any important designer. The current view of smart necklines is not that it take any definite form, but that it should follow the general plan of its costume.

TAKE, AS illustrations, the necklines on the costumes in today's sketch. The evening dress, of chiffon, trimmed with velvet, is—in spite of its fabric—informal in character. A deep decolletage, usually expected on a chiffon dress, would be out of place here. The designer adroitly keeps the youthful and casual line by making decolletage moderately high at the back, and emphasizing its shape and depth by a ruffle of the fabric.

THE SAME process of planning follows in the use of the soft fur handkerchief scarf as a collar on the little velvet jacket in place of the customary high full evening collar. Here the fur is treated as if it were fabric—in fact, as if the whole thing had been added as an afterthought, as a handkerchief scarf of silk is added to a sports costume.

* * *

Gossipy Chat With Nancy Jane

An I. O. U. will admit you to the Junior League's spring fashion show March 7, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, in the Twentieth Century Club.

And it will be the most unusual I. O. U. you've ever written—it must be an I. O. U. for a bundle of rummage.

Those who cannot bring their rummage with them may write I. O. U.'s with a note added to indicate whether the signer wants her rummage called for, or whether she'll deliver it herself.

All the rummage will be sold at the Junior League Thrift Shop, 5437 Penn avenue, for the benefit of the League's welfare work.

That was a grand story V. Sackville-West, the English novelist, told at the Twentieth Century Club Monday—that there is a record in her family of a letter an ancestor wrote to the King, asking that he be granted the eastern coast of the newly discovered continent, America, and certain islands, such as Long Island and Martha's Vineyard!

The author is very tall, all of six feet. She wore a black satin Norfolk style suit with a red plaid blouse, a wide-brimmed felt hat, a very long string of large red beads and long earrings.

Council of Women Hear Religious Talk

Religion has the same emphasis as of old, it still gives words of courage, consolation and challenge, the Rev. Dr. Morris S. Lazaron, of Baltimore, told the Pittsburgh Section, National Council of Jewish Women, yesterday in his talk on "Has Religion Anything to Say?"

Faith is one of the most practical things in life; on it is built the entire economic structure and when faith fails the entire structure totters. Dr. Lazaron said a magnificent tribute should be paid the average American citizen for enduring existing conditions, which, he asserted, have been brought about by the greed, corruption, selfishness and dishonesty of "our supposed leaders." Science is also built on faith, the speaker pointed out.

Miss Helen Lowman Wed to Eugene Grubbs

S. P. Lowman, Delaware avenue, announces the marriage of his daughter, Miss Helen Theodore Lowman, to Eugene O. Grubbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Grubbs, Veteran street, which was solemnized at 7:30 o'clock last night in the Lowman home. Officiating in the presence of the families was the Rev. George Phillips, Providence Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Grubbs will be at home in Portola street after a southern motor trip.

Dr. Wampler to Speak On Federation Period

Through the courtesy of the speakers' bureau of the Odontological Society of Western Pennsylvania the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women will present Dr. Joseph K. Wampler as speaker during the weekly broadcast tomorrow at 3:45. Dr. Wampler will speak over KDKA on "The Care of Children's Teeth."

Miss Helen Perkins On College Board

Miss Helen Perkins, of South Murtland avenue, was elected on Monday to the women's board of activities at Allegheny College, Meadville. She will serve as publicity chairman. Miss Jane Chapman, New Kensington, will head the big sister committee, which will supervise relations between upperclassmen and new students.

Two Amaranth Courts To Give Card Party

The East Liberty and Aspinwall Courts of the Amaranth will hold a card and bingo party and bake sale in the East End O. E. S. Temple, Friday, March 10, afternoon and evening, for the benefit of the grand court.

Pitt Freshmen To Hold Annual Dance Friday

The freshman class of the University of Pittsburgh will have its annual dance Friday in the Georgian Room of Hotel Webster Hall.

The grand march will be led by Miss Dent Strock, South Pacific avenue, and Emil Meacham, student chairman of the event.

Chaperones for the affair will be Dr. and Mrs. Omar C. Held, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Van Sickle and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Siedle.

Woman's City Club Begins Month of Numerous, Varied Activities

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

What busy places these clubs are! It seems as if the Woman's City Club grows busier and busier all the time. March's activities begin with the month, for the first of the three parliamentary law class sessions was held this morning; the others are the fifteenth and the twenty-ninth. The health committee, under Miss May Beegle, this month, will have Dr. Alice S. Gularski as speaker on the tenth.

An important business meeting is called for noon of the eleventh and the month's twilight musicale on Sunday, the twelfth, will introduce Victoria Modarelli and Mary Beesee in a two-piano program.

At the request of many members, Mrs. George Phelps Rose will review Rachel Crothers' "When Ladies Meet" at a special meeting of the drama group on the fourteenth. The eighteenth will bring a book luncheon at which Mrs. Clark Hammond and Mrs. A. L. Vencil will review G. B. Lancaster's "Pageant" and John Galsworthy's "Flower in the Wilderness."

The one evening meeting this month will be featured by an around-the-world travelog by Miss Edith Bane, which she will illustrate with her beautiful slides. A musicale luncheon with Brahms and his works as the topic is set for the twenty-second; the hobby group on the twenty-fourth will hear a talk by Lucius Plympton on book plates and the drama group will close its season, as well as the month, with a meeting on the twenty-eighth when Mrs. Alexander Dean will discuss Clemence Dane's "Wild December."

Mrs. Raymond Foreman Entertains Hilda A. Lee

At a bridge luncheon given in the El Tower Apartments by Mrs. Raymond Foreman, in honor of Miss Hilda A. Lee, daughter of Mrs. Harry Lee, of Washington, Pa., whose engagement to Herman L. Supovitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Supovitz, of Pittsburgh, was announced recently, Miss Lee announced that her wedding would be an event of early summer. Sixty-four guests were present at the party.

In addition to the usual departmental meetings and the customary classes, the Congress of Clubs' schedule for March includes the quarterly meeting on the twenty-first, a fashion review and card party sponsored by the membership committee on the twenty-ninth, and affiliated club day, which is set for the last day of the month.

Mrs. H. G. Morgan, of Braddock avenue, is to be hostess for the drama meeting of the Wilkinsburg Women's Club on Tuesday. Mrs. R. T. Kintzing, chairman for the day, will lead an open discussion of current plays and Ray E. Hurd will read one of his own plays, "Son of a Gunn." Tea will follow.

* * *

An important business meeting of St. Margaret's Memorial Hospital Alumnae Association will be held Monday night in the Nurses' Club, Oakland. The new officers, Miss Eva Jones, president; Miss Edna Wagner, vice president, and Miss Gladys Haas, secretary-treasurer, will be installed.

Pitt Units to Meet During March in College Club

All meetings of the Pitt Women's Association this month, with the exception of that of the Newcomers' Group, will be held in the College Club. The newcomers are going today to visit the Heinz Plant on the North Side.

The card group meets on Monday for the usual bridge luncheon. The regular meeting next Wednesday will be addressed by Miss Grace D. Ely, fashion consultant, who will present models, and on this occasion 11 daughters of the faculty who are 10 years of age or more are invited to be present. The readers' group will forsake reading for the time being and on the fifteenth will hear a recital by Mrs. Philip Franklin, soprano.

A "Night in a Radio Studio" the unusual means chosen by Plum Creek Valley Woman's C to raise funds for community w fare. On Friday night in the V rona Auto Company, Unity. women will put on a program radio features, including ev thing from sponsors to a jazz chestra. Salvation Army Council Presents Evening of Music on March 21

Instead of a morning of music, as most of the series will be, an evening of music will be given under auspices of the woman's advisory council of the Salvation Army as the next benefit in the woman-help-woman movement. It's to be March 21 in the auditorium at the Evangeline Residence and the program will be given by the South Hills Choral Club, which recently won second place in the Ohio State contest. The South Hills members of the council, Mrs. A. C. McMillan, Mrs. J. B. Nicklas, Jr., and Mrs. Robert Braun, Jr., are sponsoring the event.

GIRLS OF SCHOOL AGE KEEP IN GOOD HEALTH

They Depend Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

SYLVIA EVERSON
Route 4, Wisconsin Dells, Wisconsin

When your daughter comes into womanhood, she needs your help and understanding as never before. Get her a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Have her take it regularly for a few months. Tell her why she needs a tonic and regulator at this critical time. Teach her now to guard her health. When she is a happy, healthy, normal wife and mother she will thank you.

"My daughter Sylvia is sixteen. She was rundown and irregular. I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound myself and I knew it would be good for her. It has regulated her and improved her general health. She works hard every day and feels well. We are telling others about this good medicine." —Mrs. Nellie Everson, Route 4, Wisconsin Dells, Wis.

"When my daughter Mary was in school she was weak and had no ambition. We saw the Vegetable Compound advertised. Mary took it with wonderful results. It seemed to strengthen her right off. Gave her a good appetite and good color. She is working now in Appleton and feels fine. We think the Vegetable Compound is a good medicine for both girls and their mothers." —Mrs. Wm. Van Der Wyest, Madison St., Little Chute, Wis.

Hines, Once Comic Star In Second Talkie

Johnny Hines, for many years one of the silent screen's leading comedy stars, will have the leading comedy part in Paramount's "Dead on Arrival," in a cast including Ricardo Cortez, Shirley Grey, Gloria Stuart and William Harrigan. Hines made his first screen success in the Torchy comedies more than 10 years ago. After having been off the screen for nearly two years, he recently returned in "Whistling In the Dark."

Frances Dee in Cast Of 'Silver Cord'

Frances Dee is being borrowed by RKO from Paramount for the role of the younger girl in "The Silver Cord," story of selfish mother love. Miss Dee will support Irene Dunne, the star of the picture. John Cromwell will direct.

Nils Asther Will Play Officer

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, March 1.—This year should see the reinstatement of Nils Asther as a romantic favorite.

Cruelly frozen out by the talkies, the tall Swedish star has mastered English, and is down on the books for some really important pictures. He will take a lead very soon in "Rhapsody," a Hungarian play which Lucien Hubbard will make into his second picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Cast as a dashing Hungarian officer of post-war times, Nils will don uniforms even more striking than in "The Bitter Tea of Gen. Yen." With his new confidence, he should emerge from this picture well on the way up to his former eminence.

Mr. Asther

Those who know him best will tell you that Nils is a shy fellow, who would be better off if he knew how to assume more Hollywood front. He mixes very little socially, preferring a quiet life with a good deal of time devoted to horseback riding and gymnastics.

Since his separation from Vivian Duncan, the gossips haven't tabbed him once with another woman.

All the out-of-work actors in Hollywood want to stampede to radio work. El Brendel has a friend who goes on the air every morning at 7:30.

"What on earth do you do then?" El asked him.

"Tell bedtime stories for night-watchmen," was the acid reply.

Trust Clara Bow to go the other stars one better. They adopt one baby and she takes on two 10-year-old cousins. . . . The actor playing the butler in "Supernatural" is the uncle and adopted father of poor Peg Entwhistle. . . . Quite ambitious is Central City, near Denver. It wants Charlie Chaplin to play "Hamlet" there next summer. Also Helen Freeman for the same production. . . . They'll tell you that the statue of Marlene Dietrich for "Song of Songs" is insured for $10,000 . . . Betty Furness and Dorothy Wilson have new long term contracts at RKO. They are among the very few survivals of this studio's big drive for young players . . . Did you hear Shirley Grey's real name?—Agnes Zetterstrand . . . In answer to several queries, Jack La Rue, the actor who supplanted George Raft in "The Story of Temple Drake," is not married.

Miss Twelvetrees

There is one story that I'd like to tell you. It is a story about a woman, a story of high courage in the face of misfortune.

The heroine is Mrs. Harold Lockwood.

Any of you with a knowledge of motion picture background will remember Harold Lockwood. When Mary Pickering was just beginning to be known as "America's Sweetheart," when Eugene O'Brien was a rising matinee idol, when President Wilson was in his first term at the White House, when hobble skirts were drawing tirades from the cloth manufacturers and when war clouds were ready to sweep over Europe, Harold Lockwood was a great star.

Today his widow is a make-up woman.

She isn't even a regular studio make-up woman. Calls for her come only when casts are so large that the regular staff have to call in outside assistance. The other day on the Wheeler-Woolsey set at RKO was the first time she had worked since December.

Yet, in spite of all the bitter breaks Hollywood has handed her, this woman carries on. Her smile is an armor against pity.

Maybe, some day, when Harold, Jr., gets out of secretarial school, she can take it easy.

But there's the meanwhile.

JOAN CRAWFORD CAUGHT BY CAMERAMAN IN STROLL

Plays and Players :: By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Paul Muni, star of Elmer Rice's comedy success, "Counsellor-at-Law," coming to the Nixon next week, has won high reputation in three phases of theatrical endeavor, Yiddish and American stage, and the screen. His parents were artists of the Yiddish stage and he toured with them several seasons before joining the Yiddish Art Theater in New York. His first appearance on the American stage was in "We Americans" in 1926. The following year he was in "Four Walls." Among his movies have been "The Valiant," "Seven Faces," and the memorable "Scarface" and "I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang." For the latter picture, he interrupted his run of "Counsellor-at-Law," which resumed its New York engagement following the completion of the picture, and only recently closed. The present tour of the play can extend only until June, when he will return to Hollywood for another picture. The boxoffice sale of seats for "Counsellor-at-Law" will open tomorrow.

Among the bookings of the Nixon for the near future is "Green Pastures," dramatization of Roark Bradford's "Ol' Man Adam and His Chillun," by Marc Connelly, who was a Pittsburgh reporter some years ago. It is booked for the week of March 27.

A number of social affairs are planned in honor of Lois Moran, former Pittsburgh girl, who first gained public notice as a movie star, when she comes home as the feminine star of "Of Thee I Sing," coming to the Nixon the week of March 13. One will be a party in "The Chatterbox," Hotel William Penn, by her uncle, Paul Evans. In "Of Thee I Sing" Miss Moran is co-starred with William Gaxton and Victor Moore.

A Jack Pearl vaudeville unit for movie houses is being planned, to keep the Munchausen of the air waves busy until summer, when the comic, who last appeared here as the star of the last "Follies" production, will take up movie-making for M-G-M in Hollywood.

The Tuesday Musical Club presented its composers' program yesterday afternoon in Soldiers' Memorial Hall. This program should be considered the most important of the club's calendar for then we hear really what creative forces are among these musicians.

Mr. Lissfelt

The program included a piano sonta and a set of piano miniatures, two groups of trios for female voices, some solo songs and two pieces for string ensemble, surely an ambitious array of original music.

It was gratifying to learn how little of amateur spirit was present. If one seeks comparisons one could find sources of influence in these works, but that is beside the point. The striking feature of this music is that it sounds fresh and free, not stilted in performance; it is music that not alone looks well on the staff but sounds well.

Flora Thompson Greene's three trios were well sung by a good ensemble, Lehta Frazier Rankin, Jean McCrory Newman and Viola Byrgerson, and seemed to be the highlights of the program. A noticeable deepening in the character of Mrs. Rohrer's music is also praiseworthy.

Eda Kreiling sang effectively three songs of Nellie Risher Roberts and it is regrettable that the poems were not printed that one could fully enjoy their contents, for what we understood of them during the singing rather piqued our curiosity.

Alice Menninger Stempel played her own piano pieces; they of all the music played were touched by the modern miscrobe and had many smart phrases. The rest of the program was somewhat conventional music, in fact a little daring would have been welcome during the entire program.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Ellen Scanlon Carnegie Lecture Hall

PROGRAM

Sonata in G Major	Jean Baptiste Breval
Prayer	Ernest Bloch
Papillon	Faure
Romance	Debussy
Serenade	Samazeuilh
Vite	Boulanger
Sonata in A Major	Beethoven

Ellen Scanlon, Pittsburgh cellist, gave her first full-sized recital since her return from Europe, last night in Carnegie Lecture Hall. There was a cordial and fair-sized audience, much applause and flowers.

The program offered a rather dull sonata of Breval, a group of shorter works by various French composers, and a superb sonata of Beethoven, with a beautiful melody of Hue as encore.

Sporadically Miss Scanlon shows real warmth of tone, but so often lapses into colorless playing during her programs. In the Bloch "Prayer," during the last two movements of the Beethoven and in her encore we heard the cellist as we wish her to be. But during such characteristic pieces as Boulanger's study and the "Papillon" of Faure, we still miss that dash, that touch of fire that belongs to her youth.

Earl Mitchell played accompaniments. This kind of music is not too congenial to Mitchell's talents. In the Breval he misses the style which might have given the cellist more support; likewise in the opening movement of the Beethoven Sonata, although later he asserted himself more definitely; it was an exhibition of fine ensemble playing, but the players hardly said everything that Beethoven meant. This concert was decidedly Miss Scanlon's best playing this season and certainly her audience would welcome hearing more of her music.

ALL IN A DAY

By Mark Hellinger

ABOARD THE S. S. IZMIR, EGYPT-BOUND.—Spent the afternoon in Smyrna, and an interesting afternoon it was. A typical tourist's afternoon, to be sure, because I had to see the town in a hurry and get back to the boat before I was left in Asia Minor for another week or so. But all highly interesting, just the same.

We pulled into port about 10 o'clock in the morning, which means that I was awakened by the noise of the anchor being lowered. After awhile, the noise died away and I dozed off again. But it was no go. From directly beneath my porthole arose such a howling and crying that I was certain the boat had finally caved in from old age.

No such luck. Racing to my portholes to see whether my cabin was still a part of the boat, I discovered that the great wailing arose from a vast number of large rowboats that had come out to take the passengers to shore. There were at least ten rowboats to each passenger, and the boatmen had evidently reached the conclusion that the men who yelled the loudest would do the most business.

Sleep was now out of the question and, to make it doubly certain, our boat began to blow loud and mysterious blasts upon various horns and whistles. So far as I could see, we were very safely anchored, the boat had stopped, and there wasn't a moving vessel anywhere in the vicinity. But still those shrill blasts followed one another with monotonous regularity.

Because Smyrna is now a portion of Turkey, I hadn't intended to go ashore. My experiences in Istanbul had been more than sufficient to satisfy me that I was none too welcome on Turkish territory. So I lanned to view Smyrna from deck of the Izmir, write a lumn at the same time—and onder what I had missed by t going ashore in the first ce.

My intentions, therefore, were norable—but like most honble intentions, they failed to n out. Shortly after mid-day, at me on the deck with my pewriter before me. I peered t at Smyrna and saw before e a sleepy city that nestled in he hills. I looked down at my typewriter and saw before me an empty sheet of paper nestling along the roll.

That settled the argument. Anything seemed better than tackling a column at that moment; even Smyrna. I marched downstairs to the chief steward and gave him to understand that I wanted to go ashore. How did one go about it, I wanted to know?

The chief was graciousness itself. He spoke a little French and I, to a lesser degree, could boast of the same accomplishment. So it took us no more than 15 minutes to figure out exactly what we both had in mind.

I was guided to the rear of the steamer, and 20 boatmen immediately went into hysterics the moment I appeared. Men waved their arms frantically and howled any number of things at me.

But the chief steward wiggled his finger at one man, and the excitement was over as quickly as it had begun. Oars were retrieved, the other boatmen went back to sleep in the bottom of their boats—and the lucky gentleman raced up the shaky gangplank to escort me to his boat.

First, however, a price was agreed upon between the chief steward and the boatman. I was to be rowed to the custom house—about 12 minutes away—and the boatman was to wait for me and bring me back to this boat. The agreed price was about five cents in our money, and this was the sum over which 20 boatmen had almost engaged in mortal combat!

I shall have to watch the chief steward, though, for the rest of this voyage. He was too anxious to see that I wouldn't be cheated by one of his fellow-countrymen. And when a man is overanxious in that direction, it's a thousand to one he's a bigger crook than his fellow-countryman ever thought of being . . .

Smyrna, lying just about midway between the Dardanelles and the island of Rhodes, was at one time the greatest city in Asia Minor. It was always supposed to be one of the wealthiest of the seaports—and it is supposed to be a rich town even today. But if the sleepy and almost desolate Smyrna that I saw today is a rich city, then please let me rest my weary bones among the poor.

By a stroke of good fortune, I found a taxi driver who had a smattering of English. True, whenever he was in doubt about any question I asked, his reply was always, "Not much good." But that, at least, was something. I promised him three Turkish pounds—about $1.50 in our money—for a two-hour drive around the city, plus a big tip if his service was satisfactory.

The Smyrna that I saw is practically one-half a ruined city. It was only 10 years ago that the Greeks occupied the place, and they were compelled to evacuate the spot in their unsuccessful war with the Turks that ended in 1923. Plenty of those poor Greeks were drowned, by being forced into the same peaceful sea in which our boat rested today. Plenty of them were burned. And plenty of them were strung up. But they succeeded in burning half the city before the evacuation was complete.

And that, mind you, came several years after the war that was to end all wars had been safely won. . . .

My driver took me through the bazar of Smyrna, which is not much different from several others I have seen. Narrow streets that were built when horses were a luxury. Shopkeepers who shout their wares. Any number of little, open shops in dimly-lit passageways.

"Any business here?" I asked the driver.

"Not much good," he returned.

I was getting sick of the phrase. No matter what I asked the mug, his reply was always the same. Not much good. Not much good. Not much good. I began honestly to believe that that was all the English the man knew.

We drove around the ruins of the burned city. And a pitiful sight it is, too. The place extends for what seems to be miles, and nothing has been done since the actual burning occurred. There lie the ruins of a city that flourished only a few years ago, and that's all there is to it.

"Why don't they do something about this?" I asked the driver.

"Not much good," he replied.

"Take me back to the dock," I commanded.

After a sufficient number of bumps had been struck, we arrived at our destination. I stepped out and handed the chauffeur the agreed price, plus a nominal tip. He regarded the sum.

"What's matter?" he inquired. "You say me you give bi. tip if service good."

I nodded.

"Not much good," was all I said. And I went back to the boat. . . .

Colleen's Come-Back First Since 1929

Colleen Moore, who will return to the screen via Fox Film's "The Power and the Glory" story, in which Spencer Tracy will have the leading male role, has been absent from pictures since 1929, when she made "Smiling Irish Eyes," "Why Be Good?" and "Footlights and Fools." She became popular through such productions as "Flaming Youth," "So Big" and "We Moderns." "The Power and the Glory" is a Jesse L. Lasky independent production for Fox and is an experiment in a new type of author-producer arrangement by which the writer completes a shooting script without the usual studio collaboration.

Diana Wynyard's Third Picture Is First

Diana Wynyard, who was brought to Hollywood from the English stage by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, is receiving an unsual introduction to the American film public. Most of the cities of the country will see her first in her third picture, "Men Must Fight," in which she is now working. The reason is that her first two appearances were in "Rasputin and the Empress" and "Cavalcade," both super-productions and not scheduled for regular release until the conclusion of their special runs.

Spencer Tracy Rated No-Goal Polo Man

Spencer Tracy, Fox player, who will next be starred in Preston Sturges' "The Power and the Glory," is occupying his between-pictures time by taking part in a polo tournament at Santa Barbara, Cal. Mr. Tracy is rated professionally as Hollywood's no-goal man. He bought another pony for the tournament in which he plays on Guinn Williams' team.

DOCTOR 'GROWS' THUMB ON MAN

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP.)—The American says it learned today that Dr. Fred H. Albee, prominent plastic surgeon, has made a thumb and grafted it onto the hand of an unnamed patient who was born without one.

The patient, 22, had no left arm and only two fingers on his right hand. Dr. Albee is said to have "grown" a thumb on the hand from a piece of bone obtained from the man's tibia, and skin tissue from his abdomen.

The stump was sewn in, the paper says, and blood circulation and nerve connections were established and directed. The operation was performed a few weeks ago and the patient is said to be using his new thumb now in manual labor on a farm.

Theatrical Agent Held as Bigamist

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—(AP.)—Fred Presburgh, theatrical agent, was arrested in a Hollywood theater yesterday and charged with bigamy in a complaint issued by Deputy District Attorney K. J. Thomas.

Shortly before his arrest, an annulment suit was filed in Superior Court by Mrs. Ruth Palmer Presburgh, alleging that when they were married in New York last September 18, Presburgh was legally wed to Anna Marocy Presburgh, screen actress.

Naming of Ickes Shows Roosevelt-Pinchot Accord

By MARK SHIELDS

Mr. Shields

HARRISBURG, [illegible]ch 1.—Appointment of Harold Ickes, of Chicago as Secretary of the Interior is another evidence of the approachment between President-elect Roosevelt and Gov. Gifford Pinchot.

Ickes formerly lived in Altoona, and he and the Governor have been close friends for years. Their association reached a point of fervor in the Bull Moose campaign of 1912, when Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, who last year campaigned for Roosevelt, was a candidate for Vice President on the third party ticket with Theodore Roosevelt.

Mr. Pinchot himself could have had the post awarded to Mr. Ickes, according to substantial information, but he did not care to relinquish his place at the head of the Pennsylvania government. For the Governor to step out now would throw control of the state into the hands of the Republican organization and put the Pinchot coterie at the mercy of the head man's axe.

They see also evidence that Pinchot and Roosevelt, personal friends for years and in agree[illegible]nt on such public matters as [illegible]rvation and power control, [illegible] political accord as well.

[illegible]itionally, they see concrete [illegible]ice that the conservation [illegible]s of the administration of [illegible]ore Roosevelt are to be car[illegible]orward by the administra[illegible]f his fifth cousin.

[illegible]her Roosevelt Aid Pinchot Is Seen

[illegible]chot was head of the United [illegible]es Forest Service in Theodore [illegible]sevelt's administration and [illegible]eld over in the Taft administration until his break with Secretary of the Interior Ballinger, when he was dismissed. This dismissal was part of the fuel on the fire which led to the severance of relations between Taft and Roosevelt and the determination of the latter to be a candidate in 1912 against his successor and the man he personally thrust into the presidency.

As the appointment affects state politics, observers see the President-elect prepared to give further aid to Pinchot through the Guffey-controlled Democratic membership in the Legislature. There are many legislators who do not cheer heartily for the Guffey banner, but the Pittsburgher is in charge of patronage for this state, and that gives him all the power he needs.

The result, on some legislative matters in which Pinchot is interested, will be an alliance between the Pinchot Republicans and Democrats. That alliance already has evidenced itself once, with the Democrats joining the Pinchoties in the Senate to make impossible passage of the primary repeal bill over the Pinchot veto, even had it been passed.

Realizing the impossibility of overriding a certain veto the Republican state organization, deserted by William S. Vare, has abandoned hope of a return to the convention system of nominating candidates for state office before the election of 1934.

While there is a disposition in some quarters to deride stories that a Pinchot-Democratic fusion movement may bob up in 1934, there is no question but what this possibility is a live one. No such coalition has yet been consummated, and it may never be, but the evidence is plain that there is a strong bond between the new President and Gov. Pinchot.

Bard Prominent in Convention Strategy

Guy K. Bard, of Lancaster County, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor in 1930, is to be rewarded for services to the Roosevelt cause by appointment as a deputy attorney general in the Federal Department of Justice.

Bard was a delegate to the Democratic national convention last summer and played a prominent part in the strategic moves which led to the adoption in the platform of a plank for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and modification of the Volstead act. He was Pennsylvania's representative on the resolutions committee, which builds the platform, and was named a member of the subcommittee to draft the prohibition plank.

For a time there was question as to how wet that plank should be, and there were some Democrats inclined to follow the Republican straddle on the subject. Bard, carrying out the principles of the Democratic State Committee, had a plank of his own which was without equivocation on the subject, and was prepared to introduce it as a minority report if the entire committee could not see the wisdom of going the whole way on liberalism.

His position was well known and in the many hours spent with wrestling with the subject he refused to deviate from his position. The upshot of his firm attitude, as well as that of some other Democrats who had sensed public dissatisfaction with the Republican plank adopted two weeks previously, finally prevailed

SIX DEFENDANTS TAKE STAND IN TAX JUGGLE

Decision in Homestead Case, Involving Officials, Due

Alderman Edward W. Haas reserved his decision early today on the Homestead tax assessment juggling charges against Burgess John J. Cavanaugh and C. J. McBride, both former members of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes, and four others.

The others were Homestead's school superintendent, Por[illegible] Eckles; William Dee, former subassessor; Homestead Councilmen Jesse Honse and Martin Delaney. The six are at liberty on bonds totaling $105,000.

Each of the defendants took the stand in his own defense, and in turn denied that the revision of Homestead's assessments in the 1931 triennial was made to increase their political prestige as charged by the County Board of Claims and Investigation.

HEARING ENDS AT 2 A. M.

In support of their denial, more than a score of witnesses, men and woman, testified, and the hearing dragged from 8 o'clock last night until nearly 2 o'clock this morning. Among the witnesses were George J. Schad, former head of the Revision Board; E. C. Starke, former board member, and A. E. Edmonds, special assessor.

Assistant County Solicitor Ralph Frank cross-examined each witness at length, and brought out testimony that many of the property owners' assessments which had been raised had been reduced again after the regular time for appeals had passed.

GUARD ASSESSMENT RECORDS

Schad denied Frank's allegation that appeal day was for the public only and that "certain people" could take their case before the board at any time. He also denied the board made no permanent record of the assessment reductions of "certain people."

Frank referred frequently to the board assessment records of 1930 and 1931, and three uniformed county policemen were present at the hearing to guard them from harm.

In addition to conspiracy charges, McBride and Burgess Cavanaugh were charged with uttering public records making false entries and altering public records. The county's witness was W. F. Windhorst, of the Claims and Investigations Bureau.

COURTROOM CROWDED

Frank asked McBride why the records of reduced assessments mentioned in the testimony did not appear in the minute books of the board, and the former board secretary declared that he was not required by law to include them in his records.

Frank asked Schad why exoneration certificates were signed in blank by the required two members of the board, and Schad replied that the action had been customary as far back as he could remember.

Alderman Haas' small courtroom was crowded.

Boy Marksmen Shoot Youth Accidentally

Francis Boyle, 22, of 258 Renova street, was in Homeopathic Hospital today with a bullet wound in his left leg inflicted as he stood on a street corner talking to friends yesterday.

Boys who had been shooting at targets on a nearby hillside were blamed by police Boyle was standing at Renova street and Second avenue when shot.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

Will Rogers

England says, "We won't sell war materials to Japan, as she has been proved the aggressor nation." We say, "Well, that would be taking sides." We want to be in the position where we can sell to both sides. Then they wonder why Europe thinks we are always out for dough. Let's not kid ourselves, we are out for it a lot of the time. England tries to stop war. We try to stop disarmament. One fellow tries to stop the actual fight, we try to regulate the number of bullets he shall have after the fight starts. Take your pick as to who is the humanitarian.

Yours, WILL.

U. S. ARMY PLANES FROM MITCHEL FIELD REHEARSING HIGH ABOVE NEW YORK THEIR FORMATION FLYING FOR SATURDAY'S INAUGURAL AT WASHINGTON

PLANS PUSHED FOR NEW BANK

Plans for opening a new bank representing the business and liquid assets of the closed Diamond and Monongahela National Banks were proceeding today, according to announcement by Attorney William S. Moorhead, of the reorganization committee.

The new bank, which is expected to free millions of dollars for the Pittsburgh public, will not be affected by the resolution passed in Harrisburg, Monday night, allowing institutions to restrict withdrawal of deposits, Moorhead explained.

Like other Pittsburgh banks, it will be highly liquid upon opening and would have no use for such restrictions, he said.

Widespread use of this power was not expected here, with the general banking situation in the Pittsburgh district regarded as among the best in the entire country.

HUNT FOR BOY'S ASSAILANT

County Detectives today sought the assailants of Elmer Sheldon, 16, of Seavey road, Shaler Township, who is in the Homeopathic Hospital, suffering a fractured skull, believed to have been inflicted with a weapon in an attack on the lonely road leading to his home Sunday.

According to police, Sheldon, who attends a Pittsburgh trade school, asked his parents' permission to visit his uncle in Millvale after church services "to listen to the radio."

After an absence of several hours, the boy staggered in his home and collapsed on the kitchen floor, the parents reported. The boy was unable to tell how he was injured.

Unfair Freight Rates Asked by Railroads Opposed by Carnegie

FROM THE LIFE OF ANDREW CARNEGIE
By BURTON J. HENDRICK

Abridged for exclusive publication in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph by special permission of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie

Another item in this general scheme of concentration and economy now required attention. The leasing of the Rockefeller properties gave new and pressing emphasis to a problem that had distracted Pittsburgh for several decades: that was the treatment it had always received from the Pennsylvania Railroad. High rates, discriminations, inadequate service, callous disregard of protests, such were a few of the details in an increasingly long chapter of grievances.

Carnegie looked upon the Pennsylvania's behavior not only as a financial strain but as a personal affront. Of the railroad on which he had spent his apprentice years, and for which his affection was almost filial, he had become the largest single patron, his monthly freight bills pouring enormouse sums into its coffers, yet it was using its monopoly to squeeze him to the final dollar.

Several of his boyhood friends —Frank Thomson, nephew of that idol of his youth after whom the Edgar Thomson Works had been named, and George B. Roberts—had for many years been remorselessly active in supplying the screws.

The pleasure felt in the annexation of Lake Superior fields lost half its edge, since this triumph gave a new opening to the ancient foe. The transportation of ores was an expensive process, involving a lake voyage of several hundred miles to Lake Erie ports, transhipment to railway cars and a difficult trip over mountain, stream and valley, to Braddock and Duquesne

A circumstance that made the matter especially serious was that Carnegie's greatest rivals at Chicago, Cleveland, Lorain and other lake ports, were spared this rail journey.

Ordinarily this one condition, meaning cheaper ore for factories situated on the lakes, would have obliterated Pittsburgh as a center of steel. All that saved the city was that, in its accessibility to Connellsville coal, it possessed a superior advantage.

A substantial reduction, however, in the freight bills from Lake Erie to Pittsburgh, particularly in view of the impending increase in shipments, would save a considerable sum in the cost of steel as well as give the Carnegie company an instrument for combating the Pennsylvania in other directions.

Enormous Tonnage

For half a century Pittsburgh had provided a sumptuous banquet on which the railroads had relentlessly fed. In the "creation" of freight, this city, in 1896, had grown into the biggest railroad center in the world and of this enormous business a single company, the Carnegie, supplied fifteen million tons a year. This was a larger tonnage than the entire freight transported by such distinguished systems as the Lake Shore, the St. Paul, the New York, New Haven and Hartford. There were three Western lines—the Union Pacific, the Missouri Pacific and the Northern Pacific whose combined traffic did not

Bogus Bills Hold Ex-Pittsburgher

WELLSVILLE, O., March 1.—Peter Tobos, 39, of Youngstown, formerly of Pittsburgh, was held today on suspicion in connection with the circulation of counterfeit $5 bills. Tobos, whose description, police said, tallied with that of a man wanted in Ellwood City, Pa., on a similar charge, will be turned over to Federal authorities at Youngstown.

Bandit Victim Truck Found Here

HARRISBURG, March 1.—(INS)—Apparently having been drugged and held captive by two Negro bandits since last Friday, when he started for Shamokin for a load of coal, Chester L. Kline staggered into his home at Dauphin today. His funds and motor truck had been stolen. The truck was found in Pittsburgh yesterday.

ENGINEER, 70, QUITS JOB

C. J. Wilson, an engineer on the Pennsylvania Railroad 47 years, was retired today on pension.

Wilson, who is 70 years old, hadn't much enthusiasm for the long vacation ahead. He remarked:

"I'd just as soon be working"

But he admitted he'd enjoy not getting up early in the morning.

Wilson started his career on a work train near Enon, Pa., where he was born. He has been an engineman in the yards below Columbus avenue here since 1894.

Wilson plans to settle down to a quiet life with his wife in their home, 525 McClintock avenue, but his spirit will be carrying on in the yards, where his son, C. P. Wilson, works as an engineman now.

New Deal O. K., But We Also Need Some New Chips

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Washington: the Democratic cherry trees have burst into bloom along the Potomac.

The Democrat flowers when the Republicans leaves.

It is a pretty sight to see the groves of luxuriant office-seekers stretching to the horizon as far as the nose can perceive.

It is rather early for the Jeffersonian ox-hearts to bud. But they're safe from blight. There will be no premature frost earlier than 1936.

Don't forget that this is the first Jacksonite carnival since 1920. There is many a blue serge coat that has turned green in those twelve years.

And as for the pants. Well, the boys wore out the second pair two administrations go.

Now, they are in for a new deal. Which ain't so important as some new chips.

COSTS PLACED AT 7 PCT. OF CASH SPENT

Oliver Cites Economy In Having Trained Organization

In answer to charges of high administrative costs for relief in Allegheny County, made by E. Arthur Sweeny, of Greensburg, in a letter to Gov. Pinchot, the Allegheny County Emergency Association has issued a statement defending the overhead costs of relief here, which, it is stated, amount to 7 per cent.

Sweeny's complaint was made in a letter in which he resigned as a member of the Westmoreland County Emergency Relief Board and declared the state is on the brink of being "engulfed in a social workers' complex."

OLIVER ANSWERS

Sweeny quoted the estimated overhead in Allegheny County at $864,000. At present, according to A. K. Oliver, chairman of the Allegheny County Relief Board, administrative costs are running at the rate of $769,488 a year, or 7 per cent of the total relief expense.

The number of families receiving relief in Allegheny County in the week ending February 13 was 55,164. In the request of the board for March, the salary part of the Welfare overhead amounted to $51,534. This represented the pay of 698 individuals at an average pay of $74 a month.

PAID WORKERS NEEDED

Mr. Oliver declared the only way to do the relief job properly is through paid, experienced workers giving full time. He said:

"If the relief machinery which has been so carefully built up were scrapped tomorrow, and relief were to be given without any attempt to study cases, learn facts and fit the treatment to the need, our relief expenditure probably would jump to four or five times what it now is."

Although the state is paying for relief costs, it is the people of community who will pay these costs in the end through taxes or contributions, Mr. Oliver declared.

CITY REOPENS FIRE HOUSE

Heeding scores of protests, Director James M. Clark, of the Department of Public Safety, today ordered Engine Company No. 61, North Homestead, in the Fourteenth Ward, reopened. The fire house was one of those closed during City Council's economy wave. A delegation of citizens appealed to Council last week for the reopening.

Director Clark said:

"I was always opposed to closing down either the fire or police houses. In reopening this one I am crippling other fire companies by drawing six men from them to man it."

Struck By Trolley, Goes to Hospital

Agnes Conroy, 35, of 3713 Parkview avenue, suffered a possible skull fracture when struck by a street car at Fifth avenue and Atwood street last night, according to police She was standing in the safety zone when struck by the side of the car, police said. She was taken to Montefiore Hospital.

Grand Jury Dines On Workhouse Tour

Completing its work on indictments, the February grand jury today made its annual inspection of the Allegheny County Workhouse. The jury was driven to Blawnox in county cabs. A dinner followed the inspection.

Auto Runs Down School Children, One Killed

A girl is dead and three playmates were in serious condition in the Homestead Hospital today, victims of an automobile which police said was speeding in Ravine street, Munhall, late yesterday, as the children were returning from school.

Frances Gazba, 13, of Eastman street, Homeville, died in the hospital. John Guidach, 24, of 1820 Greensprings avenue, Homeville, who tried to pull her and the other children from the path of the car, was bruised.

The victims at the hospital were Helen Leske, 11, of 1366 Ravine street, with both legs fractured; Dorothy Czajkoski, 10, of 1302 Ravine street, with internal injuries, and Agnes Mojta, of 1354 Ravine street, whose legs were so badly crushed that doctors said they might have to be amputated.

John Hlavack, 30, of 8 Eliza street, Homeville, who police reported as the driver of the car, was arrested and taken to the hospital for head injuries.

Following the accident a witness turned over to the police a half pint of liquor said to have been found in the car.

HARVARD MAN SCORES 'CURE' FOR DIABETES

Dr. Elliott P. Joslin, of Boston, professor at Harvard Medical School and nationally known authority on diabetes, today testified in United States Court that the remedy known as "Banbar" marketed by Leo Banks Barlett, of Dormont, has no value, in his opinion, in the treatment of diabetes.

Barlett is on trial charged with violating the food and drug act by the sale and distribution of "Banbar."

There were many physicians in the courtroom to hear Dr. Joslin's testimony. He said that after examining the ingredients in "Banbar," he had suggested in a letter to Barlett last April that the latter not try to patent the preparation. Dr. Joslin said he had 14,000 cases of diabetes under his supervision.

Among the government witnesses yesterday were Dr. C. A. Bickinga, surgeon at the Presbyterian Hospital, and Thompson D. McCossin, of the purchasing department of the same institution, and Dr. W. A. Beach, of Manwato, Minn., who testified taking "Banbar" without beneficial effects.

The star government witness of the day was Dr. Harold D. Lightbody, of Washington, a pharmacologist, assistant to Dr. F. J. Cullen, chief of drug control of the food and drug administration, Department of Agriculture.

He described an experiment made by giving "Banbar" to rabbits, saying examination a few hours later showed an increase of as much as 10 per cent of sugar in the systems of the animals, instead of a decrease.

Life of Andrew Carnegie

By BURTON J. HENDRICK

equal the amount tendered by the Carnegie company.

Why should the largest customer of the Pennsylvania be regarded as a helpless carcass exposed to its mercy? The word "monopoly" explains this, as so many other mysteries in our economic evolution. That other lines entered the Pittsburgh area was true, but they lacked facilities to compete. For years Carnegie had been compelled, bitterly as he resented it, to send three-fourths of all his freight on Pennsylvania tracks, because other possible routes were unequipped to handle his business.

The rates he paid were the kind technically known as "noncompetitive," which, being translated, means whatever the tax-gatherer deemed it prudent to levy. The experience of the Carnegie company in itself would provide sufficient material for a study of the celebrated American transportation problem, all the discriminations which make the railroad history of this country such a tangled story figuring as its daily trials.

No Need to Fight

The overpowering detail was that the Pennsylvania did not have to fight for Pittsburgh traffic, since it had it without fighting, while to obtain that of Chicago, Cleveland, Lorain and other gateways meant a constant scramble. Quite naturally, therefore, Chicago could ship to the Atlantic Coast at half the charges levied on Pittsburgh, although Pittsburgh was only half the distance.

An added insult was that the trains conveying these favored products to the Atlantic seaboard passed nonchalantly through the streets of the disregarded city. Pittsburgh, to give a single illustration, was a large manufacturer of flour for the Eastern market. This commodity was loaded on river boats and sent to Cincinnati, at which place the barrels were disembarked, transferred to freight cars and started East, passing once more through Pittsburgh on their circuitous voyage. Cincinnati enjoyed "competitive" rates, while Pittsburgh paid on a "non-competitive" basis. And steel was treated with the same harshness as flour.

Two attempts had failed to free Western Pennsylvania from this thraldom. Carnegie was one of a group of Pittsburgh men who, in the early eighties, subscribed money to build the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie. The completed line for a period fulfilled all expectations, until the Vanderbilts acquired a majority interest in the stock and added the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie to the New York Central system. Then the Vanderbilts and the Pennsylvania held a consultation and agreed to maintain time-honored charges at Pittsburgh.

A Railroad War

In 1883 another blow was struck. At that time William H. Vanderbilt asked for a meeting with Carnegie. The great dictator unfolded plans for a railroad starting at Reading and extending across Pennsylvania to Pittsburgh. No such formidable attack had ever been launched at the Pennsylvania's "sphere of influence."

"What do you think of it, Carnegie?" asked Vanderbilt.

"I think so well of it," replied Carnegie, "that I and my friends will raise $5,000,000 as our subscription."

"All right," said the head of the New York Central, "I'll put in $5,000,000."

Work started almost immediately; roadways were leveled, tunnels were excavated and bridges begun — the greatest across the Susquehanna at Harrisburg, the remains of which are visible today. But the Pennsylvania, under George B. Roberts and Frank Thomson, was not entirely lacking in generalship. Mr. Vanderbilt, who had thus jauntily arranged to parallel the Pennsylvania road, awoke one morning to discover workmen busy as beavers on the western shore of the Hudson River, directly opposite his own New York Central, laying ties and tracks for a new line planned to extend from New York to Buffalo, closely hugging the Vanderbilt system all the distance. The most famous battle between American railroads was under way.

The outcome was a kind of Versailles peace conference on board the yacht of Mr. J. Pierpoint Morgan; the terms of settlement provided that the West Shore—a completed road—should be surrendered to the Vanderbilt interests, and that the South Pennsylvania, on which work abruptly ceased, leaving only dark unpenetrated tunnels and grass-grown roadbed, should be delivered to the conqueror. It was magnificent, and it was war, but the end sought by Carnegie in his association with Vanderbilt, cheap rates for Pittsburgh, did not materialize. Twice that city had attempted to break its bondage and twice it had been sold out.

City Is Discouraged

It was consequently not surprising that, in 1896, the most powerful men in Pittsburgh regarded any enterprise directed against the Pennsylvania dominion as a waste of effort and money. The existing hardships were apparently part of nature's order; Pittsburgh steel makers were rich, enjoyed other compensating benefits, and could make money even though forced to disgorge on such a scale to the leader in American transportation. Henry Clay Frick was one of those who had become reconciled to this submission. The Pennsylvania cast upon his spirit a kind of spell, causing him to shy from any belligerent demonstration, an attitude constantly present in the letters exchanged between Frick and Carnegie on the subject. It has been the company's policy, Frick writes, December 28, 1894, "to tie" to the Pennsylvania Railroad. The Pennsylvania, true enough, was grasping; still that was human nature; any executives in the position of Mr. Roberts and Mr. Thomson would behave in the same way.

Carnegie insisted on seeing the problem from his own more hostile point of view. "If you would call public meetings," he writes, "and denounce the railroads, you would create such an outburst as has never been seen, and it may be necessary for us to begin such an agitation, but I hope not." "If these rates have to be forced," he says, referring to the demands he was preparing to make, "it will not be our fault; peacefully if we can, forcibly if we must; but competitive rates we shall have."

An order for ship plates, to be delivered at Newport News, Va., brought the controversy to a climax. This order Carnegie had good reason to expect, but greatly to his chagrin a Chicago rival secured it. The mystery was soon explained: Chicago was sending this material at a much lower freight rate than that which had determined the Carnegie bid.

Justice Demanded

A letter written at this time to Frank Thomson shows the emotion roused in this transaction. Though Carnegie and Thomson had been boyhood chums, the Pennsylvania chieftain is addressed as "My dear Mr. Thomson."

"Three successive times," Carnegie informs him, May 5, 1896, referring to his negotiations, "you have promised a definite answer, and I have been put to great embarrassment in consequence of your repeated failure. I intend to sail on the 16th instant, and I have no more time to give to this matter and much prefer that we should be free . . . Now please do not understand this in the light of any threat. I simply tell you the truth that you may not reflect upon me for not being entirely frank. I think the great Pennsylvania has came to a sad condition, when it is not only not willing, but not anxious, to stand behind its own customers and give equal rates per ton per mile to those which their competitors receive. The idea that Chicago can send ten thousand tons of plates to Newport News for three dollars a gross ton, and the P. R. R. Co. tries to get four dollars net a ton (from Pittsburgh), and that billets reach New Jersey as cheaply from Chicago as from Pittsburgh! If the thousands of idle men in Pittsburgh today knew that this was one reason for their idleness, I would not give much for the receipts of the Pennsylvania road in and around Pittsburgh after a month or two. Even if you do not arrange with us, something must be done soon, or an explosion will take place."

M'Nab, Wife Slayer, Dies in Penitentiary

James McNab, 57, serving a sentence of from five to 15 years for the murder of his alleged common-law wife at 159 Wabash avenue, in July, 1930, died in Western Penitentiary early today. After the slaying McNab is said to have buried the women's body under a porch and then attempted to end his own life. He was convicted of second degree murder.

Caught in Machinery, Boy Whirled to Death

OIL CITY, Pa., March 1.—His clothing caught in the belting of moving machinery in a gasoline plant at Shamburg, 5-year-old Edward Chase was whirled about like a pinwheel until he was dead. His lifeless body was found last night by his father, Newell Chase.

RITE OF ASHES OPENS SEASON OF PENANCE

Today is [illegible] Wednesday, the beginning of Lent. Until Easter, the Christian world will observe its yearly season of penitence and prayer, fasting and self-denial in memory of the dark hours before the Crucifixion of Jesus.

The day was observed in all Catholic churches with the rite of ashes, crossed on the brows of the faithful.

The poor and distressed are exempted from observing the traditional regulations for fasting and abstinence during Lent, it was declared yesterday by the Rev. A. J. Pauley, secretary to Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, of the Catholic diocese of Pittsburgh. Father Pauley said:

> "It is a basic law of the church that the poor are not included in the fasting and abstinence laws."

SERVICES BEING HELD

A number of churches in the Pittsburgh district held pre-Lenten services last Sunday. Others begin the observance today. The Rev. John J. Myers, missionary superintendent of the Pittsburgh Synod of the United Lutheran Church in America, will be guest speaker at the first Lenten service in the Mt. Zion Lutheran Church, Evaline street, Shadyside, at 8 o'clock tonight. The sacrament of Holy Communion will be administered.

Prof. Ray Eldred Butler, Bible lecturer of Swissvale, will give a series of six illustrated Bible history lectures Sunday evenings during Lent on "From Adam in the Garden of Eden to Paul in the Prison in Rome," it has been announced by the Rev. Dr. David E. Maxwell, pastor.

EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS

Beginning tonight, the Volunteers of America will hold a series of evangelistic services to continue until Easter, in the chapel, 724 East Diamond street, North Side. Mrs. Elizabeth Hoffman, of Reading, will speak tonight on "The Christ of the Field."

Weekly Lenten services will be held in the chapel of the Pittsburgh Goodwill Industries, Liberty avenue and Twenty-eighth street, beginning at 12:30 p. m., today.

Lenten noon-day services in Trinity Cathedral, beginning at 12:30 today and continuing daily through April 14, Good Friday. A series of Thursday evening Lenten services begins tomorrow in the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, Forbes street and Murray avenue. Marshall Bidwell will deliver a series of Saturday evening lectures on music during the Lenten season.

ATHLETES HURT IN AUTO SPILL

Four members of the Jednota basketball team of West Aliquippa were injured when the automobile in which they were riding struck a curb in the Ohio River boulevard at Elizabeth street, Avalon, and rolled down the hillside last night.

The victims, suffering bruises and lacerations, were treated at Suburban General Hospital. They were Peter Kuzma, 22, of Fourth avenue; Joseph Sullivan, 21, of 133 Superior avenue; Mike Dzurko, 21, of Main street, and Francis Cutell, 21, all of West Aliquippa. John Rusnick, of 600 Allegheny avenue, West Aliquippa, driver of the machine, escaped injury.

Rusnick told Police Chief Louis Luckan he swerved his car to avoid colliding with another. The young men were en route to Homestead to play a game with St. Michael's Church team.

Baum Boulevard Gas Station Held Up

Two bandits held up John O'Donnell, attendant at the Standard Oil Company service station, Baum boulevard and Morewood avenue, and robbed him of $20 last night. They escaped in an automobile.

'BOMB' PROVES COCOANUT

As Patrolmen Ollie Moran and James Daugherty were cruising the Penn avenue produce district early today in a radio car from the Lawrenceville police district, their attention was diverted to a man frantically trying to hail them down. They stopped. The man said:

> "I'm Andrew Neddest, of 1503 Garden street. I'm a night watchman in the Penn Produce Company, 68 Twenty-first street. Somebody has tossed a bomb into our building."

In the middle of the floor the bomb was found. It was wrapped in yellow paper and tied with wire.

Gingerly the police opened the package and found on the inside—a cocoanut.

Although regarding the sending of the "bomb" as a hoax, police believe it may have been intended as a warning of a future attempt to blow up the place.

BURKE AND BECHTEL DROPPED FROM COUNTY PAYROLL

32 LOSE JOBS, 33 MORE SOON TO FOLLOW

John Jay Burke, city office manager of county parks, and L. F. Bechtel, county road maintenance engineer, are among 32 county employes whose jobs have been eliminated by the County Commissioners. Letters were in the mails today notifying them their services were dispensed with, effective today.

Thirty-three others will be dropped from the payroll March 15, nine from the Bureau of Elections. In making the Elections Bureau slash it is understood each County Commissioner must recommend three of his own appointees for dismissal.

WOMEN CLEANERS FIRED

Nine of the 32 dropped from the county payroll were women cleaners in the Department of Supplies and Property, and from the same department six bridge watchmen were dropped.

H. H. Leith, of 244 Adger street, a county engineer, was named to succeed Bechtel temporarily, without increase in salary.

Others notified that their job had been eliminated were Edward A. Walker, clerk in the asphalt division; H. Boyle, a chauffeur-laborer in the planning commission; M. J. Pischke, superintendent of the deed registry, and Frank W. Schilling, assistant draftsman in the deed registry; C. F. Forrest, recreation director, county parks; Christ C. Truck Wrecks Light, Jail St. Louis Driver

L. C. Christopher, 38, of St. Louis, driving a truck with trailer attached, was lodged in the North Side Police Station early today on a reckless driving charge after his automobile damaged two units of the traffic signal light at East Ohio and Federal streets. The accident occurred as Christopher was turning out of East Ohio street into Federal street.

Sun-Telegraph-Warner Junior Komic Club

When the grand jester of the Rowland Chapter of the Sun-Telegraph Warner Theater Junior Komic Club called the meeting to order Saturday, more than 500 members were present. The meeting was opened with community singing and the youngsters who have the privilege of choosing their favorite songs sang "Shine On Harvest Moon," "I Don't Know Why" and "Now's the Time to Fall in Love," the song made popular by Eddie Cantor in his radio broadcasts.

A vote taken at all the Komic Club meetings a couple of weeks ago showed that Eddie Cantor's theme song of last year is the one that the youngsters would rather sing and hear. Following the community singing, Miss Mildred Rotthoff, assistant cashier of the Rowland, made several announcements relative to the future programs and then introduced the orchestra which, under the direction of David Stanley, played "Underneath the Harlem Moon" and "Fit As a Fiddle." David sang both numbers.

Little Phyllis Bateman then sang a couple of numbers which the orchestra played. They were "You Little So and So" and "I'm Sure of Everything but You." The meeting was brought to a close with more community singing.

LEHMAN SPARES DOOMED PAIR

ALBANY, N. Y., March 1.—(AP.) — The death sentences against Mary Fields Simpson, 22, and her husband, R. J. Simpson, 29, convicted of slaying her 1-year-old child, were commuted to life imprisonment yesterday by Gov. Lehman. The Governor said:

"It is perfectly apparent to me from the record, the public hearing and the close study I have given to the case that these two defendants are mentally defective."

The couple would have been electrocuted at Sing Sing Prison Thursday night without the Governor's intervention. Mrs. Simpson would have then become the fourth woman executed in New York State.

Gov. Lehman made no reference to the fact that a woman was facing the prospect of electrocution.

Grace Willard Dies; Mother of Actress

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—(AP.)—Mrs. Grace Robinson Willard, author, war correspondent and mother of Catherine Willard, the actress, died here yesterday of pneumonia.

Dormont Slashes Pay and Tax Rates

A 10 per cent slash in the salary of borough employes and a two-mills reduction in the tax levy were voted last night by Dormont Council. Burgess Charles Chamberlain, whose salary is fixed by law, volunteered the wage cut. The new millage was set at nine mills.

BLAZE PERILS MINE TOWN

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 1.—In less than an hour, flames last night did $30,000 damage at the coke plant of Revere, owned by the W. J. Rainey Company. The company store and postoffice in the store building, the one-story office of Justice Beth Minor, the laboratory of the Rainey company and the residence of George Harshman were destroyed. For a time the flames threatened to sweep the town.

The general store and home of Rocco Lapenta and the residences of Supt. Thomas Beck and Sam Zamerelli were badly damaged.

Added to the spectacle which attracted thousands of spectators were roaring flames of gas coming from a main from which the cap was melted by intense heat.

As the fire gained headway and the water supply was shut off due to a bursted main, it appeared the town was doomed. Families removed their household goods to a flat a safe distance away.

COUPLE STRUCK BY AUTO

Ruth Leitch, 21, of 1246 Peermont avenue, Dormont, and her companion, Bruce Maguire, 21, of 616 West North avenue, were injured slightly when struck by an automobile at West North avenue and Buena Vista street last night. They suffered lacerations and bruises which were treated at Presbyterian Hospital.

Suffering lacerations on the head and face when he was struck by an automobile at Penn avenue and Ninth street last night, John Weis, 83, of 181 Washington street, Etna, was treated at Allegheny General Hospital. The machine was driven, police said, by George Komlynovich, 24, of 703 Benwood avenue, McKees Rocks.

DEPUTIES' PAY AGAIN DENIED

Despite Common Pleas Court approval of his appointment of four Deputy Sheriffs to guard ballot boxes stored in his office, Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar today was to be notified again that the County Commissioners will not pay their wages. The Commissioners maintained their previous stand yesterday after receiving a letter and a bill for $2,425 from the Sheriffs office.

Gollmar was expected today to ask the court for an order instructing the Commissioners to pay the bill. If it is obtained and the Commissioners still refuse, Gollmar is expected to ask a mandamus.

The Commissioners assert that while the Sheriff had the right to appoint the deputies, he should have called a salary board meeting to pass on their pay and term of employment.

2 Shot, Buried Alive, Ranch Owner Held

SEATTLE, March 1.—(AP.)—Investigators said today that two men James Martin admitted killing near Eglon last October were shot and then buried alive.

County Prosecutor R. W. Miller announced his intention of filing first degree murder charges against Martin for the death of his unidentified ranch employes. Martin said he shot "Milo" and "Pete" after they tried to beat and rob him.

Navy Returns Home After 'Playing' War

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—(AP.)—The Navy was home from its war games today.

The battleship Pennsylvania, flagship of the United States fleet, led the mighty procession of 48 ships around the Los Angeles harbor breakwater late yesterday, as the fleet returned from the maneuvers off Honolulu and the Pacific coast and a visit to San Francisco.

False Tooth Chokes Woman to Death

Will Leaves $310,000 To Widow, Children

An estate valued at $310,000 was left by John Lachman, Brentwood businessman, in his will filed for probate today. Real estate was left to his widow, Minnie E. Lachman, and six children. The residue was left in trust to the widow.

Elizabeth L. Neeld, 2218 Broadway avenue, Beechview bequeathed $29,000 to two brothers and two sisters. Robert Jackson, Plum Township, left an estate of $21,000 to children and grandchildren.

When CHILDREN
—don't gain weight
—don't grow strong
—don't keep well

The stomach is not to blame when a child is finicky about food. Nor is every sluggish girl or boy constipated. Instead of a lot of medicine, give a little pure fig syrup. You'll see a change in twenty-four hours! In a couple of weeks, your youngster will have the appetite of a young animal!

For Any Sluggish Child

Pale, sickly children whose tongues are always coated, and who are never really hungry, are suffering from stasis. That means a sluggish colon; a colon clogged with waste. They need the "California treatment." You can give this treatment yourself, anytime, anywhere; it's simple. Every druggist has California fig syrup all bottled, with full directions for a babe of two years or child in his teens. Its delicious taste makes it delightful to use; no child ever tired of it.

Start tonight, giving enough to cleanse the colon of every bit of poisonous waste. Then a spoonful or so, every other day, until the child's appetite, color, weight, and general health tell you all sluggishness or constipation has been conquered.

When a bad cold or severe sickness has sapped a child's strength and stamina, remember California fig syrup.

IMPORTANT!

EDDIE QUITS UNIFORM AFTER 27 YEARS

ONE RESULT OF the deal whereby Eddie Collins moves from Philadelphia to Boston as business manager and part owner of the Red Sox will be the departure from the field of one of the oldest and most prominent figures in the major leagues. The coming season will be the first in more than a quarter of a century in which he has not worn a uniform. For 27 consecutive years he has been a uniformed worker as player, manager or coach. Now he goes to the business office and a grandstand box.

Eddie Collins

Another development of the change in Red Sox ownership is likely to be an arrangement for the two Boston clubs to use the same park. It won't be surprising if the American League outfit abandons Fenway Park and shares the use of Braves Field with the Hub's National League club. Fenway Park is out of date and seats only 28,000 against a 45,000 capacity at Braves Field. The move will give the Red Sox an up-to-date home and at the same time help the Braves to maintain a property which is a little too heavy for one club to operate alone. The removal of the Phillies to Shibe Park in Philadelphia also is a possibility of the next few years. Two parks in one city, except New York and Chicago, are coming to be considered an unnecessary expense.

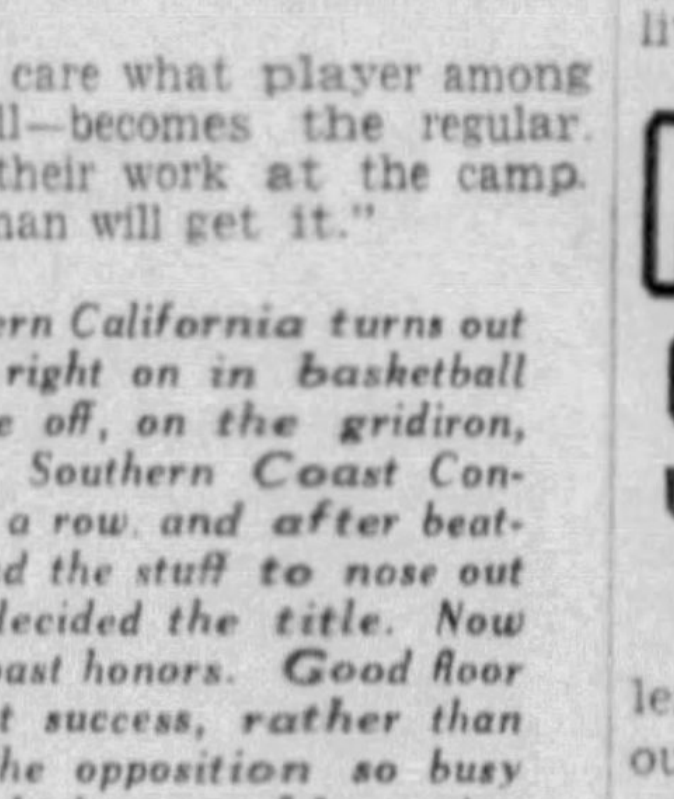
IT DEVELOPS THAT the St. Louis National League Club, determined to make Dazzy Vance, if signed, do his share toward putting the Cardinals in the pennant fight, inserted a special clause in his contract binding the former Brooklyn ace to pitch a certain number of games during 1933.

If Vance has any objections to the clause he did not voice them in a long-distance telephone conversation with Branch Rickey. The only thing that Dazzy kicked about was the salary offered, reported at $5,000, and that's the item over which he and the club still are at odds.

ODD CHANGES OF fortune are to be noted with the passing of a few seasons in the diamond sport. Only four years ago at this time, Walter Johnson, as manager of the Senators, was singing the praises of his rookie shortstop, Joe Cronin, and telling how the youngster was going to help the club.

Now that same kid, Cronin, has taken the place of Johnson as manager of the Washington club, and Johnson himself has not been able to find a job anywhere, even in the minor leagues.

THE FUNGO-HITTING powers of Larry French are well known to Forbes Field patrons. They've seen him, during Pirate practice, lift many a ball over the left-field wall at the Oakland park with no apparent effort. That the players on other clubs rate the Pittsburgh southpaw as the best fungo hitter in the National League may be gathered from the remarks of Bill Terry, Giant manager, who assigned himself to that work in his club's practice sessions. "I'm going to be busy hitting a lot of fungoes," Terry said. "That's fun, hitting fungoes. I'll bet I get to hitting them even as well as Larry French, of the Pirates." French's team mates doubt that Terry or anybody else in the league can approach Larry. For a long time they have been of the opinion that if the Pirate pitcher cared to try he might break the record for distance in fungo-hitting, which is 419 feet ½ inch, set by Ed Walsh in Chicago on September 30, 1911.



Gus Dugas

IN THE EVENT that Gus Dugas, who went from the Pirates to the Phillies in the deal that brought Freddie Lindstrom here, should fail to win a regular berth in the Quaker outfield, Manager Burt Shotton has other plans for him.

It is Shotton's intention to make an extra first baseman of the former Buccaneer. "I know that Dugas can play first base, and I know that he can hit," the Philly pilot says, "and he ought to be an ideal man to replace Don Hurst when necessary, a job that Heathcote filled last year."

BUT SHOTTON IS not yet convinced by any means that Dugas won't fit into his outfield. Burt merely smiled when told that Chick Fullis had boasted he would be the Phils' regular centerfielder for the coming season.

"Suits me," Shotton remarked. "I don't care what player among the three—Fullis, Dugas and Fred Brickell—becomes the regular. It's up to them to decide that for me by their work at the camp. But the job is still wide open and the best man will get it."

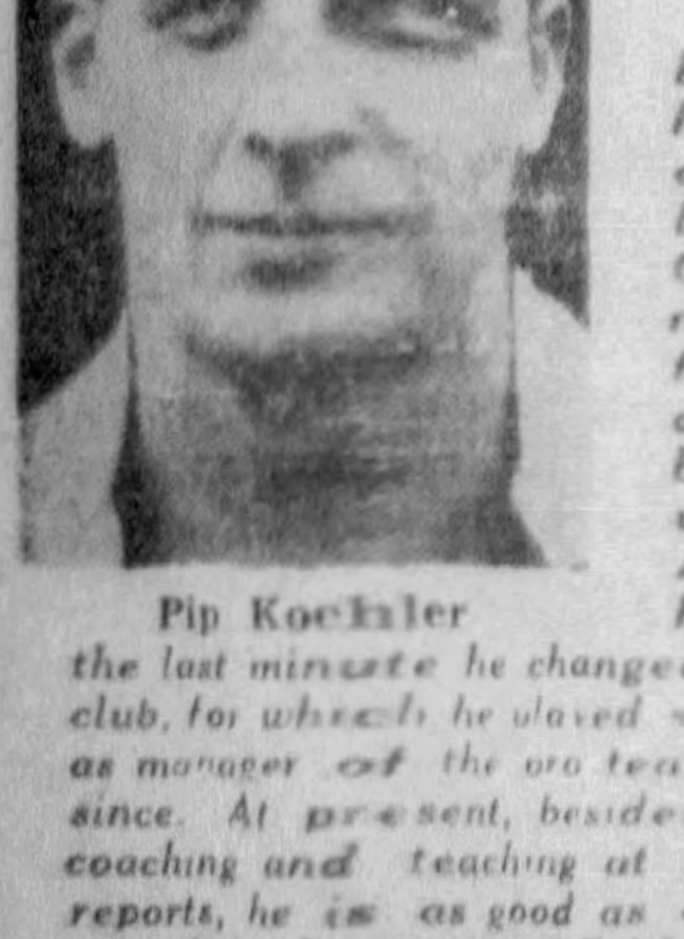
IT IS NOT only in football that Southern California turns out champion teams. The Trojans have kept right on in basketball where they left off, or rather didn't leave off, on the gridiron, having just won the championship of the Southern Coast Conference. They beat Stanford four times in a row, and after beating California twice in close games they had the stuff to nose out the Bears again in the crucial game that decided the title. Now they play the Northern champions for the coast honors. Good floor work was the secret of the Trojan's court success, rather than sharpshooting. Guttero and Nemer kept the opposition so busy watching them on the floor that their mates had no trouble getting free to shoot.

THE DEATH OF Jim Corbett has drawn attention to the fact that heavyweight champions as a rule are men of good health and long life. Of all the big champs of the last 35 years, only one—Bob Fitzsimmons—passed on ahead of Gentleman Jim, unless Marvin Hart be rated a real titleholder.

Jim Jeffries, Tommy Burns, Jack Johnson, Jess Willard, Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney are as hale and hearty a group of ex-ring kings as could be met, and Max Schmeling the only other ex-champ, far from being on the decline, will be in line to try for the title again if he defeats Max Baer.

IT IS THE belief of A. C. Gilbert, track mile coach at Yale, that eventually the pole vault record will be raised to 15 feet, though not many years have elapsed since predictions of a 14-foot vault were scoffed at by many.

And Gilbert's predictions prompt some track and field followers to remark that from the way the Yale leapers handle a pole the 15-foot vault will be achieved at New Haven. The Blue surely is a standout in the development of star vaulters.



Pip Koehler

HERBERT (PIP) KOEHLER will be back in familiar surroundings when he comes to Pittsburgh to play with other old American League passers in the basketball game against the Rosenblum Celtics at Motor Square Garden Friday night. Years ago, Koehler came here from Penn State and immediately found a berth on the Morry Five, then a member of the Central Professional League, which was ranked second only to the American. He was to have joined the Rosenblums the following season, but at the last minute he changed his mind and picked the Fort Wayne club, for which he played several seasons. He then went to Toledo as manager of the pro team of that city, and has been there ever since. At present, besides playing for the Toledo pros, Pip is coaching and teaching at St. John's College there. According to reports, he is as good as ever, and his playing is expected to be one of the features of Friday's game.

DUQUESNE FACES GEORGES

SECOND SQUAD DUE AT CAMP LATE TODAY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 1. —March rode into this section of California today on a heavy fog bank, and the grass at the Paso Robles ball orchard was so wet Manager Gibson revised his intensive schedule. Instead of the two-shows-a-day program, Gibby played a midday matinee. He took his batterymen to the park at 11 o'clock for one long session.

Gibson plans to have his long drill over in time for the pitchers and catchers to assemble at the local station when the Southern Pacific flyer comes in carrying the Pirate infielders and outfielders.

PITCHERS IN FINE FORM

The sharp-shooters are in such rare condition the infielders and outfield stars are destined to look at some fancy stuff when they go to the plate tomorrow in their first drill of the year. Several of the Pittsburgh hurlers, including one or two of the veterans, are in shape to start a ball game, so fast has been the conditioning progress here.

Capt. Pie Traynor, Arky Vaughan, Tony Piet, Gus Suhr, Tommy Thevenow, Bill Brubaker, Floyd Young, Paul Waner, Lloyd Waner, Fred Lindstrom, Adam Comorosky and Forrest Jensen, are in the squad arriving today.

Lawrence Coller, of the home office, who will assist President Bill Benswanger in the business chores, and Scout Bill Hinchman, also are in the party.

FIRST DRILL TOMORROW

Manager Gibson said today he would lose little time in getting the ball hawks in action. Sometime this evening he will call together his whole crew for a heart-to-heart talk. The late arrivals will be given battle togs and the fun will begin tomorrow morning.

Gibby's pitchers surely were in a fine fettle in the practice of yesterday. The conditions were ideal and more than one veteran felt like bearing down. One of the high spots of the day was the practice performance of Waite Hoyt, long-time Yankee star. Hoyt showed the catchers and his pitching pals so much stuff they had a hard time socking the sphere.

Hoyt pitched in batting practice and gave an exhibition reminiscent of his form with the Yankees years ago. Batters said he had everything on the ball with plenty of speed and fine control. Hoyt said he was in the best condition he had been in years and expressed belief he could pitch an opening game at this time.

Gibson plans to polish up his fleet gang of base runners by holding sessions in the sliding pit which has been installed for this purpose. Inasmuch as he was one of the best base runners in the sport, it is likely that Honus Wagner will play a hand in the little practice game.

COCHRANS SIGN STAN BERKMAN

By TOM BIRKS

Ottie Cochran and Harry Fowler, two North Side boys who are out to win the City League pennant for the North Side this season, made it known today that Stanley Berkman, former Thiel football star, and who is some pupmkins when it comes to sandlot baseball, will play for the Ottie Cochran Club this season.

According to Cochran, the newly formed club is going to fill the place vacated by Pleasant Valley. League games will be played at the Wilson avenue field. The club will be run and governed by the well known sportsman from the Perrysville avenue district, Heinie Blum, well known in this district in amateur athletics.

Berkman is very popular in this district. As a star on three Thiel College football teams he built up a large following of admirers, and then later, playing semi-professional football, he won more friends.

Three sections of the Greater Pittsburgh League were organized last night. Whitaker, Immaculate Heart, Hazelwood, St. Clair, Frick Park and Homestead Aces are in the first group. J. J. McGraths, West End, Resurrection, Wilson A. A., Stowe Cardinals, Gonzales, Greyhound and Fineview are in the second group, and Milliken, Mellon-Stuart, Scott Morgans, Pitcairn, S. A. Juliana, Sonora and Bellevue in the third group.

ARENA'S CARD COMPLETE

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Al Ettore vs. Jimmy Braddock and Paulie Walker vs. Young Ketchel, 8 rounds each, and Charley Loughran vs. Billy Reese, Jack Moran vs Joe Brody and Willie Joyce vs. Jackie Wallace, 6 rounds each, Philadelphia.

The card has been completed for the weekly boxing show of the Arena, on the North Side, Friday night, with the signing of the opening bout. It will be a six-rounder, bringing together Harry Weekly, stablemate of Ted Yarosz, and Al Farone, West End featherweight.

Between Rounds

Tony Falco, George Engel's lightweight, of Philadelphia, will be making his fourth appearance here and striving to wipe out the only setback in his local career when he meets Tony Herrera again in the main bout at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. He first showed against Johnny Datto in the Arena, on the North Side, winning the decision, then Herrera won over him at the Garden, after Falco had piled up a big lead in the early rounds. Followed then a surprise victory for Falco over Harry Dublinsky, also at the Garden.

Patsy Hennigan, of Clairton, will box Henry Scarpuzzi, of Canton, O., recent knockerout of Johnny Durso, in the second bout at the Garden, Monday night. Charley Baxter, who technically stopped Billy Joyce in Youngstown last Monday, takes on Chino Alvarez, the Cuban, in the eight-round semi-final.

Three more bouts have been arranged for the amateur boxing show in the Palisades Rink, McKeesport, tomorrow night, as follows: Buster Lowstetter vs Charley Knapper, Tuffy Lawson vs. Vince Browning and Bill Schwerin vs. Harry Cooper.

JONES STOPS OSTER

TOLEDO, O., March 1. (AP.) Gorilla Jones, of Akron, O., N. B. A. middleweight champion, won on a technical knockout over Willie Oster, of Boston, in the third round of a scheduled 10-round, non-title bout here last night.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Johnny Luch, the former Pitt fullback, who was buried in Wheeling today, might have been an all-America player but for a chain of circumstances in his career that turned his feet from the path of greatness and pointed them along an obscure road . . . His pals couldn't figure him out . . He was big and strong and had ability, and he came to Pitt with a fine high school reputation, but he never really hit his stride here . . . At times he was moody and liked to be alone with his thoughts . . . His intimate friends said he showed little interest in whether or not he recovered from his final illness . . . He had been disappointed so much in his youthful hopes that the futility of struggling seemed to have overcome him . . . And yet he might have been a grand success.

Some 25 to 30 years ago, the old South Side basketball team was quite the rage, with victories over the famous Buffalo Germans and other good teams. . . . And then, one night, it ran afoul of a hurricane in the form of the Tamaqua (Pa.) Club, including such stars as Harry Hough, Joe Fogarty, Charley O'Donnell and Fred Mulliner, and was routed. . . The fans thought it was a mistake, so the teams were matched for several more games, and of them all the South Siders won only one, and then the inimitable Hough was not in the visitors' lineup . . . The Tamaqua Club met other teams in Western Pennsylvania and cleaned up and set a style that was copied far and wide. . . Veteran fans still rave as they recall the dribbling of Hough, Fogarty's high, archeu shots, O'Donnell's floor work and Mulliner's center play.

The Tamaquas reigned as the best team ever seen here until a decade or so ago, when the famous Original Celtics of New York came on to dazzle the fans with Holman and Dehnert and Haggerty and Beckman and others and made the fans forget the Tamaquas . . . And now the Celtics, known today as the Cleveland Rosenblum Celtics, still are carrying on, perhaps not as f the once were, but even yet the smoothest working combination on the courts, marvels of a high order, with their bullet-like passing of the ball and their accurate shooting. . . . It takes an extraordinary team to beat them or come close to it . . . Playing more than 100 games each season and traveling almost daily, it is a big news story when they lose a game.

These Celtics, or Rosies, as they sometimes are called, are thrilling the local fans anew this week with a series of games at the I. K. S., Motor Square Garden and the South Side Market House . . . It's an education in basketball to watch them perform . . . Coaches of college and school and club teams take their entire squads to see them in action for this purpose.

Boxing fans were divided in their opinions of the work of Tommy Reilly, the Philadelphia referee, who was imported here to work the latest Ted Yarosz-Eddie (Kid) Wolfe fight at Motor Square Garden Monday night . . . Reilly is not inclined to bother the fighters any more than is necessary, and this makes for a lot of close-range fighting, as he encourages them to fight their way out of the clinches . . . Tommy is not a young man and does not move very rapidly, and some of the spectators joshed him about the possibility of getting in the way of a punch or two, but he went about his work without paying any attention to them . . . He was the referee selected to handle the first Tunney-Dempsey fight in Philadelphia, almost seven years ago . . . He has aged a lot since, and he proved a study in contrast with our own fast-moving officials, who keep the fighters apart and boxing and punching at long range as much as possible.—

Ray Henry

New Castle and Duquesne reported to have two of the clubs entered in the elimina and are picked among the f ites to win the title relinqu by Braddock High School.

FACE REAL TEST

In engaging Georges Town Coach Ray Henry's Duq passers are meeting a team enjoyed a successful season Section XIII. Georges was on the few W. P. I. A. L. entrie finish its sectional schedule un feated, scoring an even dozen vic tories.

New Castle suffered only on defeat in Section III, but wa pressed by Butler until the closin days of the season. Union Township won its sectional crown with a record of seven victories and three defeats.

Duquesne hails from a section that is noted for the caliber of high class basketball teams it sends forth. Among its rivals were Homestead and McKeesport, like Duquesne, both former W. P. I. A. L. champions.

While two eliminations are being run off in the Pitt Stadium pavilion and at New Wilmington, Centerville and Bentleyville clash at Charleroi High to determine which of the two quintets will represent Section XVI in the tournament. The winner will meet Rankin, Section VIII champion, in the Pitt Stadium pavilion on Saturday.

SOUTH VICTOR

Hailed as the greatest floor machine assembled by a City League school in more than a decade, South High, champion of Section I, drew first blood in its post-season series for the local basketball championship yesterday in the Pitt Stadium pavilion, when it scored a convincing 38-24 victory over Perry High, champion of Section II.

The long-awaited scoring duel between Bob Kornick, City League scoring ace, of Perry, and Bill Jesko, his nearest rival, a member of the South quintet, did not materialize, as the Section I champions completely smothered the North Sider in his attempts to break loose. While Kornick, the main threat of the Perry attack, was held to two field goals and a pair of fouls, Jesko ran wild to record five double-deckers.

GALISZEWSKI STANDS OUT

However, the laurel wreath of victory belongs not to Jesko, but to a frail youngster, Joe Galiszewski, who serves as his running mate. Galiszewski not only led the scorers with six field goals and three fouls for 15 points, but his all-round work on the floor played a prominent role in the remaining points registered by his team.

Trailing, 7-6, at the end of the first period, South overtook Perry in the second stanza never to be headed. The half found South on the long end of an 18-10 tally. The lead was reduced somewhat in the third period, the close of which saw South holding a 27-21 advantage.

Keene played the best ball for the losers. He never stopped fighting until he was removed in the fourth quarter on personal fouls. The second and what should prove the deciding game will be played on the Pitt Stadium floor on Friday. The lineup:

South	G.	F.	Pt.	Perry	G.	F.	Pt.
Galiszewski,f	6	3	15	Kornick,f	2	2	6

Rankin Wins Title

The spell which Rankin High has held over its neighboring rival, Scott High, of North Braddock, was continued last night on the Pitt Stadium court when the Red and White Jackrabbits defeated the Reedmen, 25 to 22, to clinch the honors in Section VIII and earn the right to meet the Centerville-Bentleyville winner of Section XVI in a second-round W. P. I. A. L. elimination battle on the same floor Saturday night.

The victory of the Rosenberg passers marked the third in a row for the Jackrabbits over Scott,

TECH DISPLAYS PUNCH IN SWAMPING GROVE CITY, 54-36

FERGUS, SMITH LEAD ATTACK OF PLAID

By JESS CARVER

Max Hannum, basketball coach at Carnegie Tech, today was debating what he should do with Jim Fergus. He didn't know whether to pat him or slap him.

Red Fergus

The Cleveland fire-top was a puzzle last night as the Tartans met and defeated Grove City. Red turned out to be one of the co-stars of the 54 to 36 triumph, but at times, he looked very much as if he were all set for "goat" honors. One minute he was dumping in baskets with both mitts and the next, permitting Grover players to play rings around him. The fact that Red usually is a consistent performer made his play last night all the more puzzling.

CLOSE IN FIRST HALF

The Grovers made a ball game out of it for the first half, and had it not been for a sudden scoring burst on the part of Fergus, would have left the floor for the rest period with a 19 to 14 advantage. As it was, Red poped three of his five baskets, two of them from away out in front, with less than two minutes of play remaining of the first half and enabled Tech to hold a 20 to 19 lead at the intermission.

Fergus wound up with five field oals and four fouls for a 14 point l, the same was recorded by y Smith. For the Grovers, t. Fegley led in the point get- with 11 markers. Bud Lay- trailed him with 10.

he Tartans started off as if were going to explain, or onstrate, the reason for their e defeats in the East last k. The team looked terrible ve City did not look much bet- but appeared to have at least 50-50 chance of winning until e second period got under way.

SKIBOS TAKE LEAD

And how it got under way Deems, Grover sub forward, started the action by popping a long one that gave the Grovers back the lead, but it was the last time they were in front. With Ted Rigg and Brad Edelblut leading the way, the Plaid set forth on a scoring rampage that literally snowed under the bewildered Grovers. Tech soon had the score piled so high that it will take Coach Bob Thorn, of the Mercer Countians, at least two weeks to tell his lads what he thinks of the way in which their defense cracked. The lineup:

Grove.	G.	F.	Pt.	Tech.	G.	F.	Pt.
Fegley,f	5	1	11	Smith,f-c	4	6	14

Personal fouls—Carnegie Tech, Smith, Ewalt 4, Fergus 2, Silverman, Stentz 2, Edelblut, Petransky, Rigg; Grove City, Minnick, Fegley, Solch 3, Stavnitsky 2, Koma 2, Laycock 3, Deems.

SPRING DRILL CALLED

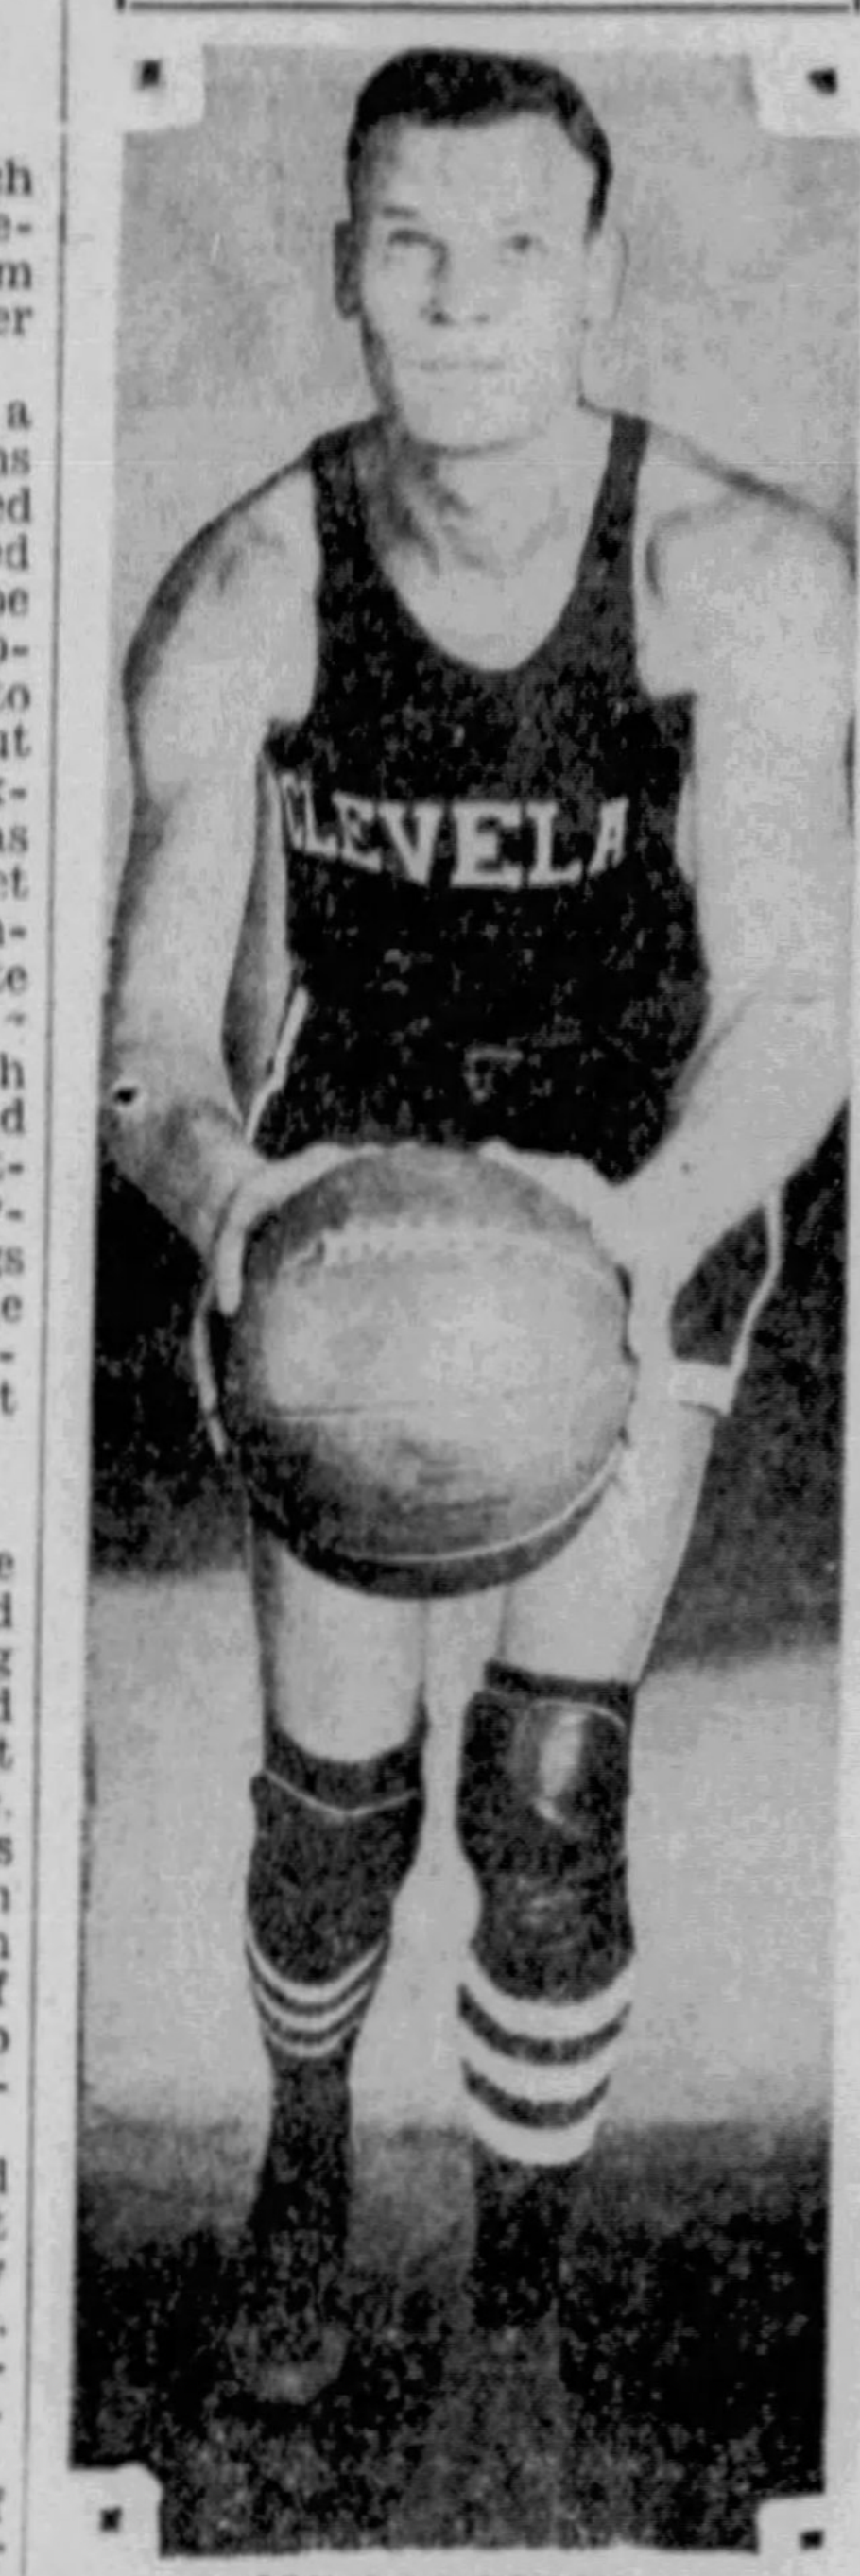
Joe Lapchick, Rosies' Star, On Seals' Bill



JOE LAPCHICK

"Basketball, Past and Present," will be the theme of the weekly radio program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 7 o'clock this evening, as Joe Lapchick, manager and star center of the Cleveland Rosenblum-Celtics, is interviewed by J. J. Freund, Jr., father of professional basketball here.

Lapchick, almost 6 feet 6 inches tall, is regarded by many close followers of the sport as the greatest center of all time.

Hot news flashes from the Pirates' training camp at Paso Robles, Cal., sent by Charles J. Doyle, staff correspondent, will be another feature, and Miss Juda D'Ayne, pianist, will play the favorite musical bit of the late Miss Marian Salmon, former Seals' pianist, who died Saturday night and was buried yesterday. It is "One Little Hour," written by Miss Salmon's fiance, Ralph Federer.

Syracuse, Windsor To Open Playoffs

LONDON, Ont., March 1.—(AP.)—Syracuse and Windsor will open the 1933 International Hockey League championship playoffs in Windsor March 16, according to a tentative schedule of playoff dates issued today by the league president, Charles S. King.

The first four teams in the final standings will participate in the playoffs. These places already have been clinched by Buffalo, London, Syracuse and Windsor.

PIRATES' WHO'S WHO

Our Flag Contenders Answer Quiz, Giving Fans Lowdown on What's What and Why.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Staff Correspondent

NO. 6—Pitcher, Leon Wilbur Chagnon

O. K., Leon, smile, please, and watch the little birdie as you sit for this portrait.

Yes sir, but when I realize I get paid for playing baseball, I don't have to see any little birdie to make me smile. I can laugh out loud.

That's a good one, Leon, but how did you come to be a Yankee? There's a lot of French in your family, is there not?

Leon Chagnon

Quite a bit. There were 13 children—11 living—and my father and mother were born around Three Rivers, Quebec, so there should be a lot of French around the family. My mother, however, is partly English.

Are all of the boys as hefty as you?

Not exactly—they are all heftier. My dad is quote some man, too—he's more than 6 feet tall and tips the beam at 240.

Tell us some more about your dad.

Well, I should not brag this way, but I used to see him get underneath a horse and lift the horse off the ground with his back by catching the horse by the forelegs.

You're not very delicate, yourself. You are supposed to be one of the swiftest pitchers on the Pirates, and the one with the best curve.

Maybe that is one of those bedtime stories, but the trength with which I am blessed I seem to have inherited from my ancestors.

Where were you born, and where did you first play baseball?

I was born in Pittsfield, N. H., and I have been playing basketball since I went to grade school there. I graduated from high school, and it wasn't long afterward that I began to itch for professional baseball.

What was your first professional engagement?

With Lynn, Mass., of the New England League, in 1926, and I played for one of the grandest characters I ever met in baseball—Tom Whalen, who used to play with the Chicago Cubs.

Were you successful at the start?

My record was not so good, but I guess I must have pitched some good ball when Bill Hinchman was hanging around. In any event, I received the thrill that comes once in a lifetime when I learned Bill had bought me for the Pirates.

How did you find the big league?

Well, for one thing I found it was the big league. I guess I was as green as one of the Green Mountain boys when I went to Paso Robles with the Pirates of 1929. But I think the farm service I saw at Columbia and Fort Worth took some of the hay out of my ears, and I feel somewhat easier now.

You were with the San Francisco Missions for a spell last season, were you not?

Yes, but there was some little flaw in the option and Judge Landis took some action. Anyhow, this "break" gave me a chance to become a big league pitcher, and I surely appreciate it.

Your record of nine games won and six lost in your first season included some fine slab exhibitions. Do you feel you can resume in April where you left off in September?

That's the one big thing in my mind. I think I learned a lot last year under Gibby.

What are your hobbies?

Well I have quite a few, but there are four that come to my mind quickly—my wife and three small children.

BIG TRAIN SET TO PURCHASE JERSEY CITY

NEW YORK, March 1.—(Universal.)—Purchase of the Jersey City Baseball Club of the International League by Walter Johnson, former manager of the Washington Senators, and one of the greatest pitchers of all time, is only 48 hours or so away, it is learned. The deal will be closed as soon as Sam Colacurio, present owner of the Skeeters, clears up the tangled finances of the club sufficiently to make a transfer.

Johnson, stopping at a local hotel while negotiations are in progress, said:

"As things are now, I would describe my attitude as just interested. Nothing can be done right now. I should have news one way or the other by tomorrow.

The big train, repeatedly using the term "we," indicated that he was acting for one or more associates, in addition to himself, but refused names.

Baseball Briefs

CLEVELAND—(AP.)—The Cleveland Indians' catching staff was completed when Roy Spencer, who was obtained from Washington in a trade for Luke Sewell, telegraphed General Manager Billy Evans he had placed a signed contract in the mails. The vanguard of the Indians will reach the New Orleans training camp today.

PASADENA, Cal.—(AP.)—Manager Lew Fonseca's hope of working Red Kress into the Chicago White Sox lineup at second base was ruined yesterday when the athlete showed no talent at the position. Fonseca wants Kress in the lineup regularly, as he figures the redhead is due for a good year at bat, and planned on second base as the logical spot. Kress said he couldn't play second base and went right out and proved it.

CATALINA ISLAND, Cal.—(AP.)—Five infielders and five outfielders of the Chicago Cubs reported to training camp in time yesterday to get in a few licks at a baseball. Those in the second contingent of the National League champions were Stanley Hack, Bill Burges, Harry Taylor, Del Young and Harvey Hendrick, infielders, and Vince Barton, Kiki Cuyler, Frank Demaree, Mike Kreevich and Paul McCarren, outfielders.

BILOXI, Miss.—(AP.)—A hard-working battery quartet is setting a snappy pace at the Washington Senators' training camp. It is composed of Luke Sewell, catcher, and Earl Whitehill, Walter Stewart and Jack Russell, newly-acquired hurlers with something of a reputation already behind them for their pitching against Washington, New York and Philadelphia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(AP.)—Only two batterymen, Charley Ruffing and Bill Dickey, were unsighted as the New York Yankees prepared to open spring training activities today. Of the 17 pitchers and catchers ordered to report today, 12 already were on the ground and two others, Vernon Gomez and Joe Glenn, were reported en route. Herb Pennock was given permission to remain away for another week.

LOS ANGELES.—(AP.)—An infielder and two outfielders joined the baseball camp of the New York Giants yesterday when John Vergez, Henry Leiber, and Joseph Martin reported to Manager Bill Terry. The remaining infielders and outfielders will reach Los Angeles today, and by nightfall Memphis Bill will have his full strength on hand.

MIAMI, Fla.—(INS.)—The ax fell at the camp of the Brooklyn Dodgers today as Bud Clancy, first baseman, and Pitchers Ed Pipgras and Art Jones were released to the Jersey City club, of the International League.

MILLER KEEPS FEATHER TITLE

By WALLACE X. RAWLES
International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, March 1.—Freddie Miller, a polished article from Cincinnati, kept his N. B. A. world featherweight crown by defeating Baby Arizmendi, a rough diamond from below the border, decisively in 10 rounds at the Olympic Club last night before a capacity crowd of 12,000 fans.

The champion outpointed, outpunched and outclassed Arizmendi to win seven rounds. Arizmendi won two. One was even.

Arizmendi spurted to win the seventh and ninth rounds, much to the momentary delight of about 2,000 members of the Mexican colony, come to aid their countryman in his attempt to crash through the portals of the gate marked "world fame."

But, aside from his brief flashes, the Mexican was a sorry disappointment, both to himself and to his countrymen. Miller didn't allow him to get started.

Warned that his Mexican opponent would rely on "spurts" to win, Miller was prepared. When he received a blow he gave seven or eight in return. He met rush with rush, hit harder than Arizmendi, and generally outbattled the Mexican, whose chief asset was his gameness.

The systematic method with which Miller kept flicking his right glove upon Arizmendi's eyes and mouth, and the effectiveness with which he brought up his powerful left with a terribly telling swiftness, caused Los Angeles fans to adopt Miller as their own native son.

Even Arizmendi's Mexican brethren deserted their champion to applaud for the cool Ohio fighting machine, the best Eastern boxer to participate in the gate receipts here for some time or longer.

So great was the displeasure of the Mexican fans at the disastrous showing of Arizmendi that they peppered him with pop bottles at the close of the fight, causing Jack Doyle, Olympic impresario, to post a reward of $500 for the arrest of the fan whose aim with a bottle was better than Arizmendi's with his fists.

Fight Results

At Los Angeles—Freddie Miller, N. B. A. featherweight champion, defeated Baby Arizmendi, 10 rounds; Johnny Martinez defeated Stanley Kranberg, 4 rounds; John Grognone and Ful Quintiaar drew, 4 rounds; Bobby Pacho defeated Jackie Pikington, 5 rounds.

At Plainsfield, N. J.—Young Zazzarino defeated Bud Mangino, 8 rounds.

W. VA. RINGMEN MAY CLINCH LOOP TITLE

COLLEGE SPORT CARD

BASKETBALL

West Va. vs. Wash-Jeff, at Washington.
Grove City vs. Waynesburg, at Waynesburg.
Westminster vs. L. I. Coaches, Freeport, L. I.
West Virginia Wesleyan vs. New River, at Montgomery.

BOXING

Temple vs. West Virginia, at Morgantown.

All West Virginia University's crack boxing team needs to do to sew up the Intercollegiate Conference team ring title for 1933 is to take the decision tonight in its match with the Temple University Owl punchers in their dual engagement in Morgantown. The Mountaineers are top heavy favorites to accomplish this feat.

So far, the Mountaineers have won through four matches, against Pitt, Duquesne, Wash-Jeff and Bucknell, without suffering a defeat and have captured 21 out of 28 individual engagements. Temple is in second place with three victories and one defeat, and can tie the Mountaineers by winning tonight.

GROVERS PLAY JACKETS

West Virginia Wesleyan meets New River at Montgomery; West Virginia and Wash-Jeff at Washington and Shepherd College plays Potomac State at Keyser.

GENEVA WINS CROWN

Last night Gevena sewed up the title by walloping Bethany's Bisons, 55 to 28, capturing its eighth victory against a single defeat. The Covenanters wind up their Conference campaign with a game here Friday against Waynesburg.

Geneva had little trouble beating Bethany. Led by Ginsberg and Clift Aultman, both of whom tallied a dozen points, and by Capt. Manning, who accounted for 11, the locals piled up 23 field goals to nine for the Bisons. Geneva led at the half, 24 to 12. The lineup:

Cermak's Illness Delays Dempsey

CHICAGO, March 1.—(INS.)—The illness of Mayor Anton Cermak has caused negotiations for the Max Schmeling-Max Baer fight to be abandoned temporarily, Jack Dempsey announced today as he left for the inauguration of President-elect Roosevelt at Washington.

Dempsey, who holds the articles for the Schmeling-Baer bout, said he will return, probably next Monday and resume his negotiations to stage the heavyweight fight here in June as a World Fair attraction.

Rentner Barred From Track Squad

EVANSTON, Ill., March 1.—(AP.)—Ernest (Pug) Rentner, Northwestern's crack halfback, enjoyed the trip to California and got a kick out of playing in the annual East-West charity football game last January, but he wishes he hadn't accepted the invitation.

For the first time since he entered Northwestern, Rentner is scholastically eligible for track and field—but is ineligible because he played in the benefit game.

Cunningham Says Defeat Due to Blow

LAWRENCE, Kan., March 1.—(AP.)—Glenn Cunningham, Olympic and Kansas University track star, told Coach H. W. Hargiss that he lost the 1,500-meter race Saturday night in the indoor A. A. U. title meet in New York to Gene Venzke, of Penn, after the winner dazed him by an unintentional jab in the face.

The Kansan exhibited a slight discoloration about one eye as evidence of his story of events at the national indoor championship.

Cunningham said Venzke's elbow struck him as the starter sent the seven closely bunched entrants from their marks.

Pitt Stars Attend Luch Funeral

PLAYERS MAKE TRIP BY BUS TO WHEELING TO ATTEND SERVICES OF FORMER MATE

Part of the complete squad of football players of the University of Pittsburgh leaving the Stadium at noon today for Wheeling, where this afternoon they attended the funeral of John Luch, former fullback, who died in the St. Francis Hospital here Sunday from a relapse following an appendicitis operation. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

JOHNNY LUCH RITES TODAY

WHEELING, W. Va., March 1.—The body of Johnny Luch, of Provident, O., Pitt football, track and field and boxing star, who died Sunday following an appendicitis operation, was laid to rest in Mt. Calvary Cemetery here this afternoon.

The body was escorted to its final resting place by six senior members of the Panther football squad who acted as pallbearers and the remainder of the squad and athletic officials of the school served in an honorary capacity.

Two bus loads of Panther gridders, accompanied by Athletic Director W. Don Harrison, Coach Jock Sutherland and other athletic officials, will arrive here shortly after noon for the services. Ray Montgomery, fellow student of Luch at Warwood High School and Pitt, arranged for the Panther delegation to take a place in the funeral procession.

Services were held in the chapel of the Kepner funeral home with Father O. Kowalsky in charge. Services were preceded by a high mass of requiem this morning.

Luch's family resides in Provident, O., a small mining town, having moved there last year from Warwood

VINES BACK HOME

LOS ANGELES, March 1—(AP.)—Ellsworth Vines, national tennis champion, returned from Australia and New Zealand yesterday and said he will rest until April. He played 55 matches in the three months tour. In April he will work to get in form to defend his title in the summer.

Stagg Awarded High Honor as Educator

MINNEAPOLIS, March 1.—(AP.)—Gray-haired Amos Alonzo Stagg, former University of Chicago football coach, has received the American education award as a distinguished educator.

The trophy, one and one-half feet tall, telling of his activity in athletics and his achievement as a character builder, was bestowed in connection with the convention of the department of superintendence, National Education Association, at a banquet last night.

Lott Upset Victim In Bermuda Play

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 1.—(AP.)—Two upsets, one of them of the most sensational variety, carried the men's singles play in the Bermuda tennis championships into the semi-final round yesterday.

R. K. Tinkler, the sole survivor of the visiting English team, provided the greater of the two surprises by defeating George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago, star of the contingent from the United States, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2, in a hard fought match.

J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., supplied the lesser upset, defeating Edward R. Avory, of England, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Bronson Sought As Tourney Referee

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 1.—(AP.)—Jimmy Bronson, of New York, Tunney's chief second in his title match with Dempsey in Chicago in 1927, has been asked to referee the Intercollegiate Boxing Conference tourney here March 17 and 18.

Four men in each weight class having the best records will meet to decide individual titles.

SCOTT DEFEATS TOM GOODWIN

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 1.—C. M. Scott, of Pittsburgh, is playing his second round match in the Palm Beach golf championship tournament over the Palm Beach Country Club course today. He is meeting William H. Hyde, of Ridgway, Pa., in the title division.

Scott scored a notable victory in the first round yesterday when he eliminated Tommy Goodwin, youthful New York state amateur champion in a match which was concluded on the nineteenth hole. Goodwin won both the medal and the Palm Beach title last year.

MRS. GARBER QUALIFIES

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 1.—Mrs. M. K. Garber, of Pittsburgh, teed off this morning in the first round of match play in the annual Florida East Coast women's golf championship over St. Augustine links. She is opposing Mrs. Eleanor B. Gibbs, of England, in the second division.

Mrs. Garber qualified yesterday with a card of 53-53—106. A splendid outward 38, only one shot over men's par, enabled Miss Kathleen Garnham, of England, to win the qualifying medal with a score of 81.

Tied for second place, at 84 were Miss Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., winner of the tournament in the last two years, who is bidding for outright possession of the cup, and Mrs. Stewart Hanley, of Detroit.

Kentucky Captures Southeastern Title

ATLANTA, March 1.—(AP.)—The Southeastern Conference basketball championship pennant flys today at the University of Kentucky.

The blue-jerseyed team from Lexington last night won the title from Mississippi State College by the decisive margin of 46 to 27.

WOODS TO PLAY HUTCHINS IN SEMI-FINAL

MATCHES TODAY

5:30 p. m.—Graham McCargo, Pittsburgh Golf Club, vs. G. W. Kepler, Jr., P. A. A.

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Charles (Quizzer) Woods, of Edgeworth, former Princeton star, battles Bill Hutchins, youthful Pitt-P. A. A. contender, in semi-final feature of this afternoon's program in the second annual city class B squash racquets title tourney at the Keystone Athletic Club.

Woods won his way into the penultimate frame yesterday by dint of nosing out Ham Robinson, rangy K. A. C. entry, in a bitter five-game contest, 15-12, 15-12, 12-15, 15-18, 15-12, while Hutchins breezed handsomely through J. O. Craig, home club veteran, 15-5, 15-7, 15-8.

TILT POSTPONED

But one semi-final fray is billed for today, Graham McCargo, Pittsburgh Golf Club, and George Kepler, Winged Head stylist, having postponed their quarter-final affair till 5:30 o'clock this afternoon, a half-hour after the start of the Woods-Hutchins engagement. Dr. John O'Loughlin, ranking district tennis ace, encounters the McCargo-Kepler survivor tomorrow.

O'Loughlin crowded into the semi-finals yesterday on the strength of a hectic distance tussle with Jean Caspar, crack Keystoner, 7-15, 15-8, 15-11, 14-18, 15-8

Fritzie Zivic Wed Secretly Last May

Announcement today that Fritzie Zivic, local lightweight boxer, is to be married Saturday to Miss Helen K. Stokan, of 4748 Plummer street, revealed the fact that they have been married by civil process since last May 18, when they eloped to Wellsburg, W. Va., on Zivic's nineteenth birthday. They will be married in the Catholic Church.

Zivic is the youngest brother of the famous Zivic family of boxers. Eddie, a few years older than Fritzie, also is a well-known local lightweight boxer, and Pete and Jack also gained fame in the ring and now are retired. Another brother, Joe, is a local boxing referee.

Governor Closes Schoaf Incident

ALBANY, N. Y., March 1.—(INS.)—After carefully studying a report submitted to him by the New York State Athletic Commission concerning the death of Ernie Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, following his fight with Primo Carnera, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman today declared the incident closed. He said:

"Neither the law nor the regulations of the boxing commission have been broken, and I do not intend to take any further action."

SCHOOL FLOOR TOURNAMENT PLANS SET

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 1.—Washington County's annual high school basketball tournament, one of the oldest scholastic floor events in the district, has drawn a record entry list this year.

Twenty-five schools will be represented in the tournament, which opens with first round play Friday night, and continues Saturday; Monday, March 6; Wednesday, March 8, and winds up Friday night, March 10.

Two champions will be on hand to defend their laurels, California, of class I, and East Pike Run, class II. A new champion will be named in class III, West Bethlehem, last year's winner, having been moved into class II competition. The entries follow:

CLASS I

Charleroi, Canonsburg, Donora, Washington, Monongahela, Trinity, California and Burgettstown.

CLASS II

Midway, McDonald, Centerville, Ellsworth, East Washington, Bentleyville, Claysville, East Pike Run, Cecil, Peters Township, Hickory, East Bethlehem and West Bethlehem. In class III are West Alexander, Blaine Township, Old Concord and Beallsville.

TOURNEY AT GREENSBURG

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 1.—The preliminary rounds of the annual Westmoreland County scholastic basketball tournament will be held in the Greensburg High School gym Friday and Saturday. Ninety awards have been arranged for individual and team stars of the tournament.

First round games have been slated for Friday and semi-finals Saturday night. The finals will be staged on March 9. The schools have been divided into Class A and Class B.

FOUR TEAMS ADVANCE

New Kensington, Arnold, Freeport and Kittanning have entered the second round of the Allegheny-Kiski Valley basketball tournament in progress at New Kensington. Arnold easily defeated Apollo last night, 32-15; Freeport nosed out Leechburg, 16-13, and Kittanning eliminated Verona, 25-20.

The following teams have qualified for the second round: Springdale, Franklin, New Bethlehem, Aspinwall, Freeport, Kittanning, Vandergrift and Arnold.

Tonight's program includes the Springdale-Franklin and New Bethlehem-Aspinwall games in the second round and Oakmont vs. Saltsburg in the consolation round.

Rankin having won both league games from Scott during the regular season.

Rankin held the upper hand from start to finish, leading at the end of the first period, 8 to 5; at the end of the half, 17 to 11, and at the end of the third quarter, 22 to 17.

VICTORS FAST

One of the favorites to win the W. P. I. A. L. crown relinquished by Braddock, Rankin lived up to its reputation by displaying a speedy attack to record its points. While outscored from the floor, 9 to 8, Rankin showed a wide superiority from the foul line by counting nine times to four for the losers. Grasha and Dilucente led the attack for the winners, while Ferguson and Halligan starred for the losers.

In the other playoffs for sectional championships, Leetsdale defeated Bellevue for the Section II crown, 32-15; Cecil vanquished Burgettstown, 30-12, for the Section XIV laurels, and Connellsville defeated Scottdale for the Section X crown, 24-19. The lineup of the Rankin-Scott game:

Rankin.	G.	F.	Pt.	Scott High.	G.	F.	Pt.

A. M. A. Title Swim Meet Carded Mar. 25

Five A. M. A. aquatic championships will be decided in the Irene Kaufmann Settlement pool Saturday afternoon, March 25, four junior and one senior title event being on the program.

The junior events will include the 220-yard free style, 100-yard breast stroke, 400-yard relay and low board diving. The senior event will be the 50-yard free style swim.

Entries will close March 20.

Pitt, Schenley Swimmers Win

The Pitt frosh traveled to Clairton to defeat the high school of that town, 43-12, while Schenley defeated Connelley in the Schenley pool, 48-16.

KRAUSE SCORES K. O. VICTORY

Harry Krause, junior A. M. A. 126-pound champion, demonstrated his championship class last night as he scored one of the two technical knockouts that featured the amateur boxing show staged at the Pittsburgh Lyceum for the benefit of the Lyceum ring team.

Krause stopped Pat Powers, of the Linwood A. C., in the third round. Billy Georges, of the Krah A. C., won his second consecutive knockout victory when he stopped Peno Novie, an unattached boxer, in the third round. The summary:

160-pound class—Steve Kobeda, Pittsburgh Lyceum, defeated Pete Barry, Pastorious A. C., 3 rounds.

KNOCKOUTS MARK SHOW

CHARLEROI, Pa., March 1.—Three knockouts, two of which occurred in the first round, featured the benefit amateur boxing show staged at the Charleroi Elks' Lodge here last night.

Seven bouts in three classes made up the card. The summary:

N. Y.-Pa. League To Join Class A

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., March 1.—(AP)—After 10 years as a Class B League, the New York-Pennsylvania Baseball League has decided to advance to Class A.

Five of the eight members of the league at a special meeting last night voted for the higher rating, with a salary limit of $2,800 a month and 15 players exclusive of a manager. Three of each team's players are not to be subject to draft.

Cochran, Bozeman To Perform Here

Two kings of the cue, Welker Cochran, champion of the three-cushion artists, and star balkline player, and Jay Bozeman, Jr., of California, who finished second to Cochran in the recent three-cushion title tourney in Chicago, will participate in exhibition matches in the Tobin parlors, Smithfield street, Friday and Saturday.

Cochran's last appearance here was last year, when he met Willie Hoppe in a local series.

Jackets to Attend Currie Funeral Rites

MONESSEN, Pa., March 1.—Funeral services for James Joseph Currie, father of Robert (Rab) Currie, Waynesburg College football and basketball star, will be held Friday morning at 10 o'clock at the family home here. The elder Currie died last night.

Members of the Waynesburg College varsity basketball squad and Coach Frank Wilf will attend the services in a body.

U. S. to Hear Roosevelt Sunday

By AIRCASTER

Franklin D. Roosevelt will make his first broadcast as President the day after he is inaugurated.

He will speak from the White House, join in a special American Legion program, to run an hour and a quarter Sunday night. In addition to the new President's talk will be a long list of radio entertainments.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt plans to conclude her Friday night broadcasts on Leo Reisman's program with a brief farewell on the eve of the inauguration.

Efrem Zimbalist, the new wizard, and Gladys Swarthout, will share the spotlight in the Sunday night concert series March 5.

J. P. Medbury, the comic, has solved the problem of hearing his own programs . . . He has phonograph recordings made of his dress rehearsals, so he and his managers can study the routine before it goes on the air.

Lita Grey Chaplin has been booked to sing on Rudy Vallee's Variety Bill tomorrow.

Phillips Lord, the Country Doctor, will sign off several weeks before his present commercial ends, to enter a hospital.

Stokowski will return to the CBS air March 10, five days after Toscanini.

Uncle Sam's ether detectives have become so proficient with their radio direction-finders that rum row's unlicensed contact stations on shore have to change their locations with great rapidity . . . The air sleuths are now able to track down illegal sending sets in autos.

Adolf Hitler Broadcasts Tomorrow

A broadcast of international interest is planned for tomorrow when Adolph Hitler's campaign address, part of the German government's fight for support in the Reichstag elections Sunday, is heard throughout the United States, Canada and Europe.

The broadcast, scheduled from 3 to 3:30 p. m., will be carried in Pittsburgh by WJAS, the local outlet of the Columbia Broadcasting System. It will include the last 15 minutes of Hitler's address, delivered in German, and a resume in English of the entire speech.

On Sunday at 9:45 p. m., the results of the German vote will be relayed to this country from Berlin via short-wave and NBC-KDKA.

A special St. David's Day program, presented by a chorus of 20 Welsh singers under the direction of Joseph A. Jenkins, is listed on WJAS at 11 p. m. A brief talk by William E. Morgan on "St. David's Day and Its Meaning to the Welsh People," also is heard.

Edvard Greig's rarely performed Symphonic Dance No. 2 and "Don Juan," a symphonic poem by Richard Strauss, mark the NBC Symphony Orchestra's concert over WCAE tonight at 9 with Sandor Harmati as guest conductor. Joseph Haydn's Symphony in E flat; Introduction et Danse Espagnole, by de Falla, and Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody No. 1 complete the program.

Chancellor

Adolph Hitler's bid for honors in the Reichstag elections Sunday will be heard over CBS-WJAS from 3 to 3:30 p. m.

Rubinoff Acquires Famous 'Strad'

As his parents looked on, David Rubinoff, famed radio and theater violinist, yesterday became the owner of a famous Stradivarius, once valued at $100,000 and said to have been owned originally by the Romanoffs of Russia. Rubinoff's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Rubinoff, of 5600 Forbes street, went to New York for the event.

Seals Offer Basketball, Buc Gossip

Joe Lapchick, manager and star center of the Cleveland Rosenblum-Celtics, is interviewed by J. J. Freund, Jr., Pittsburgh's father of professional basketball, on "Basketball, Past and Present," as a highlight of the Trained Seals' broadcast on WCAE at 7 tonight.

The Sun-Telegraph Family program, on WCAE at 4:30 p. m., brings a talented group of Pittsburgh kiddies to the microphone under the direction of Jane A. White, assistant curator of education at Carnegie Museum.

Louis L. Kaufman, Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, relays the latest news to WCAE and WJAS listeners today at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m. His schedule tomorrow is the same with the exception of the 2:15 broadcast, carried by WCAE only.

'The Road to Home' WCAE Feature

"The Road to Home," a romantic human-interest playlet based on a feature appearing in the next issue of the American Weekly, which is distributed each Sunday with the Sun-Telegraph, is presented on WCAE today at 6 o'clock. James Kirkwood, noted stage and screen actor, portrays the leading role.

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Is my face crimson? It ought to be. After figuring out these problems, I arrived at the wrong answer and printed it yesterday, saying $1,200 instead of $400. Thanks to Mrs. Martha Lescallette, of Midway; Richard Croushore, of Fayette City; Janet Daugherty, of Washington; Suzanne Griffith, of Wilkinsburg. Otherwise we still would be going along in our own ignorant way.

What a blast from Constant Listener this morning. Because we agreed that some young ladies use perfume to excess and that "a drop of perfume is more potent than a gallon" she answers that all girls are not trying to attract the men, and if an overdose of fragrancy keeps them away, "men being what they are, it's a good idea to sprinkle it on heavy." Oh, well, I'm used to being wrong.

Think you are wrong, Alden, about the election of George Washington. At that time the highest electoral vote named the president and the next highest was to name the vice president. George Washington received all 69 electoral votes. History tells us also that the next highest vote was 34 for John Adams, so they must have taken a second vote after Washington's unanimous election.

In all our dog stories missed this about Spink, Hulton, who followed a wo member of the family to station and when comman to go home leaped on the tr instead. He played hide seek through three coaches finally landed unceremonio on a dignified passenger's By this time the train had pul out of Hulton so the conduc was prevailed upon to hold t train in Oakmont long enou to deposit Spink with the station agent to await the arrival of his master, for whom a S.O.S. was telephoned. The lady, the conductor, the passenger and the station agent couldn't see the joke, but Spink is quite proud of the adventure.

STOCKS DRIFT LOWER IN DULL TRADING

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP.)—The stock market drifted a little lower in an extremely quiet session today, after showing traces of firmness in the early dealings.

Despite the slight setback, however, much of the gains of the previous session were retained. The dollar again acted well in the foreign exchange markets, actually advancing a little against some of the European gold currencies, and bonds held up fairly well.

The firmer tendency in the money market, carrying call money up to 2 per cent, after holding at 1 since early September, and bringing a jump of 1 per cent in acceptance rates, had little effect, inasmuch as it merely restored the short term credit market to a more normal basis, after the period unprecedentedly low rates.

Corporate news included ordering of the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents by American Water Works, while it reported 1932 net equal to $1.44 a share, against $2.97 in 1931. Despite increases in gasoline stocks, as shown in the weekly petroleum statistics, a firmer tendency in the wholesale gasoline market in the Middle West was reported, and Standard of Ohio increased prices.

The action of the railroad stocks in part presumably reflected the progress through Congress of the bankruptcy bill to facilitate reorganizations, and the January earnings reports, showing some gains over that month of last year. Most of the buying which has come into the stock market this week, however, was described by brokers as short covering. While traders have found ttle incentive to sell, few seemed g to go long of the market developments tending to y present uncertainties take definite form.

TTON PRICES STEADY, UP

NEW YORK, March 1.—Cotton tures opened steady, 4-11 higher on the passage of the Smith bill by the House. The trade and commission houses were buyers. March, 5.92; May, 6.02; July, 6.17; October, 6.37; December, 6.50; January, 6.58.

The initial advance which carried March up to 5.97 and July upto 6.20 or 9 to 12 points net higher, met some realizing and a little southern selling. Offerings were absorbed on setbacks of 4 or 5 points by continued covering and further trade and commission house buying.

After the early demand had been supplied, trading tapered with the market evidently inclined to await further developments regarding the cotton relief bill.

Prices gradually sagged off with May selling back to 6.00 and October to 6.28 or about 6 to 10 points from the high levels of the morning. At midday the market was quiet with active months about net unchanged to 3 points higher.

MONEY ON CALL GOES TO 2%

NEW YORK, March 1.—Rates tightened in the money market today. Call money in the stock exchange was boosted to 2 per cent. This was the first change in the official call money rate since September 13, when loans were renewed at 1 per cent, after several months of 2 and 2½ per cent money.

The tendency was attributed chiefly to the demand for funds upon the New York money market, which constitutes the nation's great reservoir of liquid funds, to meet requirements in localities with impaired banking facilities.

Rates on bankers acceptances—an important form of two-name commercial credit—were jacked up 1 per cent, an exceptionally wide change. Changes in acceptance rates are usually by steps of ⅛ of one per cent, although on Monday, the rates were pushed up ½ of one per cent.

Standard of Ohio Advances Gasoline

CLEVELAND, March 1.—Effective tomorrow Standard Oil of Ohio will advance price of gasoline one cent on all grades. The increase reflects the general firmness which appeared recently in the wholesale market.

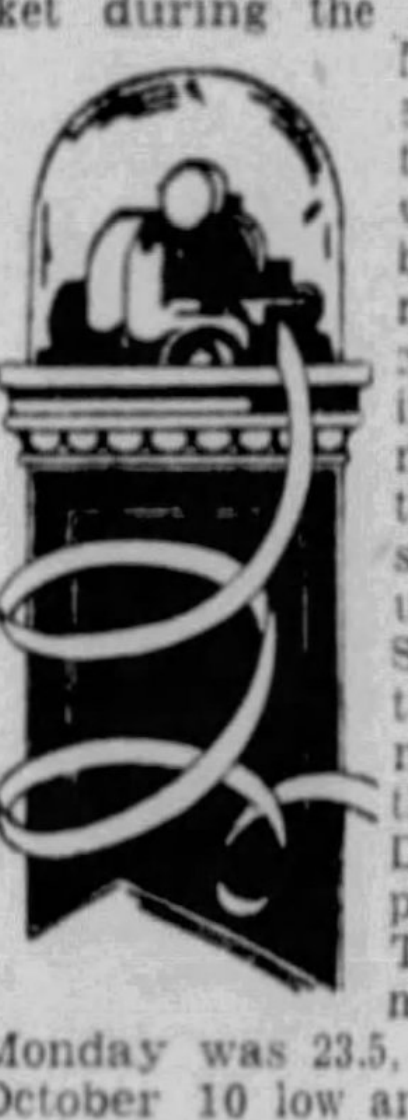
Street Looks to Rails For Leadership In Recovery



Since railroad shares have proven the bellwether of the market during the last four years, forecasting each extended move, that group is still watched closely by traders who make use of chart formations in following the market. Thus far the carrier stocks, as measured by the Standard Statistics index, have not penetrated the November-December lows in positive manner. The low for the move made on Monday was 23.5, duplicating the October 10 low and standing less than a point below the minimum of 24.4 reached on November 3, and the December low of 24.3 touched on December 23. It would appear, therefore, that something of the same character of absorption which developed on those previous occasions is operating now.

An encouraging feature of the present situation is the show of resistance which has developed in raw commodity prices since early December when the lows of last June were duplicated. From the time of the seeming culmination of the slump in December such commodities have been backing and filling in a comparatively narrow range. This show of relative stability is apparent in the movement as set forth in the daily index of such commodities compiled by Moody's, which reflects the movements of such things as wheat, cotton, hogs, steel scrap, sugar, wool, copper, hides, corn, rubber, silk, coffee, lead, silver and cocoa.

In approving an additional loan of $2,234,800 to the Missouri Pacific Railroad from the R. F. C., the Interstate Commerce Commission ruled that the use of any part of the loan to pay interest on earlier loans from the corporation was forbidden. The loan is for the purpose of helping the road to meet obligations pending completion of a program to handle heavy maturities. The Commission said the road "represents that the loan is particularly required in order to maintain its present status until the enactment of legislation now pending, which will make possible a reorganization of the applicant's financial structure."

As expected, the stiffening of money rates, first developing in the acceptance market, finally began to have its effects in other directions today. Following the rise of another 1 per cent in acceptance rates by dealers, call money renewed on the Stock Exchange at the long ruling level of 1 per cent, but conditions were more stringent as regarded new money and in the noon hour the rate for such loans went to 2 per cent, the first change since October 2 last year when the rate dropped from 2 to 1 per cent. The noon rise in official rates brought them in line with those prevailing in the outside market, where time money was quoted nominally at 3 per cent with offerings scarce.

A high banking official in New York said that the country might well be thankful for the present exceptional liquidity of the New York banks. The New York banks, he said, have sent some $500,000,000 to their correspondent banks within recent weeks, and were continuing to send out such funds. The so-called "money trust" in New York, he said, was in so sound a position that the important New York banks could meet depositors' demands with little trouble, the average liquidity being in the neighborhood of 80 per cent of cash and paper eligible for rediscount and transference into actual currency if necessary.

The banker said this was a good opportunity to call attention to the fact that the apparent reluctance of the big banks to lend money profusely in recent months is bearing dividends in providing iron strength in the nation's most important money market. Explaining the reason for the steadiness of the government bond market, he said that banks were not pressing the market, but taking their bonds to the Federal Reserve Banks instead. He said the New York Federal was buying acceptances in the large quantities. Twenty of the largest New York banks hold about $4,500,000,000 of government bonds.

New York Hears Florida Bears Covering

NEW YORK, March 1.—Heavy short covering during the last two stock exchange sessions is reported from Florida where a number of professional "bears" are wintering. One of these, a leading trader, is reported to expect a sharp rally in prices.

Whitney Seeks Better Accounting Methods For Corporations

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

IMPROVED ACCOUNTING methods, independent audits of corporate affairs and the adoption of uniform laws governing incorporation were declared to be essential for the protection of security investors of the future in an address delivered yesterday by Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, before the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

He declared that the rise of such ephemeral prophets as Stinnes in Germany, Oustric in France, Hatry in England, Lowenstein in Belgium and England, Kreuger in Sweden and elsewhere throughout the world, and others in this country, were due to the reporting of large profits which, in some instances, were entirely fictitious and in others were unrealized profits, existing only on paper.

In many instances, according to Mr. Whitney, financial statements are far from informative and practically no effort is made to state in them the facts of the most importance.

Lack of Information Added to Inflation

OLD METHODS of presenting statements are not adequate to inform the investors of today who are obliged to rely almost entirely for their information upon financial statements sent to them by their companies. Mr. Whitney said:

"It is now generally recognized that the lack of complete disclosure of the results of business operations contributed to the inflation of security values which preceded the panic of 1929. More frank and more complete information might have prevented many people from assuming that profitable operation would continue indefinitely. Investors were satisfied if it appeared that their company had earned more in the current year than in the preceding period and were induced by that information alone to hope that the future would show nothing but increasing profits. Had they known that in some instances a large part of these profits were due to non-recurring and fortuitous circumstances, and in others to the use of accounting methods which resulted in an overstatement of income, they might have been less optimistic and security prices might not have become so inflated."

He declared that, not only must corporate statements be more complete and more accurate, but that they must be subjected to independent audits. The exchange has adopted the policy that all companies seeking listing must have independent audits.

Uniform Laws Are Necessary

MR. WHITENY stated that, if we are to prevent a recurrence of the security inflation of 1928 and 1929, uniform and sound laws governing incorporation must be adopted. The power to pass laws governing the incorporation of companies is vested in the states. There are 48 different jurisdictions in which companies may be incorporated and the laws of the states vary greatly. He declared:

"Unfortunately, some of our states, in order to secure revenue for fees, taxes, etc., have adopted exceedingly liberal corporate laws. Such laws have permitted practices which have resulted in great detriment to investors.

"In an attempt to protect their citizens, many of our states have adopted blue sky laws intended to prevent the sale of unsound securities. Blue sky laws are not a substitute for sound uniform laws governing incorporation. If we wish really to prevent the distribution of unsound securities we should strike at the root of the matter and prevent the issuance of such securities instead of merely preventing the sale of them after they have been issued."

Wrigley Raises Employes' Wages

CHICAGO, March 1.—The William Wrigley Jr., Comapny, has raised the base minimum wage of factory employes, shortened their working hours and fully compensated the shortening in time by a general increase in wage rates.

LOCAL MARKET MOVEMENTS NARROW

Continued steadiness marked the dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today as securities markets everywhere regained their equilibrium following the nervousness caused by banking disturbances in various sections. The financial district was permeated with an indefinable assurance that the weekend would bring relief from the clouds overhanging the markets the past several days. The focal point of hopeful expectation was the new administration taking the reins in Washington Saturday.

The usually active list here remained in the narrow trading range prevalent for the past week or more. Standard Steel Spring showed a wide change on the down side but it was the first sale of the stock since the turn of the year. Volume of trading continued light.

GRAIN VALUES TURN DOWN

CHICAGO, March 1.—Grains showed a downward price trend early today. Action of the Liverpool wheat market was disappointing to bulls. Cables said there was pressure on offerings of inferior quality of Argentine wheat abroad. Opening at a shade to ⅜ lower, Chicago wheat futures continued to sag. Corn started unchanged to ¼ off, and subsequently receded all around.

Irregularities of securities, together with a renewal of disquieting financial developments, acted as a weight on wheat values.

With the wheat market lacking any aggressive support, prices went about ¾ under yesterday's finish before showing power to rally. Slight upturns which ensued were attributed mainly to buying for previous sellers who were in a position to collect a profit. Otherwise, wheat trade was light. Corn and oats sympathized with wheat weakness. Provisions reflected an upturn of hog values.

Half-Year Gasoline Consumption Lower

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP.)—The total demand for motor fuel for the six months period ending next June 30 was estimated today at 177,400,000 barrels by the voluntary committee on petroleum economics of the Federal Oil Conservation Board.

The report, made public by Secretary Wilbur, chairman of the conservation board, said this would be a decline of 12.4 per cent from the corresponding period a year ago.

Total domestic demand was given as 164,000,000 barrels, a reduction of 9.5 per cent below the same period last year.

Brown-Dorrance Dealers Banquet

Tri-state district dealers of the Brown-Dorrance Electric Company were guests of the company at a banquet in the William Penn Hotel last night. The new line of Grunow refrigerators was shown for the first time at the dinner. Addresses were made by H. C. Bonfig, J. J. Davin and Dr. J. D. Jordan, of the Grunow company, and R. G. Dorrance, president of Brown-Dorrance. All of the hardware on the boxes of the Grunow refrigerators is made in Pittsburgh by the McKinney Manufacturing Company.

Forbes

By B. C. FORBES

AMAZEMENT HAS been created by publication of the fact that Charles E. Mitchell, as dominating head of the National City Bank and the National City Company, received bonuses totaling nearly $3,500,000 in three years. That sum looks infinitely bigger today than it did when every Tom, Dick and Harry, every bootblack and barber were getting rich quickly through stock speculation.

Mr. Forbes

This will astonish many: The head of a large investment firm tried to get Mitchell away from the National City by offering him a partnership with a guarantee of a minimum of $1,000,000 a year from the profits.

When I heard of this, I asked Mitchell why he didn't take it. He very frankly replied that his earnings were exceeding that amount.

As a matter of fact, million-dollar-a-year earnings were far from uncommon in the later stages of the boom. Almost every big bank shared a certain percentage of its profits with its officers after a specified dividend rate had been deducted. The explanation made was that this was necessary to prevent good men from being drawn away by offers from investment firms, corporations, etc. Profit-sharing is still widely in vogue not only in banks but in corporations.

Admittedly, however, the public, now suffering acutely, is openly hostile to the awarding of big bonuses to anybody.

COMPLAINT HAS been made frequently and loudly that most of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's millions have gone to huge companies and institutions, that the financial "fertilizing" has been done at the top, not at the roots.

President-elect Roosevelt has received from W. R. Angell, head of Continental Motors Corporation, a suggestion designed to modify that criticism. Thus:

1—Loans to be made through local banks to such manufacturers as can comply with rules and regulations laid down by governmental authority—perhaps the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

2—All such loans to be discountable with Federal Reserve banks by amending, if necessary, present requirements.

3—The R. F. C. (or other governmental agency) to guarantee local banks, either wholly or partially, against loss on such loans, if applications are first approved by the designated governmental agency.

4—Provide some reasonable method of appeal from decision of local bank and for final action by the R. F. C.

Says Mr. Angell:

"Such an arrangement would, if properly and efficiently carried out, be very inexpensive to the government and the taxpayer. And it certainly would be constructive from the standpoint of the people.

"It would immediately and substantially increase employment, instill confidence that jobs will be permanent, promptly increase buying power through release of hoarded funds, give the banks courage they now lack, increase railway tonnage, help the farmer by creating better demand for his products, lessen welfare needs, combat Communism and accomplish 'the greatest good for the greatest number.'"

That sounds more sensible than do most "plans," doesn't it?

WESTERN RAIL LOANS OK'D

WASHINGTON, March 1.—(AP.)—The Missouri Pacific Railroad Company today was authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to borrow an additional $2,234,800 from the Reconstruction Corporation.

The loan is the fifth received by that company from the corporation, a total of $20,100,000 having been previously advanced.

WASHINGTON, March, 1.—(AP.)—The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Company today was authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to borrow $3,718,700 from the Reconstruction Corporation.

The company on June 15 last was authorized to borrow $10,000,000 from the corporation, which has been advanced.

Request Receivers For Deep Rock Oil

TULSA, Okla., March 1.—(AP.)—Suit was filed here today by two vice-presidents of the Deep Rock Oil Corporation seeking a receivership for the company and an accounting of $8,756,000 in related company accounts.

J. L. Grey, Greenwich, Conn., and L. B. Riddle, Tulsa, the vice-presidents, alleged the company is legally insolvent, although its assets are sufficient to cover all liabilities.

The petition also named the Deep Rock Oil and Gas Refining Company, a subsidiary, the Standard Gas and Electric Company, a holding corporation, and the Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company.

HUMAN WANTS STUDIED IN ECONOMICS

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Economics is the social science which deals with human wants, and the means of satisfying them by production. It concerns market values, prices, money, wages, interest, rent and profits.

1—Economics is a science. This means that it seeks to determine causes and effects within its field and that it has developed a body of "laws" which state that under given conditions certain results always tend to follow.

For example, one economic law is "the law of diminishing utility." It says that at any given time, as the quantity of a product possessed by an individual increases, his desire for any unit of that product decreases.

EXPLAINS WEAKER DEMAND

If I have many loaves of bread I do not have so strong a desire for bread. We see this law working in the demand for many products today. It is one of the reasons why automobiles, and cotton, and many kinds of building find a weaker demand than formerly.

It applies to money, too; and if we turn out too many dollars, each dollar is desired less, so the purchasing power of money decreases.

Again, there is "the law of diminishing productivity," which states that, under any given conditions, if we increase the amount of any factor used in production, a time will come when the output per unit of that factor decreases.

OVER-BUILDING CITED

We see this law working in the building industry, where the increase in capital used on certain land areas has resulted in decreased return on the investment. In fact it lies back of the overdevelopment of improved real estate in many cities, which is so important today, as well as in the "overcapacity" of steel plants and copper mines.

2—Economic laws are subject to exceptions. They are based on the action of "the average man under usual circumstances." Some men, however, are abnormal (say misers, crooks and unusually stupid people). In periods of obsession people may see "new eras," and the laws of economics may not seem to be working.

3—Economics is separate from morals or ethics. It has no direct connection with "right" or "wrong." It merely says, "if you do so and so, such and such things will tend to happen." For example, it takes no sides as to the morals of the prohibition question, but is concerned only with the effects upon the wealth and income of the nation.

4—It is more important to note that economic science is very different from the art of money making, or business. The economist as a scientist cannot take the point of view of the individual businessman.

That is why economic teachings so often run counter to policies favored by businessmen.

STUDIES NATIONAL WEALTH

In short, economics does not teach directly how individuals can make profits, but how the wealth of nations can be maintained or increased.

One of our great troubles is that we are prone to consider national economic problems from the standpoint of our particular businesses. We mix our economics up with private business.

Thus, because each businessman figures that if he could sell for higher prices he would be better off, we are apt to want a higher average price for all goods. But one individual's price is another's cost. High prices for all products mean high expenses. The nation can be as well off at a low price level as when prices are highly inflated.

The test of all economic principles is, can they be generalized? Can everybody do it with general benefit?

BANKERS BILLS RAISED AGAIN

NEW YORK, March 1.—All bankers' acceptance dealers have raised their rates by 1 per cent on all maturities. The new rates are 2¼ to 2⅛ per cent on 60 to 90 days; 2⅜ to 2¼ per cent on 120 days, and 2⅝ to 2½ per cent on 150 and 180 days. The New York Federal Reserve Bank has adjusted its buying rates for bills to the market level. This would be 2 per cent against 1 per cent previously. Bill rates are now the highest since April 8, 1932, when they were declining from the high levels reached in October, 1931. This is the second raise this week, the previous advance being one-half of 1 per cent.

Humble Reduces Panhandle Crude

HOUSTON, Tex., March 1.—(AP.)—The Humble Oil and Refining Company today announced immediate reductions ranging from 6 to 11 cents a barrel in the price of crude oil in the Panhandle production area. The new prices establish a low of 20 cents and a high of 40 cents.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, March 1.—Bond market prices again shifted about uneasily today, with various recoveries offset by further softness in indiviual issues. The United States government list was hesitant, due partly to uncertainties connected with forthcoming Treasury financing. German government bonds were under pressure coincident with the declaration of virtual martial law in the Reich. British 5½s also sagged, as did Australian 5s and Italian 7s. Bonds of Japan exhibited rallying tendencies.

NEW YORK, March 1.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (000 omitted in sales column; (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

STEEL ORDERS RESTRICTED

NEW YORK, March 1.—Iron Age says:

A rather sharp falling off in the volume of steel business, which is generally ascribed to the banking situation, has reduced the average rate of ingot output in the country at large to 17 per cent of capacity, with the possibility that a further slight decline in operations may occur before the end of the week.

At Cleveland, where automobile tonnage is an important factor, the sharpest drop has occurred, from 35 per cent last week to 23 per cent. In the valleys the rate is 15 per cent against 17 per cent last week and 20 per cent during the preceding few weeks. The Pittsburgh district rate has also declined to 15 per cent from 16 per cent last week.

In sections of the country where banking troubles have been most marked, industrial plants have restricted their steel orders to the barest minimum.

The sentimental effect of the banking situation on steel business has been acutely felt in districts where there are no serious bank difficulties.

Even with the curtailment of the past week, steel production in February probably has shown a slight gain over that of January on a daily basis, but March, which in normal years is one of the best months of the year for the steel industry, shows no marked promise.

FORD ENTRANCE STIRS NATION'S BANKERS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—The entrance of Henry Ford into banking on a large scale in Detroit is an incident of surpassing interest in the current reshuffle of the financial cards.

Even before Mr. Ford decided to dominate the proposed two new banks, it was intended that the new institutions should remain unusually liquid. It was proposed to keep the assets of these new institutions absolutely liquid—which presumably means in cash, in United States government obligations, against which loans at the Federal Reserve Bank can be made, and in eligible commercial paper, subject to rediscount at the Federal Reserve.

Mr. Rukeyser

As a matter of fact, between 1920 and 1929, self-liquidating commercial loans, which should comprise the main business of commercial banks, did not increase. However, bank resources invested in bonds, in collateral loans, and in real estate obligations increased greatly.

AIDS SITUATION

To the extent that commercial banks get back into commercial loans, and invest excess funds in governments, the quality of banking managament will be improved.

Although Mr. Ford has heterodox ideas on financial subjects, it should be borne in mind that the sage of Dearborn does believe in simple honesty, and the throwing of his large resources into the situation should be helpful in the present emergency.

Mr. Ford has indicated that he regards banks largely as service institutions for industry and commerce, rather than agencies for getting rich quick.

SETS PRECEDENT

Like heads of parliamentary government, whose tenure of office depends on how long they retain confidence, banking executives also must bow to the will of the people.

Charles E. Mitchell, chairman of the second largest bank in the United States, recognized these fundamental realities in giving up his portfolio because he has been under criticism.

Henceforth, the test of a good banker will not be simply in his selling zeal and his ability to judge collateral. He must also have a conception of the social implications of banking policy. The salesmanship era in banking has definitely closed.

Rustless Iron Wins Decision on Patent

Judge W. R. Coleman in United States District Court at Baltimore has rendered a decision in favor of the Rustless Iron Corporation of America, defendant in a patent infringement suit instituted in 1929 by the Electro Metallurical Company, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation, and the American Stainless Steel Corporation.

Superior Steel Corporation, has an exclusive arrangement with Rustless Iron Corporation, for the fabrication of hot and cold-rolled strip manufactured from the product of Rustless Iron.

Playgirls in Love

By MAY CHRISTIE

CHAPTER XI.

Judith saw Loranda rise, with Jack. Loranda was pouting. But once on the dance floor, Loranda came violently and vividly to life. She started an extraordinary tango.

They pirouetted and retreated and dipped and snapped their fingers, Jack playing up to her.

Synopsis

Judith Brian, a secretary in the Knickerbocker Bank, and Barry Deane, young executive, are secretly attracted to one another. Judith, however, feels that Barry is above her socially. Zella, Judith's friend, receives an attractive offer from Loranda Tewson, society girl, to manage a dress shop for her. Zella and Judith leave their drab boarding house and rent an apartment. Judith is unhappy when she is transferred to the bank's uptown office where she will not be able to see Barry. Loranda's friends attend the shop's opening. The wily Loranda rushes Barry off to assist her with refreshments. Jack Ordway, playboy friend of Loranda's, flirts with Judith. Judith and Zella go to a night club. Judith is stunned when Barry arrives with his friends.

Now Go On

Indeed it did seem as if Loranda was doing everything to be conspicuous. Passing her table she snatched a glass of champagne and danced with it held up provocatively. She grabbed a bunch of grapes from Zella's plate and thrust it over her ear among her bright gold curls.

Loranda was doing intricate steps in front of the purple parokeet as he swung on his gold hoop, eyeing her disdainfully. She advanced and retreated—temptation incarnate—offering him the glass of champagne and then withdrawing it.

BUSINESS FLOURISHES

As Loranda came too near, he gave her wrist a vicious peck so that a little spurt of red flew out and she dropped the glass to the floor, crying hysterically: "Barry! Barry——"

The little dress shop flourished. Loranda had transformed the small room at the rear into a cunning little Japanese boudoir where friends and customers could have a cup of tea. Around 5 o'clock it was a favorite rendezvous for "the gang," and Loranda's men friends and her customers' men friends would drop in on their way home from their offices. Here they were sure of a cocktail, and a cozy seat, and a glimpse of pretty girls, and the latest bit of gossip.

The room was windowless, and rather dimly lit by a couple of Japanese lanterns in yellow silk that shed a becoming golden glow. Black and gold Japanese drapes adorned the walls. There was a grass rug on the floor.

A black and gold lacquer screen divided off this sweet retreat from the front of the shop and the little nook halfway where Zella's desk was situated.

Zella was uncertain if she approved Loranda's bright idea of thus mixing pleasure with business! Of course, no doubt it did bring customers to the little shop . . . she didn't mind the cups of tea, but she was rather annoyed about the cocktails that were served around 5:30, and the incense Loranda declared was an essential adjunct to anything Japanese . . . "so atmospheric!" Loranda asserted.

JUDITH HELPS

Zella insisted on staying till the very last "guest" had gone, each night, then flinging the door wide open to give the place a thorough airing, and then herself locking everything up.

"I'm the manageress. It's my job to stay to the last," she had told Loranda firmly when Loranda had tried to persuade her to leave.

"There'll be no scandals here while I'm in charge," Zella had assured Judith, grimly. Judith was being a marvellous help to Zella these days, because of her expert knowledge of bookkeeping.

After the closing of the bank, at Zella's particular request, Judith would run in almost every day a little after 5 o'clock, and seat herself at the desk halfway between the front and the rear of the shop and busy herself with the books.

Gay laughter would drift over the lacquer screen. Pencil in midair, Judith would often find herself listening eagerly for the sound of Barry's voice. Then she would shake herself.

"Fool that you are! As though he'd waste his time! And you aren't anything to him anyway!"

Jack Ordway often came. He would bring a cup of tea and a little sugar cake or two to the big desk where Judith worked, and try to get a word with her, and make himself fascinating. Often he insisted she come back to the Japanese room and meet some friend of his, and rest. He made no secret of his admiration for Judith.

As the latter gave her services free, and really was most useful around closing time, it behooved Loranda—and for reasons of her own as well—to be civil to Judith.

LORANDA UNSYMPATHETIC

Judith was particularly nice to Genevieve—poor, infatuated Genevieve who was so insanely jealous of Lawton Clissold.

Loranda was idly attracted by the handsome, dissipated-looking "Cliss" and rather thrillingly frightened too—"when he screws that monocle in his eye and looks and looks at me as if he could gobble me up, my spine fairly turns to wax and my legs wobble!" she confided in Judith.

Judith had laughed a little scornfully—concerned for poor Genevieve. She had told Loranda it sounded rather like a python doing a hypnotic act with a rabbit.

Loranda wasn't annoyed at that. She said: "His eyes and the shiny flat iron top of his head and the way his hands move when he wants to touch you, are rather snaky. . . ."

Loranda wished that Genevieve wouldn't drop in so often at the little shop. "She's on the track of Cliss, of course. She fell madly in love with him two years ago, and got a divorce from her husband so she could marry him. But when the decree became absolute, they'd a quarrel of some sort, which was ultimately patched up, but Cliss doesn't talk any more of marrying her!"

"What a cad!" Judith flushed hotly.

"Oh, that kind of thing happens every day. If women are fools, and get what's coming to them, that's no affair of ours." Loranda shrugged carelessly.

BARRY STAYS AWAY

But it did seem as though Loranda were trying to make the blase, fascinating Cliss her own "affair," in lieu of Barry. Zella had said that Loranda had called Barry up half-a-dozen times, begging him to drop around, but that Barry had said he was too busy.

"He's a real he-man. He doesn't waste his time loungelizarding around with girls," Zella had said approvingly.

"Say, have you seen the new sheik that's just come into the business department?" a little stenographer asked Judith the first day of her fourth week in the uptown branch of the bank, as she sat before her typewriter.

"No. I'm not particularly interested in sheiks." Judith felt tired. She had worked two hours overtime at the Loranda dress-shop yesterday, and then cooked a dinner for Zella and two girl-friends of theirs, and then cleaned up the little apartment on West Fifty-sixth street from top to bottom.

"Good-looking men are nothing but trouble-makers. Calm yourself, child."

A SURPRISE

But the "child" had grabbed Judith by the arm with a sibilant "Sh-sh! here he comes!" and a didn't-I-tell-you-so grin on her face.

With a sudden apprehension—for hadn't she Irish blood in her veins, and now the "sixth sense" worked?—Judith looked over her shoulder as Barry Deane walked into the office.

He came directly to her. The "child" retreated. He smiled and nodded a "good morning" to Judith, drew up a chair and seated himself.

"I was dining with Mr. Graves a couple of nights ago, and we'd a chat about the Business Department of this new branch, and the upshot was I aired my views too freely and all—but instead of firing me he's moved me here." Barry said, smiling in a friendly way at Judith. "Now I'm a little bit at sea until I get the hang of things, and so—I hope you won't mind—I've asked them to lend you to me for a little."

"You mean—now?" So that he would not see they were shaking so, Judith clasped her hands tightly together.

"Tomorrow morning — for a week or two. Just till I get things going, you understand? Your boss says you're too valuable to lose."

She thought: "He sees me as a worker, not a human being—but we're going to work together—oh, I'm lucky to have that much!"

Eliminate Campaign Promises

Only three more days and those repatriated Democrats come marching up Pennsylvania avenue to pay off the mortgages on the old postoffices.

The boys are going to do a good job. As they remark with pride, "There were high hats and Democrats 70 years before there were Republicans."

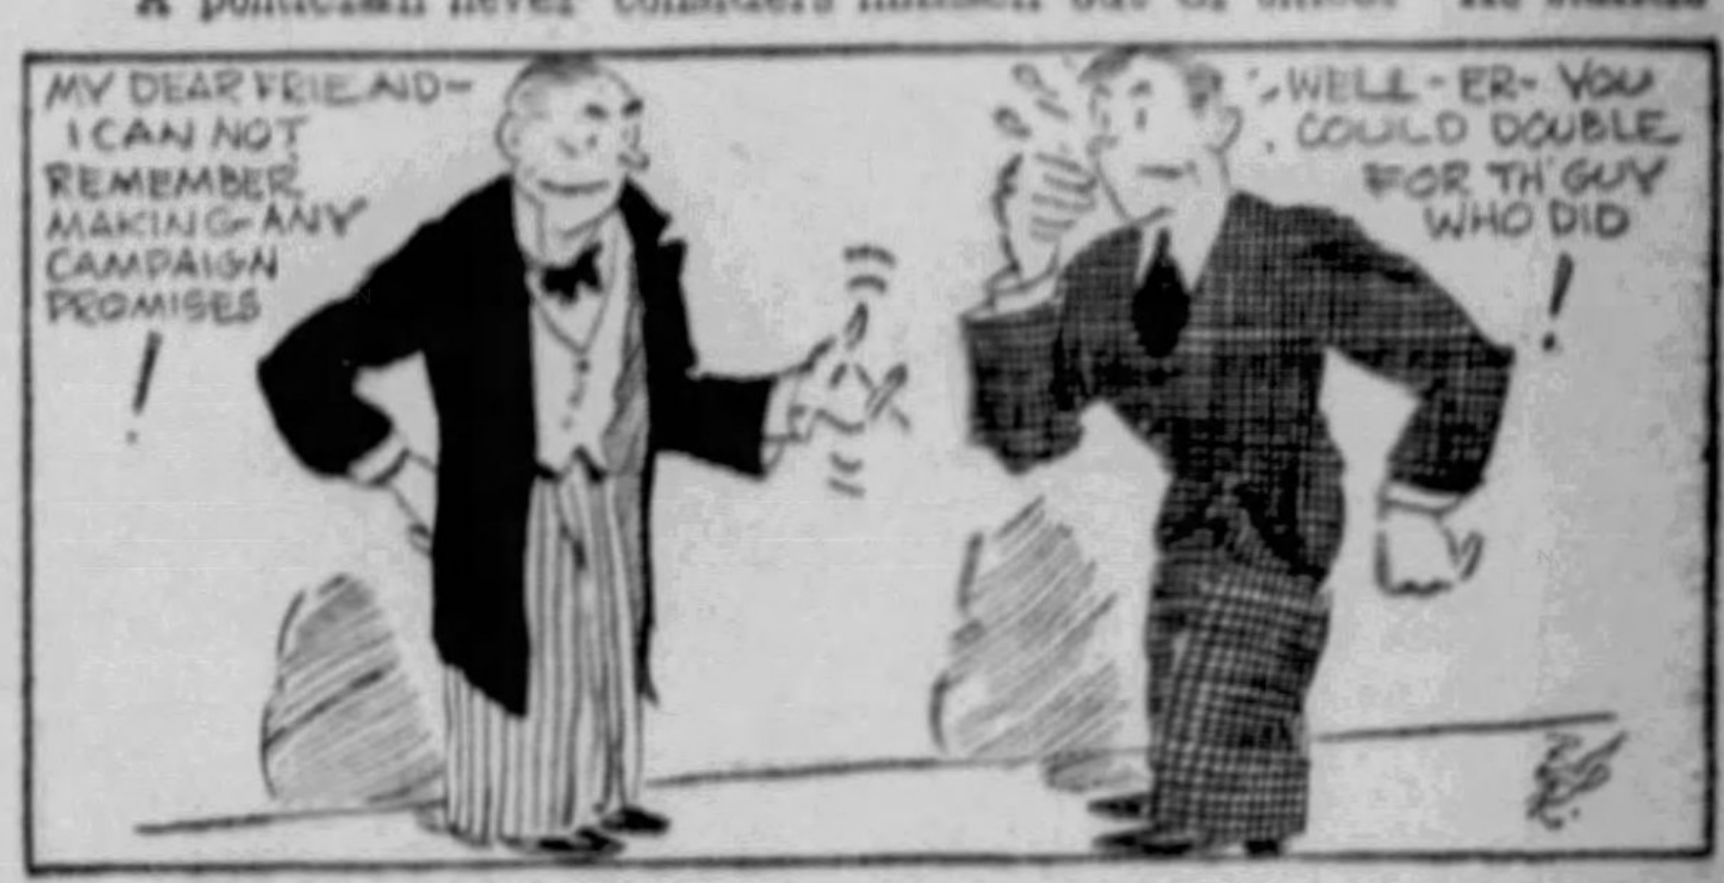
If we label the details correctly there was no politics in the election of our first President. Folks just said George was a good man for the job and George agreed.

But after he was elected the second time the folks said he was trying to make himself permanent in the office. They forgot it was their own idea in the first place.

They said if George is going to be king that would be bad. So they organized two political parties. Which is worse.

Since then there have always been two or more political factions. When one is in power the other mixes in and gums them up.

A politician never considers himself out of office. He stands by and looks at the ins and says, "They're all working. If I ain't working I must be the foreman."



MY DEAR FRIEND - I CAN NOT REMEMBER MAKING ANY CAMPAIGN PROMISES !
WELL - ER - YOU COULD DOUBLE FOR TH' GUY WHO DID !

So he makes speeches and writes articles denouncing the current administration and predicting dire happenings like a gypsy fortune teller on a bat.

Four years later he is back in office. So he makes a speech denouncing people who denounce people.

The predominating ingredient in the impending Democratic invasion is curiosity. Will the boys remember their campaign promises or will they plead political amnesia?

The last Republican administration is one hundred proof that it is better to enter office without slogans and promises. Just do the best you can.

Nobody ever got any wild turkey if they took a brass band along. The way to get results is to sneak up on 'em and let go with both barrels.

George made no promises to get the job. And we hope to see the day when we will be washed up on political parties and select a president because he is a good man.

Cause for Pride

Pittsburgh's Sturdy Banks, Asking No Favors, Reflect Good Management

It is a splendid tribute to Pittsburgh's banks that they did not ask for the emergency legislation limiting depositors' withdrawals, and, with one relatively small exception, are not seeking to avail themselves of it.

The legislation is meritorious, but it is a satisfaction to know that the local banks felt and continue to feel able to meet demands in the normal way.

Well Done, Mr. Park!

The District Attorney Has Shown Commendable Courage And Energy in the Monaca Club Case.

The people of Allegheny County are applauding District Attorney Andrew T. Park today for the Monaca Club indictments.

Mr. Park was slow in getting started, but, once in motion, he left nothing to be desired so far as the speed and aggressiveness with which he handled the case are concerned.

His courage, too, is not to be underestimated.

One of those indicted as an owner and operator of the notorious speakeasy and gambling house is Thomas Coyne, a brother of Senator James J. Coyne.

It takes courage for a public official who holds office through the votes of the people, and requires votes if he is to continue in official life, to run the risk of offending Senator Coyne.

For Senator Coyne is undoubtedly the most powerful figure in the Republican city and county organizations. Thousands vote as he bids. Even the Legislature is servile to him.

Hence, it may be thought that Park took his political life in his hands when he indicted Senator Coyne's brother.

But the Sun-Telegraph does not think so. The Sun-Telegraph believes that Park has gained more friends than he has lost by his procedure in this case.

Apart from the effect on Park's personal fortunes, which, after all, must be subordinate to the public welfare, the Monaca Club indictments are to be hailed with extreme gratification as evidence that no racketeers, no matter how influential their political connections, are big enough to get away indefinitely with such brazen defiance of law as has marked the career of the Monaca Club.

For months it has operated openly on Forbes street, within a stone's throw of the Oakland Police Station. Manifestly it has had police protection, AND MR. PARK'S NEXT DUTY IS TO FIND OUT WHO GAVE THE PROTECTION, AND FOR WHAT CONSIDERATION.

Still a Vital Question

Carnegie's Struggle With the Railroads Has a Bearing on Present-Day Conditions

Every Pittsburgher should read the installments of Burton J. Hendrick's "Life of Andrew Carnegie" appearing in today's and tomorrow's issues of the Sun-Telegraph, for they deal with a problem of vital importance to Pittsburgh — the railroads' unfair treatment of the city in the matter of freight rates.

In Carnegie's day the railroads threatened to strangle Pittsburgh as a steel center by giving Cleveland and Chicago much more favorable freight rates. How Carnegie fought the roads and brought them to terms makes an intensely interesting story.

We have the same problem today in our coal industry. A coal operator in the Pocahontas (Va.) field can ship coal to the Great Lakes at a rate of 4.5 mills per ton per mile. The Pittsburgh operator must pay 8.5 mills per ton per mile, or 88 per cent more. In other fields the Pittsburgh operator is similarly discriminated against.

Friendship for Mexico

Senator Borah Has Voiced a Noble Sentiment in Advancing Relief for Slain Boys' Families

As chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, Senator Borah performed a fine service to the nation when he called up from the calendar and passed through the Senate the House bill providing immediate relief for the families of those two Mexican college boys who were slain in the dark at Ardmore, Oklahoma, by two deputy sheriffs nearly two years ago.

As in the case of the House, the Senate adopted the unanimous recommendation of its committee and put the measure on its passage without a dissenting vote.

Both the Senate and the House, by enacting this remedial legislation, have demonstrated to Mexico and the world how sincerely the American people subscribe to the sentiment expressed by Senator Borah when he said regarding the relations of Mexico and the United States:

"God hath made us neighbors; let justice make us friends."

It was not within the power of the American Congress to right the wrong done to Mexico by the Ardmore slaying.

But the Congress has gone to the limit of its authority in attempting by this "act of grace" to remove the Ardmore tragedy as a source of irritation between the neighborly nations that the Rio Grande binds in love of liberty and a passion for justice.

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

1—A better, cleaner, more beautiful city
2—Rapid Transit
3—Repeal or modification of "blue law."
4—Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
5—Town Hall seating at least 15,000
6—Voting machines to insure honest elections
7—Development of river transportation.
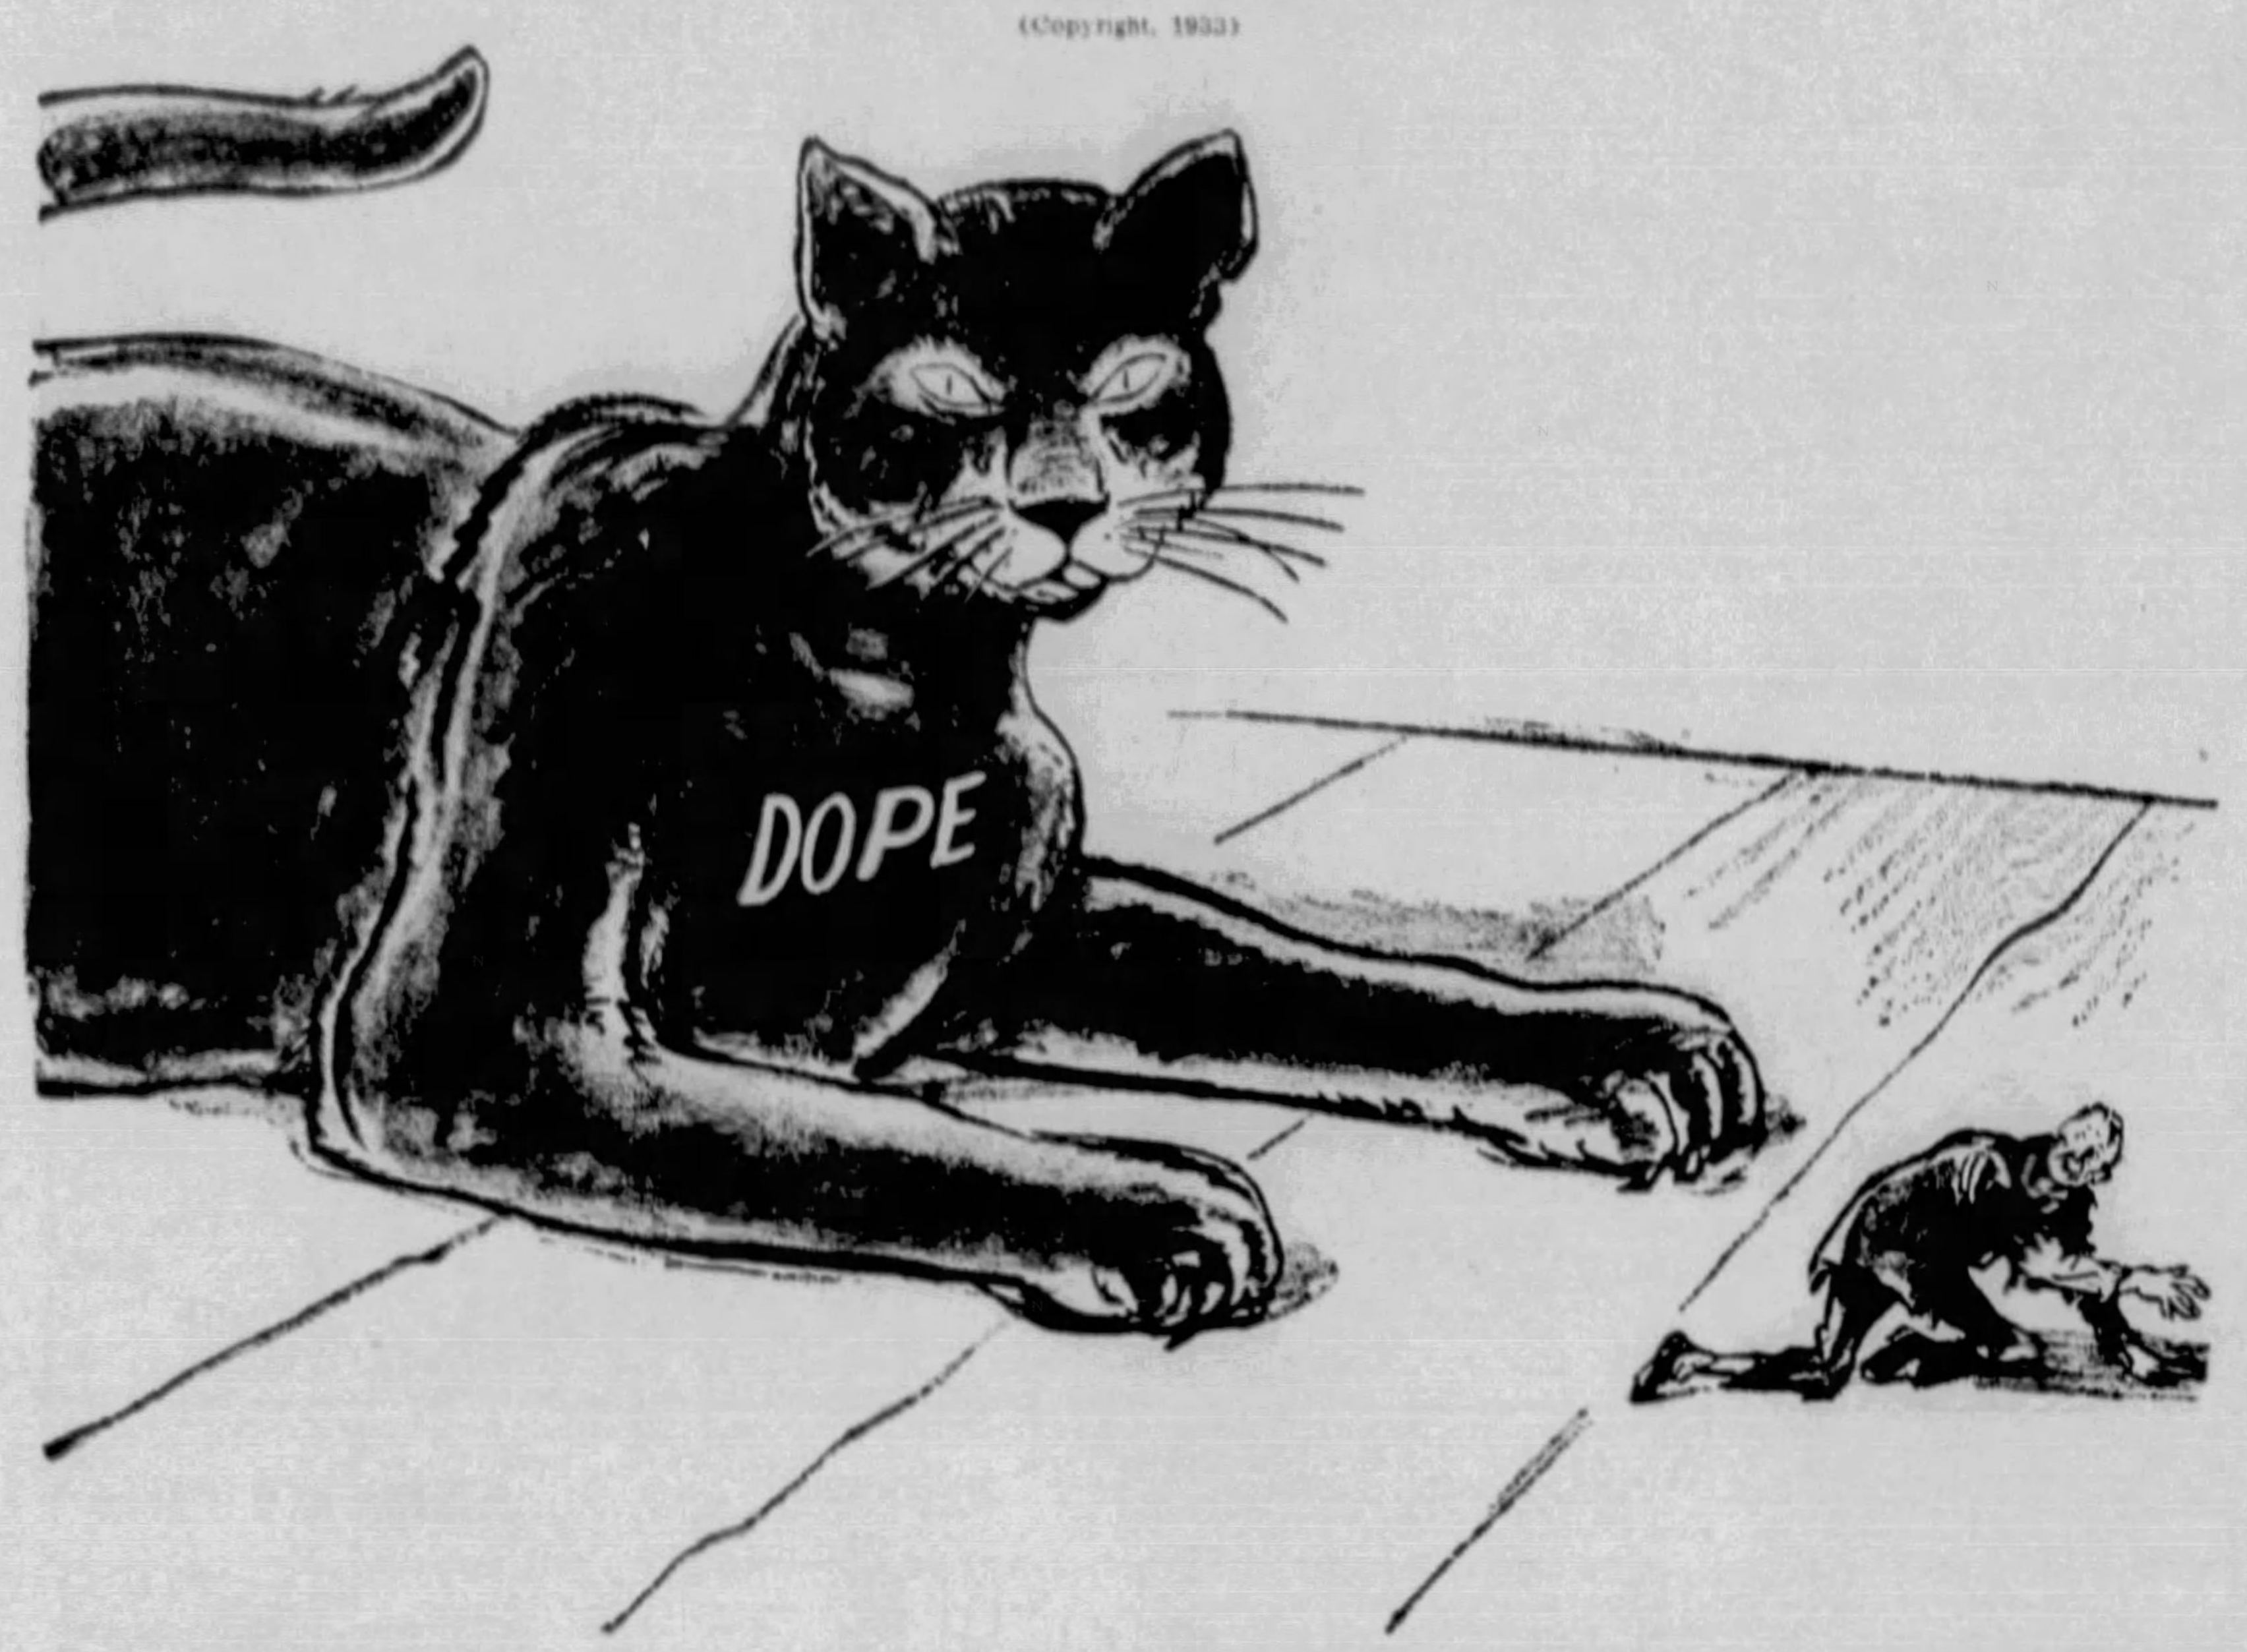
10—Fair public utility rates.

The Cat and the Mouse

(Copyright, 1933)



From Richmond Pearson Hobson, director of the campaign for international narcotic control, comes a grim warning of the increasing "Dope" menace that America must combat. In a statement to this newspaper, Capt. Hobson said:

"Japan has launched a huge narcotic drive against China and America. France is attacking America with huge quantities of smuggled heroin.

"The effect of this Japanese-French drug assault is more destructive than a military assault would be in time of war.

"America's safety demands that we put into action the whole police power of our people, reposing in the several states.

"At the present time, the state narcotic laws are in a most chaotic condition.

Consider Capt. Hobson's words. Observe the picture above, showing what "Dope" does to its victims.

Then ask your legislators to enact, as quickly as possible, the Uniform State Narcotic Law so necessary to stop this nefarious and murderous traffic.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

People who subject themselves to all sorts of exposure in order to create a better impression among those who will see them.

The small town man discarding overshoes he is in the habit of wearing, just because he is "in the city."

He thinks overshoes indicate he came from the sticks.

Then he dons a lighter weight overcoat because it is a better one when he is in the metropolis and wonders why he has a cold, if not something more serious, every time he visits the city.

Foolishness of this sort is usually attributed to women and they are more inclined to do things of this kind.

Of course it is true that few men in the city wear overshoes.

Pavements and sidewalks are kept clear of snow and ice and there is not the necessity for walking that there is in a smaller place.

But isn't it childish to subject yourself to conditions to which you are unaccustomed just for appearance sake and a little pride?

Why should you care what people think of you? Most of them wouldn't take time to notice you closely anyway.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 1.—What the carnival folk know as "mitt readers"—crystal gazers, coffee-ground and card seers—are finding stop-gaps for their long stretches of "at liberty" in tea rooms. Any number of them are offering "luncheon and a reading" for 65 cents.

Most of them are harmless charlatans, polished by rubbing with humanity in the rough. They have mastered the formula of reeling off unfailing attributes that go with certain characteristics. The rest is amiable pipe-dreaming only.

They perk up many drooping spirits, and no one is harmed particularly, as the fee is very small. Bill Rice, the veteran showman, who bills himself as an "amusement trader," tells me that show people are the best customers. And they invariably ask one question.

They want to know how it is possible to crash newspaper columns. Their profession has attuned them to the value of publicity. "Mitt readers" tell them that columnists are more responsive to advances "during a full moon." Perhaps, "a full dinner" would be better.

An acquaintance of Charles Frohman tells me that the Goliath of showmen had an unusual method of expressing affection for friends. Someone he had not seen for a long time was likely to receive a hurried scrawl such as this: "I awakened at 3 a. m. thinking of you and regretting I had not seen you for so long. This is written five minutes afterward as a reminder that I treasure your friendship, always." No wonder he bound people to him with hoops of steel.

* * *

Will H. Hays, for years, has used a similar method of cementing old-time friendships. From a train, steamer or where-not, those who may not have had contact with him in a long time will receive a cryptic wire: "Are you all right?—Bill."

* * *

In New York, more than any other city, runnels of friendship are likely to become clogged unless there's an understanding of contact complexities. After living here a number of years, one understands, but the newcomer often is piqued by what seems to be neglect. Sometimes, the warmest friends do not see each other for months, or even years.

During an earlier period, I spent several nights a week with Herb Roth, the caricaturist. Our paths diverged, with his removal to a suburb. Now we rarely run across each other more than once a year, yet we continue to exchange the same confidences that marked a more closely-knit acquaintance. When we meet, it is as though we had met only a few days before. That's as it should be, if one lives in this bewildering town. Or anywhere else, for that matter.

* * *

It was Herb Roth, whose shoulders are actually wider than Carnera's, who dropped into a family hotel where I was living, for dinner, one evening following an afternoon of canoeing on the Hudson. Wolfing a deckhand's order, I said rather hopefully: "Of course, you won't be having a dessert!" He boomed, while the entire dining room indulged in a fastidious shudder: "Won't I? Waiter, bring me a minute steak!" And, what's more, the glutton gulped it right down.

* * *

In those days, Robert Ripley occupied a studio around the corner in the 70s, with H. H. McClure. He was drawing sport cartoons for a now defunct evening paper, and, as much as we loved him, we thought he was merely a workmanlike artist, but without ideas. It so happened, then and now, he had more ideas than our entire gang of rowdies, with several thousand to spare.

* * *

Ripley was shy then, and, despite his acquired worldliness, blushes even today. Some day, I'd like to turn out an essay on "The Blush of Genius." Noel Coward, a capable fellow, but not the wonder boy he has been so extravagantly publicized, often blushes to the roots of his hair. Katharine Brush tingles a delightful pink, and Milton Bronner, loftiest-domed of European correspondents, is a chronic blusher.

* * *

As one of the tattered roses born to blush unseen, I have a carmine corpuscle or so. I can still flare red when Sunday morning loafers, catching me admiring myself in blinds-down windows, hoot from across the street.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"DO I REALLY LOVE HIM?"

"DO I REALLY LOVE HER?"

Questions like that from sighing sweethearts of 16 to 60. And who can give the answer?

Where's the laboratory that can weigh, measure, sift, strain, analyze and isolate this thing we call love—and determine whether it is true or counterfeit?

Nowhere. For love isn't as simple as that.

Even in its glamorous beginning, love isn't as simple as that. For love is not a definite phenomenon, with distinct, peculiar symptoms like the measles. Love is something for which we have been waiting—an answer, long delayed, to needs long pressing. (Sometimes, of course, it isn't an answer at all. But we think it is!) And those needs vary with every lover.

Love is the answer to one man's ravenous egotism—and to another man's gnawing humility. Love is a clutch at a star—or a surrender to a gutter. Love is an escape—or an adventure; a letting go—or a setting forth. Love is—what have you? What secret dream: what low or lovely desire? Love is the wish-fulfillment of your own wisdom or stupidity, kindness or cussedness.

That's why we get so excited when we fall in love. At last we're sure that there IS a Santa Claus—and that we've found him.

And that is also why we get so mad when love doesn't turn out as we thought it would. For, of course, it never does!

Love can't possibly turn out as we thought it would. For, no matter how intelligent we are, or how generous and unselfish, we're bound to think of love as a personal satisfaction; as an answer to our private problem. And before the rice has stopped pattering we make the amazing and disconcerting discovery that another human is involved with problems which are quite as real to him as ours are to us—and an equally strong determination to get them satisfied.

That is why love isn't so simple.

For, save in our dreams, we never Just Love; never see the loved one as The Perfect Answer. Never by any chance do "two souls become one." Each one stays complacently and definitely himself, or herself, and clamoring demands for his or her place in the sun. And all the while life goes on, with its opportunities and importunities, pushing love aside, demanding the right of way.

And so love is—ALL THAT EACH PERSON IS, AND ALL THAT EACH MOMENT HOLDS.

In the heat of the most impassioned kiss you're wondering if you turned off the gas stove! And even while he calls you His Morning Star, sister, he'd like to wring your neck because you're always late for appointments.

DO YOU REALLY LOVE EACH OTHER?

Who can tell!

In the space of an hour you can—

Bore each other to tears.

Be as indifferent to each other as a couple of loafers on a park bench.

Exasperate each other by your petty conceit.

Bewilder each other by your unreasonableness.

Fail each other through selfishness, cowardice, stupidity or deliberate betrayal—

AND YET, AT THE SAME INSTANT, BE WILLING TO GIVE YOUR LIVES FOR EACH OTHER.

And they call it love! Well, why not? Things being as they are, isn't it a great break to feel that there's someone, somewhere, who cares at all, even if it doesn't measure up to the movie patterns?

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

To a Portrait

I never pass along the hall
  And meet your proud and level gaze
But that I wish I might have walked
  With you, life's ways.

Something there is secure, serene,
  Untouched by threat of circumstance,
Something there is within your look
  Unawed by chance.

Could I, long tossed by every wind,
  Long swayed by every fleeting mood,
Have only put my hand in yours,

You lived a hundred years ago,
  A hundred years your dust has blown
Along the winds, or with the grass
  Been overgrown.

You lived a hundred years ago,
  Yet daily as I climb the stairs
You give me courage, for an hour to face life's cares!

Text for Today That ye might walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing, being fruitful in every good work, and increasing in the knowledge of God.—Colossians, i:10.

CHRIST IN OUR OWN IMAGE

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The Bishop of Liverpool, the Dean of Canterbury and the Moderator of the Church of Scotland have decided that Christ must be made over in their own image, or, as they put it, make him over to conform with what some people want today. Of course, they are not going to rewrite the Bible, but they propose to wipe out if possible these traditional pictures which show Christ as meek, tender, sympathetic, and make Him into a real "he-man."

That is what they mean, for they say specifically that they want to make Him more "masculine." As they put it:

Of course it must be embarrassing for the rulers of the earth just now to have the masses thinking of Christ as a Prince of Peace, or as one who represents humanity. As we look about the earth today and note the insanity of statesmen itching for war and slaughter, it is easy to believe that it would be advantageous to their plans were Christ pictured in a helmet, with a sword, and the scowl of Mars upon his face. "Virility," if you please. No sickly sentimentality on which is based the thought that Christ was the Prince of Peace.

Blood of Boys To Help Business.

A gentleman appeared before a congressional committee the other day with the suggestion that one way to lift the depression is to make a war. That, he said, would expand credit, and give an incentive to industry, and an opportunity for a few men to make vast sums of money. He neglected to add that it would also give an opportunity to slaughter millions of young men and thus help get rid of the unemployment problem.

In other words the impression conveyed is that it might help business if the blood of boys could be coined into dividends.

But he forgot something else—the fact that the last war has not been paid for; that the edifice of civilization is not yet sound because of the last war, and that we are not so sure that our civilization can survive, not the next war but the last. And since we cannot pay for the last war, where is the money coming from to pay for the next?

Statesmen Seem Bent on Bloodshed.

Not long ago Stanley Baldwin said that there is not an intelligent statesman in Europe who does not know that another great war would end in a tragedy similar to the fall of the Roman civilization. It does not require any super-intellect to see that. That is positive.

From which one might assume that the intelligent statesmen of Europe and the world would be concentrating on preserving the peace and on adopting policies making for peace. Any other assumption would mean that these statesmen, clear-eyed to eventualities, are working to bring about the destruction of civilization.

And yet as one looks about the world one is convinced that statesmen are stupid or worse; for everywhere the drums are beating. What asininity!

In Japan there is a determination for war—a war of conquest—which may very easily involve the world and not China alone. Among the great nations in the Old World, the one most prone to peace is Russia—where government has again crucified Christ. There is more sword rattling in the Christian nations. But Russia has a magnificent, well trained, well equipped army and is prepared to assert herself if necessary. That little war in the Far East may easily draw Russia in—if that is what the intelligent statesmen want.

But one war is not enough to satisfy statesmen who are so intelligent that they know another great war would wreck civilization. Italy and France still are at swords' points, and other nations are making their alignments. The shipment of arms to little, unfortunate Austria is thought by some to be meant for Hungary and to be in the interest of Italy, and so England and France send an ultimatum to Vienna. At which Italy bristles and speaks out. She wants to know why the exchange of armament involving France, Rumania, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia has attracted no comment.

Austria is a little country and now in a sad plight; but so was Serbia when another ultimatum gave the signal for the slaughter of twenty million men and boys, and the wrecking of the credit fabric of the world.

Drums Are Beating In South America.

War there, too!

The last war was so glorious that we don't want the battle fields confined to Europe in the next. There is nothing so picturesque as smoking villages and why not have them spread?

And so Colombia and Peru are going to war if "intelligent statesmen" can manage it.

And so Bolivia and Paraguay are now at war.

And Colombia and Peru are getting their case before the League of Nations, which we do not recognize, and it may make suggestions that do not conform to our concept of the Monroe Doctrine.

Exile at Doorn Gives Good Advice.

We are thinking of wars w "intelligent statesmen" would better employed thinking of manity and its pressing proble We have all the war we can st dealing with the unemploym problem of the nations. It i more brutal war even than last, which, in all conscience, w brutal enough. If we could or persuade "intelligent statesme to think a bit of that.

There is a statesman in retirement in a castle at Doorn who seems to have given it some thought. He concludes that unemployment, if long continued, is going to wreck us all. He even has the courage to say something about the substitution to an appalling degree of machine for man labor. And he has the queer notion that machinery is not so sacred as man. He even says that if labor-saving machine is to make it impossible for millions to live, it is the duty of statesmanship to so regulate the use of machinery as to make it possible for men to exist. He will not get much encouragement for that from the wise and the good. There is more profit for some in machinery than in human labor. We may be hopelessly stupid, but we are persuaded that there is real statesmanship in this comment of the Kaiser:

"If it be true that technics, and especially the machine, constitute a menace to our economic life (and the unemployment of today gives wide support to this conception), then it will prove necessary again to relegate the machine to the place it deserves as an auxiliary to human labor."

That need not mean the scrapping of the machine; it may mean a change in the number of work hours and days; it may even mean passing on some of the advantages of modern inventions to the workers. But intelligent statesmanship is too busy with wars to think on that. Senator Black has a bill pending covering this point, but it has not attracted much attention.

Christ of Peace Is Still Preferred.

I am writing this on a Sunday, which is said to be a holy day. Many people are going to church. I have been reading the papers—and they are full of wars and rumors of wars. And they report the plan of the good churchmen of England and Scotland to relegate the Christ of peace and humanity—which they think the Christ of "sentimentality"—for a more "virile" Christ.

A Christ with a steel helmet perhaps; with a sword perhaps; perhaps with a hand grenade—a Christ in our own image.

Somehow we prefer the "sentimental" Christ, who thought of children and the poor, and preached the gospel of "peace, good will toward men."

WHAT DO YOU KNOW?

By S. H. Connolly

Fill each blank:

1. "Thy rod and thy —— they comfort me." Bible.
2. "Nothing in his ——
   Became him like the leaving it." Shakespeare, "Macbeth."
3. "The tumult and the —— dies
   The captains and the kings depart,
   Still stands thine ancient sacrifice
   A humble and a contrite heart." Kipling, "Recessional Hymn."
4. "A mighty fortress is our——
5. "—— of Ages, cleft for me,
   Let me hide myself in thee." Augustus Toplady, "Living and Dying Prayer."

Do you know:

6. Who was the God who had a hundred eyes?
7. What singer was called the Swedish nightingale"?
8. What kind of an error is anachronism?
9. In what book is Dolly Varden a character?
10. What country is sometimes called the "Flowery Kingdom"?
11. Where are the Plains of Abraham?
12. What does the abbreviation "lb." literally stand for?
13. What has been known as a "lameduck Congress"?
14. What was the name of the Queen of Sheba who visited Solomon?
15. What does the term "Selah" mean?

1. Staff. 2. Life. 3. Shouting. 4. God. 5. Rock. 6. Argus. 7. Jenny Lind. 8. In computing time. 9. "Barnaby Rudge," Dickens. 10. China. 11. Heights near Quebec. 12. A contraction of libra, the Latin word for pound. 13. The short session which has followed the national election. 14. Probably Queen Balkis of the Sabeans. 15. Its meaning is unknown, occurring in the Psalms. It may be a direction for a pause to readers.
